CLOCK STOPPED; PREVENT CLOSE OF ASSEMBLY

Tax Bills Defeated by Late Ruse.

BULLETIN.

Springfield, Ill., July 1 (Saturday).—(Special.)—Unable to function, both houses of the general assembly adjourned at 12:41 a. m., standard time, until 10 a. m. A subsequent conference of leaders determined to let the members go home at once, to make the 10 o'clock session merely a skeleton one, at which the only question decided will be when the first business session will be held next week. No plans are formulated, but leaders are talking about resuming work next week or possibly later.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 1.—[Special.]—Although the first of July has arrived—the deadline set for final adjournment—the Fifty-eighth general assembly is still stumbling along in confusion.

Midnight arrived with the Republican minority putting up a carefully prepared battle against Democratic measures. With more experience behind them, they had the Democrats helpless.

The real cause of this situation was what some of the Democrats called the desertion of a half dozen of their senators, among whom was Richey V. Graham, who, as president pro tempore, was classified the "captain of the ship." Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan, president of the upper house, also left before business was concluded.

Stop Clocks in Houses.

The Republican plan of putting an end to action stopped the senate first. That chamber refused to concur in a house amendment and then the absentee difficulty was discovered across the hall. The senate clock was stopped at 11:50 standard time. A few minutes later the hands of the house timepiece were at a standstill. There were fisticuffs over this.

What was left of the Democratic majority was hopeless as well as helpless. Two hours earlier the representatives' hall was a scene of merry bedlam—singing, fireworks and practical jokes such as the hurling of pails of water. But now the jollity had disappeared.

Old-timers pronounced the situation "disgraceful" as they talked it over in the aisles and the runways. Republicans were quietly gloating over their seeming success in at last stopping their opponents, even if it was at the last minute. They were particularly jubilant over the signs that they had blocked final passage of the bill to give to the state tax commission exclusive jurisdiction in the assessment of the capital stock of corporations, only some of which are now in its province.

Mystery in Situation.

At this writing nobody knows just how many bills have been tied up. There is confusion and doubt about even some parliamentary questions. An effort was made in the senate for the adoption of a house joint resolution for approval of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution. It received eighteen votes. Some contended it had passed. Others insisted it was defeated. The law requires the affirmative vote of a majority — 26 votes—for ratification.

This sort of windup to an otherwise peaceful session was a shock to veteran observers, who, looking back over the history of the last six months, are still inclined, except for tonight's "disgraceful situation," to approve the record of the Fifty-eighth.

They are united in the opinion that the first Democratic assembly in many years finally got on its feet and scored a good average in accomplishing the things placed before it by Gov. Horner and the party leaders. They agree that it has been a thoughtful session, more free than some of its predecessors from whispers of corruption. And they say there has been less friction than usual. Not a single conference committee has been neces-

Seized as He Leaves Tavern with Friends

John [Jake the Barber] Factor was kidnaped early this morning in Morton Grove from the side of his son, Jerome, 19 years old, victim himself of a $50,000 abduction plot only two months ago.

The kidnaping occurred in Dempster street at Harms road, a few moments after Factor and a party of friends, including Attorney Al Epstein, were leaving The Dells roadhouse. At least four, and perhaps ten gunmen did the job.

For hours the abduction was shrouded in mystery. Because of a chain of peculiar incidents, suburban police investigating early reports, were unable for hours to learn definitely that Factor had been seized. Shortly before dawn this morning Attorney Epstein, who had been seized by the hoodlums with Factor, verified the abduction. At daylight Epstein was busy organizing friends in a search for the former Halsted street barber.

"Do whatever they tell you, for God's sake," pleaded Factor of Epstein as the pair were driven off, Epstein said later.

Story of the Kidnaping.

The kidnaping occurred shortly after midnight. Factor, his son, Jerome, Epstein, and a half dozen other friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Redlich, and their son, Charles Jr., 19 years old, of the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln Park West, had spent several hours at The Dells. They left in three cars. Factor, his son, and Epstein were in one. Redlich and another youth drove in another, and the women members of the party drove in the third.

Less than two blocks from The Dells Factor's car, driven by Jerome, was forced to the side of Dempster street. The car containing the women also stopped. Young Redlich and his companion were ahead, having been leading the way, and these two were unaware of what was happening. As Factor's and the women's cars came to a stop a band of men surrounded them. They carried shotguns, and were masked.

"There he is," said one of the men, indicating Factor.

Drag Factor from Car.

The kidnapers dragged Factor and Epstein from their car as Factor's son, alongside him, and his wife, Relia, in the other car looked on in terror. Mrs. Mildred Epstein, the attorney's wife, sitting beside Mrs. Factor, sat bewildered.

The two men were shoved into one of the gunmen's three cars and blindfolded. Mrs. Epstein and Mrs. Factor and their chauffeur were ordered "to to get along." Then the hoodlums sped away, east in Dempster street. Half a mile down the road they ejected Epstein, warning him to keep his mask on for several minutes or he would be killed.

"I stood on the side of the road for several minutes, then took off my mask," Epstein related later. "I waited until a motorist came by and he picked me up. Then I came to my hotel."

Two Boys Miss Kidnaping.

The Redlich boy and his companion, Epstein's young son, had just missed the kidnaping. Driving ahead of the rest of their party, they were stopped by two Niles Center policemen for speeding. They urged the policemen to hurry up in giving them a ticket, not wanting their parents to know of their arrest. The policemen, after writing out a summons, proceeded along the road and met the women who first told them of the kidnaping.

The policemen began an immediate search for the kidnapers, without bothering to get the women's names. At The Dells, where they first inquired, Sam Hare, manager, denied, as he did later to newspaper reporters, that Factor had been kidnaped.

Await Ransom Demand.

Chicago police were notified. The Factor kidnaping, it is feared, may have more serious complications than that of his son, Jerome. Jerome was released after being a captive for eigt days without, according to his father, the payment of any part of the $50,000 ransom demanded. It is believed that a much heavier ransom will be asked for Factor's safe return.

Factor is at present engaged in a fight before the United States Supreme court to escape extradition to England on a financial swindle charge involving many millions of dollars.

Rumbling and clattering down the avenue of Chicago's front yard to crash of aerial bombs, a strange and handsome parade, which heralded THE TRIBUNE'S four days of American Air Races, enlivened life in the loop yesterday afternoon.

If the huge turnout for that engaging spectacle is a true sign of the public's interest in up to the minute aviation then every one of the 41,000 seats in the grand stands which THE TRIBUNE has built at Chicago airport will be occupied when races, air combats, parachute jumping, and stunt flying begin at 1 o'clock today.

Thrills Galore Here.

Here is a list of outstanding sensations in a program that lasts till 6 this evening:

HOLIDAY LINER BEER SEIZED; IS OVER 10 PER CENT

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Customs inspectors seized and carried off forty-five barrels of German beer from the United States liner Washington today.

The beer was discovered in the meat refrigerators by inspectors. The alcoholic content proved to be more than 10 per cent. The beer was intended for 950 tourists who are sailing tomorrow on the Washington for a Fourth of July cruise.

Deputy Surveyor John H. McGill explained that vessels flying the American flag were not allowed to bring beer with an alcoholic content of more than 3.2 per cent into port even under seal.

Andrew Bork, 41 years old, 1512 Wabansia avenue, was slightly injured early this morning when he drove his car over a 25 foot embankment at Aubert avenue and plunged into the north branch of the Chicago river. The car was half submerged. Bork freed himself and climbed the embankment. He was given first aid at the Ravenswood hospital.

McGeoghegan Is Convicted; Gets 25 Years

Plymouth, Ind., June 30.—[Special.]—Daniel McGeoghegan, one of the toughest of Chicago's gangsters and long a power there in the beer business on the south side, was convicted of bank robbery by a jury in the Marshall county Circuit court here tonight. His punishment was fixed at twenty-five years in the state penitentiary, but he will be eligible for parole at the end of fourteen years and eleven months.

The jurymen, to whom the case was given by Judge Albert Chipman at 10:50 p. m., deliberated just an hour before returning the verdict.

Raided Bank at Culver.

McGeoghegan was one of six men who raided the State Exchange bank of Culver on May 29. After seizing $16,000 they fled to the swamps surrounding Bass lake. Pursuing them were posses of volunteers who had been drilled for such emergencies under the direction of Capt. A. A. Obenhauf of the Culver Military academy.

In a battle with the citizens one of the bandits, later identified as Joseph Switalski, a former Chicago policeman, was shot to death. The others surrendered. Four, Jack Gray, Eddie Murphy, John Gorman and Morris Cohen, were found guilty on Tuesday of the robbery. Cohen was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and the other three to twenty-five years.

McGeoghegan demanded a separate trial. Although several witnesses identified him as the member of the robber band who carried a machine gun, he testified he was not in the stickup, and Gray, brought to testify in his behalf, swore he had never seen the gangster.

Tried with Fernekes.

In 1926 McGeoghegan and Henry [Midget] Fernekes were tried in Chicago for the murder of Michael Swiontkowski, treasurer of a building and loan society, during an $11,000 holdup. Both were convicted and sentenced to death, but on appeal the Illinois Supreme court ordered a new trial and they were acquitted.

Again, in June, 1932, McGeoghegan was tried in Chicago for a $60,000 robbery of the State Bank of Clearing. The jury disagreed.

Secretary Woodin Ill; Kept Indoors Ten Days

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury, has been ill at his home in East 67th street for two weeks and has not been able to leave the apartment for ten days, it was learned today. Orders have been issued that he is not to be disturbed, but beyond that no information could be obtained at the apartment. The nature of his illness has not been disclosed.

FAIR AND BETTER TIMES INCREASE MARRIAGES HERE

It might have been the World's Fair with its opportunity for romance or perhaps the fact that better times are back which sent the marriage license business in the county building skyrocketing the last month. Peter Dalton, deputy county clerk, said 447 more licenses were issued during June than in the same month in 1932. The total this June was 3,750 couples.

"I expect the World's Fair had something to do with it," Dalton said. "I would say probably a third of the licenses were for out of town folks. This morning a man from Tampa, Florida, and his sweetheart, who had just come over from Hungary, got a license. A lot of visitors decided the Fair would be a good place to spend a honeymoon."

During the first six months of 1933 the total number of licenses issued was more than during the same period the preceding year. So far this year 14,223 licenses have been issued, against 13,470 in 1932.

2 CENT POSTAGE FOR LOCAL MAIL IN EFFECT TODAY

Beginning today the postage rate for first class mail for local delivery is to be 2 cents an ounce or fraction thereof, instead of 3 cents, as the result of recent legislation passed by congress.

Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder explained that the 2 cent rate would apply only to mail deposited in the Chicago postoffice district for delivery in that district, which includes Cicero and the rural routes emanating from Norwood Park. If mail is deposited in Chicago for delivery in Evanston, Oak Park, Berwyn, Blue Island and other suburbs which have their own postoffices, or deposited in those suburbs for delivery in Chicago, the rate will still be 3 cents.

Postal officials have expressed the opinion that the lower rate will restore a large volume of business lost when the 3 cent rate was adopted a year ago.

Hangs Self at Home of His Benefactors

Joseph Hoft, 22 years old, hanged himself yesterday on the rear porch of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bochardy, 2744 Evergreen avenue, his benefactors. Last February Mr. Bochardy found Hoft warming himself in the alley over a small rubbish fire. Mr. Bochardy gave him a home. Since then Hoft had sought work every day. He failed. He brooded over this and over the fact he was an orphan without relatives. Yesterday while the Bochardys were away, he ended his life.

25 Seaplanes and 100 Men to Visit Fair

BULLETIN.

STRASBOURG, France, July 1 (Saturday.) — (AP) — The Chicago-bound squadron of Italian seaplanes were escorted along the French frontier from a point near Basel, Switzerland, to Haguenau, France, today by 20 French military planes. The Italians were flying high when they passed Strasbourg at 9:55 a. m. (4:55 a. m. Chicago time.)

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ORBETELLO, Italy, July 1 [Saturday].—Italy's air armada of 25 seaplanes, manned by a crew of 100 men, skipped off the lagoon of Orbetello's airport at 5:45 a. m. [11:45 p. m. Friday, Chicago daylight savings time] today for Chicago. At the head of eight squadrons of three planes each was Gen. Italo Balbo, Italy's 37 year old minister of air, who is carrying the compliments of his nation to A Century of Progress Exposition.

[The 25th plane on the flight will go as far as Iceland. In case any ship is forced to drop out, this extra seaplane will take its place].

As the air fleet roared northwest toward Amsterdam, Holland, on the first lap of the 6,100 mile dash the planes were marshaled into triangular formation.

The armada's route stretches first over the Alps and thence across the ice clogged seas of the North Atlantic between Iceland and Labrador. Gen. Balbo hopes to reach Chicago in less than six days. It is the first formation flight over the Alps and over the North Atlantic.

Hints at World Flight.

"Where to next, general?" Balbo was asked on the docks of the airport just before the takeoff.

Plans for the flight to Chicago long had been completed. But for more than three weeks the airmen had been held up first by reports that Sandwich Bay, their base on the Labrador coast, was clogged with ice, and then by stormy weather over the Alps on the first, and in some respects the most perilous lap of their flight.

Shortly after midnight the final check on weather was received by wireless. The reports were favorable. With all indications pointing to perfect flying weather, Gen. Balbo ordered his flyers to bed at 10:15 o'clock last night.

"Stand by at 4 a. m.!" he commanded.

Balbo looked worn and nervous as a result of the long waiting. Dark circles were under his eyes.

Motors Hum at Dawn.

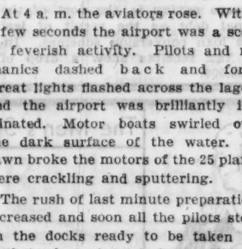

At 4 a. m. the aviators rose. Within a few seconds the airport was a scene of feverish activity. Pilots and mechanics dashed back and forth. Great lights flashed across the lagoon and the airport was brilliantly illuminated. Motor boats swirled over the dark surface of the water. As dawn broke the motors of the 25 planes were crackling and sputtering.

The rush of last minute preparations increased and soon all the pilots stood on the docks ready to be taken out to their planes in motorboats. Visitors were refused admittance to the port, Gen. Balbo requesting well-wishers to reserve their compliments until the armada's return.

Balbo Addresses Pilots.

Gen. Balbo marshaled all pilots in final formation. He addressed them briefly and the argonauts of the air then were taken to their planes. At 4:40 a. m. all were in their machines ready for the takeoff. It was a beautiful dawn. The coast was streaked with red. When the last man was reported in his plane, Gen. Balbo boarded a motorboat and chugged out

BANKERS AGREE TO KEEP DOLLAR AT STEADY RATE

U. S. Reserve to War on Speculation.

Moley Approves Plan

LONDON.—Prof. Moley, adviser to President Roosevelt, accepts formula for central banks to exercise control over exchange fluctuations and halt raid on franc. Urges President Roosevelt to approve plan.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

New York, June 30.—Plans for a temporary "steadying" of the dollar in the foreign exchange markets as a means of saving the world economic conference have been definitely adopted. They will be put into operation by the Federal Reserve bank in conjunction with foreign central banks in such a manner as to leave the federal government's hands free in the furtherance of its domestic recovery program.

This program, which became known in banking circles here today, does not imply stabilization or pegging of the dollar at any definite level with relation to other currencies at present. Its primary purpose is to put an end to the violent fluctuations in the dollar which have occurred in the foreign exchange markets of the world since the London conference began.

See U. S.-British Tieup.

The first reaction to the operation of the plan, it was indicated, will be to bring into closer relationship this country and England with regard to their respective plans for their currencies. This might mean, it was asserted in financial circles here, that when the time for stabilization comes England and America would be prepared to act more in unison.

President Roosevelt has remained firm in his refusal to allow any program for currency stabilization at London to interfere with his domestic recovery program and, in permitting the temporary currency control to be placed in the hands of the central banks, this purpose has been met, it was emphasized. Under the plan the United States government has given up none of its prerogatives and made no agreements which might later become incompatible with the internal program.

Requires No New Credits.

The mechanics of the operation of the "steadying" of the dollar fluctuations in terms of other leading currencies will not require the establishment of elaborate new credits, nor will it, of course, call for any movement of gold. One banker described the probable operations under the plan as "mainly bookkeeping." In the opinion of bankers, the result could be accomplished in three ways:

First, by making the objective so clear as to discourage unwarranted speculation such as has taken place since the London economic conference began. Not only would out and out speculators be "put on notice" but exporters and importers would not be put to the extremity of seeking to protect their position by engaging in unusual activity in the foreign exchange markets.

Control of Exchange Operations.

Second, by control of exchange operations both here and abroad on a greater scale than at present. This would call for stricter scrutiny of all applications for the purchase of foreign exchange, with the exclusion of all transactions not in the interests of legitimate trade.

Third, by the synchronized buying and selling for foreign exchange by the federal reserve and the leading European central banks. If this method is eventually employed the transfers need not necessarily be intricate, since, in the opinion of foreign exchange experts, the more simplified the transactions are the greater will be the eventual effect on the market.

ROOSEVELT STANDS PAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S PARTY, CAMPOBELLO ISLAND, N. B., June 30.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt is opposed to American participation in governmental stabilization of world currencies at this time. He feels that under present conditions stabilization must be taken care of by private banking interests, here and in Europe. This was the policy disclosed here as dispatches went out over the official wires, on their way to inform the anxious nations of the so called "gold bloc," that the United States was not yet ready to join in fixing an international gold standard of exchange.

The word transmitted from the President's vacation home on this Canadian island constituted an answer to inquiries which have been coming in in increasing number ever since the arrival of the Presidential party yesterday.

Denies MacDonald Appeal.

Reports that the President had received a personal appeal from Premier MacDonald of Great Britain for American coöperation in a stabilization program, were denied by the President himself. But this answer did not preclude the probability that such an appeal from abroad was conveyed to the President through indirect diplomatic channels.

The President does not admit that there have been "gyrations" in the rate of foreign exchange, such as have been described in representations from Europe. In terms of foreign currencies, the dollar has been sliding downward. And the deduction to be made was that the President is satisfied for the time being to let the dollar keep on sliding, and to let the foreign nations—meaning France and Great Britain—continue their efforts to peg the dollar at a price high enough to be to their advantage.

Gold Restrictions Stand.

How the private bankers are to achieve even temporary stabilization was not made clear. What was made clear was that the present restrictions on gold transactions are not to be lifted, and that no agreements must be made which would in any way commit the American government.

The President's views are in decided contrast to the beliefs which have been expressed by foreign delegates to the London conference, who have insisted that stabilization of exchange is the cornerstone of all efforts to rebuild the world's economic structure. As President Roosevelt sees it, a very definite degree of economic and fiscal stability must be achieved abroad before the governments can attempt currency stabilization with any chance of success.

Seen as Retort to Debtor Nations.

This point of view holds that the United States budget—unlike certain foreign budgets and that of Japan in particular—is in sight of a balanced state, albeit a paper balance and perhaps a precarious one. It holds that, while other governments have talked largely about raising prices, the American government is the only one that has taken positive legislative steps to achieve such a higher price level. It holds in other words that this is the only country seeking inflation in which factors such as unbalanced war budgets demands, and lack of economic policy do not threaten a resort to uncontrolled inflation and the destruction of any stabilization agreement which might now be entered upon.

Further, the policy of the administration made known today is interpreted as a direct retort to the action of the European debtor nations who defaulted on or paid only part of the June 15 war debt installments. There is seen also in the President's policy a willingness to pay in kind for the tactics of other nations, France especially, which has argued that their gold stocks were held by a private central bank when demands were made upon its government, and which has argued that the government controlled the central banks when private banking agreements were sought.

Starts for Washington Today.

Discussion of the international monetary situation intruded upon a day otherwise devoted by President Roosevelt to recreation and relaxation. Weather permitting, the President is to go aboard the U. S. S. Indianapolis tomorrow afternoon for the return trip to Washington. Should a fog that settled down this afternoon persist the journey back to the capital may be made on one of the two destroyers which accompanied the Amberjack II on her cruise north.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt were hosts this noon at a picnic luncheon on the beach in front of the big, rambling cottage which is their summer home here. Among the hundred guests was Gov. Lewis J. Brann of Maine. Later a delegation of Eastport citizens, headed by the mayor, crossed the bay to the Canadian side to pay their respects.

Moley Accepts Plan to Halt Raid on Franc; Urges Pres. Roosevelt to Approve Formula

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—After a feverish day of conferences and backstair negotiations, a formula was evolved tonight which was designed to save the world economic conference from an immediate breakup.

The formula was framed by the British, reluctantly agreed to by the French and other delegations from the remaining gold standard countries, and finally approved by Prof. Raymond Moley, President Roosevelt's economic expert and personal envoy. Then it was cabled to President Roosevelt with Prof. Moley's recommendation that the President approve it. Europe now is awaiting President Roosevelt's decision to determine the fate of the conference.

Terms of Proposed Pact.

The proposed agreement contains the following provisions:

1. That all countries now off the gold standard shall return eventually to the gold standard.

2. That there shall be established eventually a definite fixation of ratios of currencies to gold and of currencies to each other.

3. That all countries shall undertake to prevent abnormal speculative fluctuations in their respective currencies.

At American headquarters it was explained that the proposed currency truce envisages coöperation among the federal reserve board of the United States and the European central banks to curb speculation in foreign exchange, to which is generally attributed the recent wild fluctuations in the dollar quotations.

Reserve System Has Authority.

The American reserve bank system, it was pointed out, possesses authority to employ its resources to confine currency fluctuations within a comparatively narrow range. A precipitate drop of the dollar exchange, for example, could be quickly halted by the reserve banks obtaining a permit from the treasury to export gold.

Prof. Moley gave his approval to the formula after conferences with Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and Georges Bonnet, French finance minister and acting chief of the French delegation, at which he was persuaded that only the acceptance of some such declaration by the American government would avert a breakup of the conference.

The French are threatening to withdraw from the parley, asserting that it is futile to continue consideration of tariff reductions and abandonment of quotas and other trade restrictions so long as currencies remain unstable.

What really actuated the French was fear that a continued fall in the value of the dollar would drag France off the gold standard in a short time. The French pressed the British for a declaration upholding the gold standard and MacDonald pressed Moley to agree to a formula that would appease the French.

The formula, which was prepared by Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, was submitted to Moley at the American embassy this afternoon by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British financial adviser, and Bonnet.

Moley approved and cabled it to President Roosevelt together with comment pointing out that it would not tie the hands of the President in any important degree in carrying out his domestic program of recovery. While curbing extreme fluctuations in the dollar exchange, it would not operate to influence the long term trend of the value of the dollar downward, which is the objective of the Roosevelt administration as a means of raising commodity prices.

French Envoys Agitated.

The French delegation's headquarters at the Savoy hotel tonight was like an army general headquarters at the most crucial moment of a big offensive.

Journalists and delegates were milling around in suspense, couriers were dashing off in all directions, telephones were jangling incessantly. Bonnet, who had planned to leave for Paris this afternoon, put off his departure until 8 o'clock in order to participate in drafting the formula.

At 8 o'clock he changed his mind again and did not leave until 11 o'clock. He remained until that time in hopes of hearing the response from President Roosevelt before his departure. He went directly from 10 Downing street to the station.

French Seek Temporary Relief.

The French cannot believe that the formula in the innocuous form submitted to President Roosevelt can be rejected. The importance they attach to its acceptance, however, was indicated by Bonnet when he declared that "If Washington answers 'no,' it is all over with the conference."

Though they clearly realize that the resolution does not bind the United States even to temporary stabilization of the dollar, the French think it will be useful in curbing speculation against the gold currencies.

Above all, it is essential to Premier Daladier's government to show the public that the French delegation is putting up a determined fight for the gold standard. With the French chamber of deputies going on a holiday in less than ten days, Daladier's position will be greatly strengthened if there is even a temporary lull in speculation against the franc—which is about the best most of the French delegation expect from the formula.

The delegates' day began at 10 a. m., when Prime Minister MacDonald went into conference at the Geological museum with representatives of the British dominions. During this conference the mysterious Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, was seen to dash from a taxi to an elevator and disappear somewhere on the upper floors of the museum. Whether he saw MacDonald or not was not disclosed.

Then came a gathering of the gold bloc, France, Holland, Belgium, and Switzerland, to whom are now added Poland and Italy, both of which are nominally on the gold standard but are not too certain about it. British representatives were also at this meeting, which had been called to discuss the phrasing of the proposal to be put before President Roosevelt. The meeting had not been in session long before Prof. Moley arrived.

After another hour or so this conference broke up and it was announced it would meet again at 4 p. m. At 4 there was no sign of any meeting. Delegates came and went mysteriously and none would tell what was holding up the conference. It was understood, however, that there had been a hitch in drafting the proposal so as to suit the British and also the French. The former wanted something innocuous enough to satisfy President Roosevelt and the latter wanted to pin down the nations to return to the gold standard and to immediate stabilization of exchanges.

Arrive at Formula.

During one of these huddles Prof. Charles Rist, assistant governor of the Bank of France, came out and said, "Maybe we have accomplished something, maybe not." Then it was learned that a meeting had been called at 10 Downing street for 6 o'clock.

The 6 o'clock meeting was attended by Prof. Moley. He was the sole American representative. The final drafting of the formula was completed there. About 7 o'clock Moley left Downing street to cable the proposal to President Roosevelt. Another meeting was called for 10 o'clock in an optimistic hope that a reply would be received by then. At 10 o'clock every one turned up but Moley.

What happened inside at 10 Downing street is unknown, but on the sidewalk representatives of more than 100 of the world's newspapers were waiting to hear the result. Finally the meeting broke up and word was whispered around, "nothing doing, no answer."

1,500 CHECKER CAB MEN VOTE FOR '15-5' RATE

Fifteen hundred Checker taxi drivers voted in a massmeeting early this morning to operate their cabs at a rate of 15 cents for the first third of a mile and 5 cents for each third of a mile thereafter. The meeting was held in Walsh's hall, Milwaukee avenue and Noble street. Nate Berman presided. The 1,500 men represented a majority of company drivers.

By acclamation the drivers agreed on the new rate, which is lower than that of "20 and 10" recently ordered by the city council. They likewise agreed to place posters telling of the new rate on their cabs immediately. The rate ordered by the city council provided 20 cents for the first half mile and 10 cents for each succeeding half mile.

At 10 o'clock this morning a large delegation of the drivers will march on company headquarters at Jackson boulevard and Loomis street to get officials to come to terms.

SOKOL HELD TO JURY

Michael M. Sokol, president of the Checker Cab company, who was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green on five charges of larceny by bailee, was released from the county jail last evening in bonds of $5,000. The larceny charges against Sokol are the result of stories told in Judge Green's Traffic court by Checker Cab company drivers, who testified that Sokol and other officials had seized their cabs.

After gaining his release from jail Sokol was taken to the detective bureau, where he surrendered on two charges of conspiracy to commit larceny. The conspiracy warrants were also issued by Judge Green. Surrendering with Sokol on the conspiracy charges were George McDonald, vice president of the Checker company, and James Evoy, a road superintendent for the company. They were freed at 8 o'clock last evening after they had posted bonds of $5,000 each. The bonds were furnished by John J. Dickson, 1180 Sedgwick street, who said he is a city employé.

Brooks Approves Bonds.

The conspiracy bonds were approved by Municipal Judge J. William Brooks, who on Thursday admitted the same trio to bail before they had been served with warrants in a similar case. By this procedure the cab officials were able to avoid a trip through the police bureau of identification, where prisoners are fingerprinted. Although Sokol escaped this procedure Thursday, he was forced to undergo it yesterday before he was taken to the county jail.

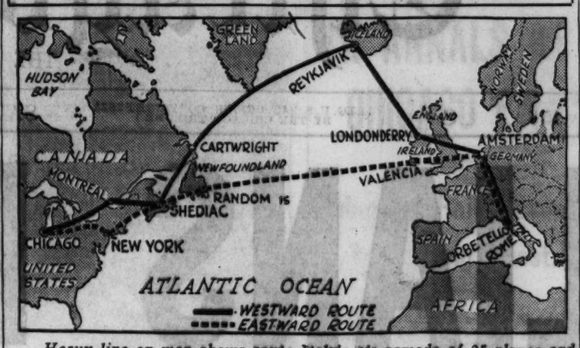

Judge Green also issued fifteen assault and battery warrants yesterday for alleged employés of the cab company, who, it was charged, had slugged cab drivers. The judge instructed Police Lieutenant James Conlisk to furnish guards for the complaining drivers whenever they are called on to identify the sluggers.

Sokol was represented in Traffic court by Attorney L. E. Hart, who requested a change of venue when the larceny by bailee case was called. Judge Green asked Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek whether Attorney Hart had served him with notice of the petition for a change of venue. Papanek replied in the negative.

"Your petition is denied," Judge Green informed Hart. "This is only a preliminary hearing and final jurisdiction does not rest with me."

He then called to the witness stand Nathan Rubenstein, 1001 Sunnyside avenue, who testified that he had paid $1,500 for his cab and that at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning it was taken away from him.

ITALIANS BEGIN FLIGHT TO CHICAGO

Heavy line on map shows route Italy's air armada of 25 planes and 100 men is following on a flight to A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago. The flyers, who hopped from Orbetello, Italy, are headed for Amsterdam. The itinerary calls for stops at Londonderry, Ireland; Reykjavik, Iceland; Cartwright, Labrador; Shediac, N. B.; Montreal, and Chicago. The dotted line shows the tentative route of the return hop.

to the end of the line, where his seaplane, piloted by young Col. Stefano Cagna, was swinging at anchor with its motor humming.

The deafening roar made by the 50 motors, each of 880 horse power, had long since awakened the town of Orbetello. Most of the population was lined up along the old Spanish walls of the town which skirt the lagoon.

A few moments later Gen. Balbo gave the signal to start. His seaplane burst into a tremendous roar and spluttered across the lagoon, churning up white patches in its wake. Then it taxied back and Col. Cagna swung around and banked over the airport not more than 45 feet in the air. The ship nosed into a south wind as it soared over the promontory of Monte Argentario and turned up the coast toward Genoa.

Five Men in Balbo's Plane.

There were five men in Balbo's plane, the air minister, Col. Cagna, Maj. Pezzani, Capt. Capaninni, and Radio Sergt. Barti. The latter transmits the orders which control the formation.

One by one the other seaplanes took off. In about 20 minutes all were in the air. As the planes disappeared over Monte Argentario they looked like a departing swarm of insects.

The planes droned up the coast at a speed of about 125 miles an hour, the eight squadrons formed one huge triangle made up of smaller triangular groups of three in a sort of fan shaped group.

The fleet was expected over Genoa about an hour later. From Genoa their route lies over Milan, thence over the Spluegen pass of the Alps on the Austrian side of Switzerland. The flyers were due to cross the Alps about three hours after leaving here and perform the unusual feat of lifting their heavy planes to a height of 12,000 feet.

Amsterdam First Stop.

From Spluegen pass, the flyers will drift down to Basel and thence down the Rhine over Strasbourg and Cologne to Amsterdam. They expect to reach Amsterdam in 6½ hours. Tomorrow the planes will take off for Londonderry, Northern Ireland, if weather conditions permit. It is possible that they might fly straight to Iceland, which would be a 12 hours' voyage.

HURRICANE KILLS 11 IN TRINIDAD; HOMES IN RUINS

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad, June 30.—(AP)—Eleven lives were lost in Tuesday's hurricane, said belated reports reaching Port-of-Spain from southern Trinidad today. The storm left thousands homeless in a score of villages, destroying houses and causing havoc in the oil fields and cocoa plantations.

On the northern side of the island the people were in ignorance of the terrible fate of their countrymen. Nearly all telephone connections with the southwest and southeast sections were broken the night of the storm and it was not until last night that reports of the widespread damage reached here.

Even today it was impossible to estimate the losses, but the fate of Erin, where 300 homes were destroyed, was taken as an indication of the predicament of the people over a wide area. Gov. Sir A. Claud Hollis ordered the steamer St. Patrick to proceed to the southern coast with physicians, nurses and food supplies.

FRANCE TO PUT NEW BOND ISSUE ON MARKET SOON

PARIS, June 30.—(AP)—The government will issue soon a second slice of ten year bonds to cover the continuing deficit, it was learned today.

Better terms will be offered to buyers because of the unfavorable market, which on April 29 caused the government to borrow £30,000,000 [currently $128,400,000] from England instead of borrowing at home. The price probably will be 92 with 4½ to 5 per cent interest. The March loan was at 98½ with 4½ per cent interest.

The government postponed presentation of the promised financial overhauling program to balance the budget. This will be presented when parliament reassembles in October.

Britain $238,650,000 in Red for First Quarter of Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—Great Britain's national accounts for the first quarter of the financial year shows a current deficit of $238,650,000. Expenditures were decreased by $135,000,000, compared to the first quarter of last year and the receipts declined about $34,000,000. Practically the entire reduction in expenditures is attributable to the large saving in the cost of the national debt as the result of last year's loan conversion schemes. Income tax receipts show a drop of $10,000,000.

BRITISH DOMINIONS WARN LONDON NOT TO RETURN TO GOLD

LONDON, June 30.—Representatives of the British dominions today threw their weight solidly against linking the pound with European gold currencies in an interview with Prime Minister MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain.

Gen. Smuts of South Africa, Prime Minister Forbes of New Zealand and Stanley M. Bruce of Australia all reminded Chamberlain that Britain had declared at Ottawa and since in favor of a policy of price raising. They declared their opposition to Britain's participation in a gold bloc in the present circumstances and called on the chancellor to make good his policy of restoring the price level.

The British dominions, being mainly agricultural, their governments, like that of the United States, have had to take into consideration a strong part of public opinion which favors controlled inflation.

U. S. ENVOY OPENS "PEACE PARLEY" IN CUBA TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 30.—Ambassador Sumner Welles of United States will inaugurate official mediation negotiations tomorrow between the government and opposition factions. After the first gathering at the American embassy, actual deliberations will start Monday. It is expected Mr. Welles will read an important announcement from President Roosevelt at tomorrow's session.

President Gerardo Machado selected the government's representatives today. The opposition's representatives have also been picked.

Two American business establishments were struck by bombs here early today. An explosion at the offices of the National Cash Register company resulted in $25,000 damages. Slight damage was caused by an explosion at a grocery store owned by an American. Police were at a loss to explain the motives. A third bombing took place at the home of Cosme de la Torriente, opposition leader. Police suspect this outrage was committed by irreconcilables who object to Torriente's efforts in behalf of the American mediation plan.

NEW SALES TAX GOES IN EFFECT; ADDS 2 PER CENT

First 6 Months' Receipts to Aid State's Idle.

Chicagoans at 12:01 o'clock this morning began experiencing their second taste in the last few months of a state sales tax. The levy was inaugurated in after-theater cafés and restaurants and will be placed upon all retail sales without exception at the opening of business this morning.

The new tax amounts to 2 cents on each dollar sale, in comparison with the three cent tax which was outlawed by the state Supreme court after it had been in effect for about six weeks. Approximately 100,000 retail establishments throughout the state will collect the tax and turn the proceeds for the first six months over to the state, which will use the money for relief purposes. During the remaining 18 months of the life of the law, the tax may be used to reduce property taxes in the various counties.

Calls It Tax on Dealers.

State Finance Director Joseph J. Rice issued a set of rules for the collection of the tax. He insisted that the tax imposed by the act is an occupational tax upon retailers, and not a tax upon consumers.

In other words, Mr. Rice explained in an interview, the merchants are not the agents of the state in collecting the tax. The tax is imposed upon their gross receipts and not upon the purchaser of the goods, he declared.

"In fixing the price of his products," Mr. Rice declared, "the retailer may consider the tax to be paid by him under this act as one of the elements of cost in the conduct of his business and may include the amount of such tax in fixing such price in the same manner as rent, general taxes, and other general overhead expenses are taken into consideration.

Warns Against Profiteering.

"But he is neither required nor authorized to collect the tax as a tax from his customers. He should not misrepresent the amount of the tax imposed by the act nor engage in profiteering under the guise of collecting such tax from purchasers."

The law requires retailers to make a first report on Aug. 15, covering sales during the month of July. Mr. Rice summarized the law for the benefit of the retailers as follows:

"The law imposes a tax upon all persons engaged in selling tangible personal property at retail, and the test of a sale at retail is whether the sale is to a purchaser for use or consumption and not for resale.

"At the time the monthly return is filed, the payment of the tax covering two per cent of the gross receipts for the month must be made. Every retailer must keep complete books and records which will enable him to make a proper return each month."

Any retailer failing to make a return or who violates any provisions of the law will be subject to a fine of $25 to $5,000, or imprisonment in the county jail for one to six months.

Sales of goods which are ingredients or constituents going into and forming part of other tangibles sold by the buyer are not considered sales at retail, Mr. Rice said.

Explains Tax on Foods.

Meals served and sold by hotels, restaurants, and other eating places are considered sales of tangible personal property to consumers, it was explained, but sales of food and food products to such places are not taxed.

Special regulations issued by the state cover the business of auctioneers and agents, contractors, restaurants, undertakers, photographers, automobile repair shops and garages, barbers and beauty parlors, pharmacists, shoe repairers, opticians and optometrists, physicians, dentists, architects, artists and veterinarians.

Approval was given by Mr. Rice to the plan announced by State street merchants and the large outlying stores, under which the tax is absorbed to the extent of charging no tax upon sales under 25 cents.

"This plan was adopted to give the public a square deal," a spokesman for the State street stores pointed out. "The purchaser knows exactly what the sales tax is costing him and the tax is not 'absorbed' by raising prices. It is designed to correct the very 'profiteering' that the state director of finance is talking about. Under this plan, no merchant can collect more than he should."

REDS GAIN LITTLE HOLD ON NEGRO, CONVENTION TOLD

Communism has gained no real hold on the Negro race, Rayford W. Logan of Washington, D. C., assistant director of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, said last night at the conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at the Olivet Baptist church, 31st street and South Parkway.

Mr. Logan traced the growth of liberal and radical thought among Negroes from the early slave rebels such as Nat Turner and Denmark Vesey, who led uprisings against their masters, to Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, Negro scholar and editor of The Crisis magazine.

"Communists, taking advantage of the trying times during the last four years, have redoubled their efforts to win converts to their cause," he said.

The convention, attended by more than 200 delegates, will continue until July 2 at the Pilgrim Baptist church, 33d street and Indiana avenue.

AUTO DEATHS UP IN JUNE, BUT '33 TOTAL IS LOWER

Coroner Frank J. Walsh yesterday reported a decrease of 11 per cent in the number of automobile deaths since Jan. 1, as compared to the first six months of 1932. There have been 490 automobile fatalities in 1933, against 551 for the corresponding period in 1932, a decrease of 61.

The month of June, 1933, however, showed an increase in the motor toll over June, 1932. There were 89 automobile deaths in June, 1933, and 85 in June, 1932. In May, 1933, there were 101 fatalities as against 86 in May, 1932. For the other four months the 1932 figures are higher.

Action May Add to City Tax Burden.

Judges of the Municipal court voted yesterday to start mandamus action before the state Supreme court to win for themselves and the politically appointed court employés preferment as regards pay over all other city employés. Their action, if successful, will add more than $200,000 to Chicago's tax bills and create a deficit in the 1933 city budget.

When the city council passed the budget this month it provided that the employés and judges of the Municipal court should take the same 78 day pay cut which was imposed upon other city employés. Yesterday the judges voted to mandamus the council to pay court salaries in full. They took action at the same time to cut employés' salaries by 48 days' pay.

Salary Is Fixed by Statute.

So far as the judges themselves are concerned their salary is fixed by statute and cannot be cut. Salaries of aldermen are also fixed for their term of office, but they have taken a 78 day pay cut anyway. At the judges' meeting, in the office of Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, it was stated that the judges will remit to the city whatever portion of their salary they wish. Some of them said they would turn back 48 days' pay.

At the meeting a summer schedule for the court was also drawn up, disclosing that each judge will get a six weeks' vacation with pay. City civil service employés, who get the 78 day pay cut, are allowed only two weeks' vacation.

The matter of the salary cut was not on the regular program for the meeting, and it could not be learned what judge brought it up by suggesting that the mandamus action be taken in the October term of the Supreme court. Not a dissenting vote was cast against the proposal, however.

Those who attended the meeting were Chief Justice Sonsteby and Judges Borrelli, Brooks, Casey, Dunne, Edelman, Elliott, Erickson, Graber, Green, Haas, Hartigan, Hasten, Howard M. Hayes, Helander, Kasper, Lupe, Lyle, McGarry, Padden, Rooney, Scheffler, Schiller, and Smith. Judge Borrelli said that he passed his vote on the proposal.

Judges or the Council.

"The Municipal court act gives the court power to determine its own appropriations and fix the number and salaries of court employés," said Chief Justice Sonsteby.

"The question is, whether the judges or the city council are going to run the court, and we will determine whether the judiciary is to be free from legislative authority. The city is no worse off financially than it was last year, when the judges took only a 48 day pay cut."

Not all of the judges took the cut last year, it was pointed out by members of the council when they learned of the judges' action. They added that the action laid no compulsion on any judge to take a cut this year.

23 Years on Job

Judge George A. Carpenter, senior judge of the United States District court here, retired yesterday after 23 years on the federal bench. He spent the day signing orders and clearing the docket of cases. Judge Carpenter was elected to the Circuit court in 1906 and was appointed to the federal court by President Taft in 1910. He is 66 years old and lives at 945 North Dearborn street.

CONVICT SUITOR FOR MURDER OF HIS SWEETHEART

John L. Minzer, 30 years old, was found guilty of the murder of his sweetheart by a jury before Judge Harry Lewis of the Criminal court, last night, and his punishment was fixed at twenty years in prison. The jury was out three hours.

Minzer's sweetheart was Miss Amelia Sailly, 28 years old. She was choked to death in her apartment in the Harper End hotel last Feb. 22. Minzer did not testify, but Hyde Park police produced a purported confession in which he is alleged to have admitted the crime.

According to the state's evidence, Miss Sailly was slain after she had confided to Minzer that she was an expectant mother. Miss Sailly came to Chicago last year from Christopher, Ill. Minzer is a member of a family well known at Grand Beach, Mich.

A loop bound Lake street train of the Chicago Rapid Transit company ran wild in Oak Park yesterday, crashed into a Marshall Field & Co. truck at South boulevard and Harlem avenue, and ran past two scheduled stops before coming to a halt. Motorman Harry Shay, who was taken to the Oak Park police station, explained that he was unable to stop the train because the air brake control lever had been jarred from its mooring and had fallen to the floor.

Officials of the elevated lines, however, pointed out that Shay could have stopped the train by pulling the emergency brake cord in his cab or by reversing the motor.

Thirty Passengers Jarred.

Thirty passengers on the five car train of the elevated lines, which runs at ground level west of Laramie avenue, were shaken up when the train crashed into the truck at Harlem avenue. The truck driver, William Byrne, 33 years old, 130 North Leamington avenue, was treated for minor injuries at the Oak Park hospital.

The train sped onto the Harlem avenue crossing, where the state laws require a complete stop, and continued without a pause after knocking the truck off the track. It continued east and passed the Marion street station without stopping, and then came to a stop just west of Kenilworth avenue, a distance of several blocks east of Marion street.

After the pause near Kenilworth avenue Shay resumed his journey toward the loop and drove the train past the Oak Park station. An Oak Park police squad, siren going, and excited motorists who had witnessed the crash prevailed on the motorman to stop the train as it neared Ridgeland avenue.

Motorman Tells of Crash.

Taken to the Oak Park police station, Shay, who is 62 years old and lives at 2122 South Wesley avenue, Berwyn, explained that he had knocked the air brake lever to the car floor just before he reached Harlem avenue. As he groped about the floor in an effort to retrieve the lever, Shay said, the crash occurred. He was stunned for a moment, Shay said, but recovered, found the lever and stopped the train near Kenilworth avenue.

He then decided to proceed, Shay said, and passed the Oak Park station because "they gave him the bell" and he thought that he was being urged to make up time. Shay told police that he intended to stop at Ridgeland avenue to telephone company officials.

After telling his story Shay was charged with disorderly conduct and released on bond. Hearing was set for July 11, before Justice of the Peace Louis S. Gibson.

The new bathhouse on Montrose beach will be opened to the public today, according to President Alfred D. Plamondon of the Lincoln park board. Facilities for checking clothes and valuables will be available to more than 2,000 persons. The beach is the longest on Chicago's lake front, extending nearly a mile. The cost of the sand fill for the beach and the complete Montrose avenue extension was more than $3,500,000. Plans call for the development of picnic and playgrounds on the new land.

HOTTEST JUNE IN ANNALS OF CHICAGO ENDS

Deluge of Rain Saves It from Being Driest.

Weather bureau records show that Chicago's hottest June, just at an end, was also the sixth hottest month the city ever knew. Only four Julys and one August since 1870 have registered as high a mean temperature.

The mean temperature for the month was 76.2 degrees, nine above normal. Twice, on the 7th and the 27th, a maximum of 100 was registered. Never before in history was that mark attained in June. In fact, Chicago had seen only thirteen 100 degree marks previous to this year. Three were in August and ten in July.

June came close to setting a record for drought also. Until Thursday there had been but .63 of an inch of rainfall, nearly all on the 5th. But a deluge Thursday evening gave the city 2.81 inches of precipitation and raised the month's rainfall to .14 of an inch above the usual amount.

For purposes of comparison Forecaster C. A. Donnel pointed out that the warmest month in Chicago was July, 1921, when the mean temperature was 79.4 degrees, and the hottest day was July 21, 1901, when 103 was reached.

Yesterday was mostly fair, following the heavy rain of the night before, but winds were shifting and an occasional breath from the lake prevented the mercury rising above the high 80s. Today, according to forecast, will be partly cloudy and continued warm, with shifting winds again; a shower or thunderstorm followed by lower temperatures by tonight.

In Minnesota, it was reported, last month was the hottest June since 1818. Records have been kept there since 1819. The second warmest June was in 1821.

COMPLETE PLAN FOR $6,000,000 AIRPORT IN LAKE

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Plans for a lake front airport to enhance Chicago's position as the center of air travel of the country have been completed by the Chicago plan commission and approved by Mayor Kelly and the leading air lines that serve the city. The project could be built in a year and would involve the expenditure of about $6,000,000. Mayor Kelly plans to ask the federal government to include the project in its three billion dollar public works program.

The lake front airport has been considered for several years as one of the few outstanding benefits that can be made to the city's extensive transportation facilities, Hugh Young, plan commission engineer, said. The problem has been considered from every aspect and the result is a complete plan which has been tested in its legal, engineering, and operating aspects, he said.

Site Chosen for Airport.

The airport the plan commission has designed would be in harbor district No. 2, directly east of the Adler planetarium, to which it would be connected by a five hundred foot bridge. The island airport is planned in a triangular shape, with the apex farthest from shore in order to reduce the amount of filling required in deep water. It is to be eight feet above water level.

The triangular shape of the island airport would allow runways in six directions, all of a length of 2,800 feet. The center of the field would be finished to allow landings to be made in any direction. On the western edge of the island space would be provided for complete hangar, terminal building and maintenance shop facilities, which would be built by the air lines at an estimated cost of $500,000.

The lake front airport would reduce the time spent in ground travel by air passengers and the air mail between the loop and the present airport, at Cicero avenue and 63d street, from an hour to ten minutes, Mr. Young said. Because of this time saving the air lines are indorsing the plan fully, and have indicated that they will make a $500,000 initial investment in the project.

Backed by P. O. Officials.

The postoffice department officials in charge of the air mail in Chicago have expressed their support of the plan, which will save much valuable time in the handling of the mail, and also would effect an annual saving estimated at $40,000 in the cost of hauling the mail to and from the airport. Express companies who are sending a rapidly increasing volume of express by air favor the plan because of the increased speed it would give their service.

The present airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue would be maintained as an overhaul base for the airlines, and all extensive work on the transport planes would be done there, where rail shipments of equipment can be received off track. Maintenance work would be done at the lakefront airport in order to eliminate the added operating cost of ferrying trips between the lakefront and the present airport.

Praises Proposed Site.

James Simpson, chairman of the plan commission, said the site chosen for the lake front airport was ideal from all points of view.

"This project has been worked out by John Wentworth, Alfred Shaw of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, and Mr. Young, in conjunction with George Donahue of the south park board and Mr. White, the engineer of the south park board," Mr. Simpson said. "Because of Mayor Kelly's enthusiastic indorsement and strong support of the project the plan commission will propose that the airport be named Kelly airport.

"Mayor Kelly in all probability will go to Washington to confer with the proper authorities soon after the Fourth of July. He will be accompanied by a delegation of many prominent citizens, including Col. A. A. Sprague, who has been a strong supporter of the project throughout its development. They will do all in their power to convince the government officials of the necessity and desirability of this improvement for Chicago.

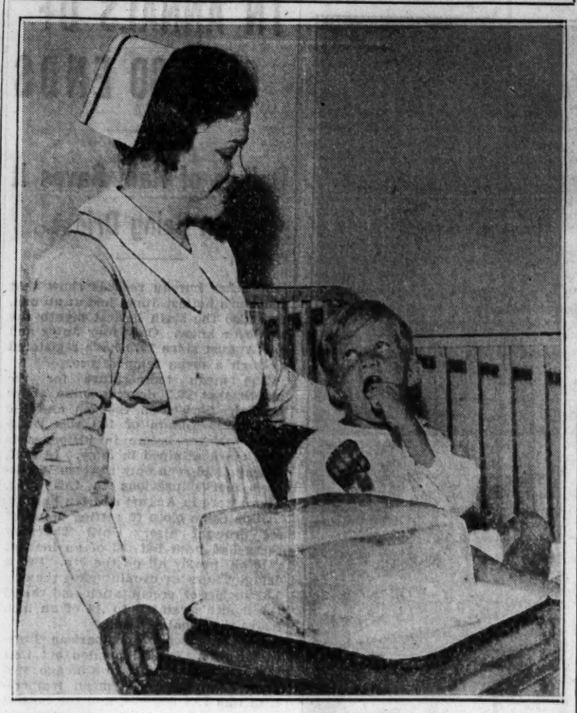

Close to City's Center.

"This airport will be as close to the center of the city as it is possible to build. At the same time it will be sufficiently removed from the loop skyscrapers to avoid any interference by those buildings in the normal glides of the transport planes. The south park bathing beach will be left intact, in fact, will be given protection. The airport and a 3,000 foot extension of the outer breakwater will complete the protecting basin which has been needed badly for Chicago yachts for many years."

Mayor Kelly intends to inform government officials that the project will provide employment for 3,000 men for one year; that 74 per cent of the cost of the project will be paid to labor, directly or indirectly. In accordance with the provisions in the public works program legislation, manual labor will be used wherever feasible.

The plan commission has obtained a legal opinion on the project at Mayor Kelly's request. The project will not conflict with any existing ordinances or laws, it was found. The project falls within the provisions of the public works program for outright grants from the federal government, attorneys said.

Boy Swallows Piece of Dry Ice

In Serious Condition

Edward Johnson, 5 years old, 4339 Le Moyne street, was in a serious condition yesterday in the Children's Memorial hospital after swallowing a piece of dry ice. The case was said to be the first of its kind to come to the attention of Chicago physicians.

The dry ice, used by sidewalk ice cream vendors to cool their wares, is made of solidified carbon-dioxide gas compressed and cooled to a temperature of almost 200 degrees below zero. It was given to the Johnson boy by a youth selling ice cream bars in the street.

At the hospital it was feared that the ice had lodged in the esophagus and frozen the tissues of the tube before disintegrating in the stomach. Physicians said that perforation of the walls of the esophagus would allow food and saliva to reach the mediastinum area between the lungs and might result in an abscessed condition and possible death.

If the child escapes this danger there is a possibility that constriction of the esophagus may make it impossible or difficult for the patient to swallow, physicians said.

Janitor Is Found Slain; Mystery Puzzles Police

North Damen avenue police began an investigation last night into the fatal shooting of Gottlieb Volkmar, 62 years old, a janitor out of work. He was found dead on a couch on the rear porch of his home at 1802 School street. A rifle lay on the porch near him. Police said he might have knocked the weapon to the floor, causing its accidental discharge. It is possible also that some assailant shot him, they said.

'LEGS' DIAMOND'S WIDOW FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Slain in Her Apartment in Brooklyn.

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Alice Kenny Diamond, widow of Jack [Legs] Diamond, super-gangster, was found dead tonight on the living room rug of her apartment in Brooklyn, with a bullet in her right temple. She had been dead at least two days.

She had been murdered. Police were at a loss to establish a motive for the killing but they pointed out that other women associated with racketeers did not last long after their consorts passed.

"It's a wonder this dame lived as long as she did," one detective said. "She must have known plenty."

Mrs. Diamond, it was generally known, had complained loud and often over her beer in Brooklyn speakeasies that she was "tired of protecting a lot of no good muggs."

Jack Slain in Albany.

Jack Diamond was shot to death in Albany Dec. 18, 1931. There were rumors tonight that the killers of his widow came from that city. It was known that Mrs. Diamond had been out with "two upstate friends" early this week, making the rounds at Coney Island. They spent a lot of time at the shooting galleries. Shooting was her favorite sport, next to beer drinking.

The last time Mrs. Diamond was seen alive was early Wednesday morning, when she left the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunter in the same building in which she lived. Mrs. Diamond had been playing cards with them.

Hunter today opened the apartment door with a pass key to permit two detectives to enter. Mrs. Diamond lay with her blonde head pointed toward red portiers that concealed the kitchenette. She was clad in a blue house dress with white polka dots. She wore stockings, but no shoes. On a table were three cups containing coffee dregs and some crackers. Everything else in the room was in order.

Devoted to Gangster Husband.

Mrs. Diamond was an attractive woman. She stood about five feet 7 inches, was well but solidly formed and went in for flashy clothes and lots of rings, bracelets, necklaces and floppy hats.

She was devoted to the racketeer. She was his second wife. The first lived with him only a few months before she got a divorce. Whenever he was shot—which was often—she would stay at his bedside. Whenever he went on trial she sat in the courtroom and encouraged him. She told authorities nothing when they questioned her.

PRAISES TAYLOR FOR ECONOMY IN SCHOOL SYSTEM

Mayor Kelly yesterday sent a letter of appreciation to Attorney Orville J. Taylor, who as president of the board of education started the economy campaign designed to restore a balanced budget to the school system. Mr. Taylor was obliged to resign a month ago because of the press of his private business. After stating that he had accepted the resignation with regret, Mayor Kelly stated:

"You have done a splendid job as president of the board and I want to extend my sincere congratulations for exceptionally meritorious service rendered under adverse conditions. Had your loyalty to your community wavered you would have resigned a long time ago, instead of sticking to the wheel as a good captain does when seas are stormiest.

"As mayor of Chicago I want to express the deep gratitude of our citizens for your splendid service. And to that I add my own personal appreciation and thanks."

AMEND TEXTILE CODE; RAISE PAY, TIGHTEN RULES

Sudden Maneuver Adds to U. S. Control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Amendments to the cotton textile manufacturers' code which would give its sponsors and the government the most drastic control over every cotton mill owner in America were placed in the code today by an eleventh hour maneuver.

Although the public hearings had been announced as complete, the textile men were permitted by the federal administrator of industry, Hugh S. Johnson, to present their radical amendments, and as soon as that had been done the hearings were abruptly ended.

It was clearly indicated that Gen. Johnson and his staff had helped in this maneuver. If the amendments are approved, textile manufacturers will have to get official permission to put even a single new cotton loom in place or a spindle, and no new mills may be built anywhere without permit.

Other Significant Developments.

Various other significant developments along the front of the federal dictatorship over business included these:

The manufacturers included among their amendments one agreeing to boost their minimum wage clause so that workers in southern mills will be guaranteed $12 instead of $10 and in northern mills $13 instead of $11. This represented a compromise with the requests of labor leaders for $14 and $16.

A girl communist nearly broke up today's hearing when she attacked the code as unfair to workers, and entered into a controversy with Gen. Johnson, which, at one point, moved the administrator to threaten to "clore this hearing in five minutes.

A merger of their authority, in so far as control of agricultural industries is concerned, was announced by Administrator Johnson and George N. Peek, administrator of the farm adjustment administration. Mr. Peek will assume authority over trade agreements covering "trades, industries or subdivisions thereof engaged principally in the handling of milk and its products, tobacco and its products, and all foods and foodstuffs." Mr. Johnson will, however, preserve authority to deal with all questions in these industries relating to wages and hours of labor. Liaison officers will be named by both officials to sit in on single hearings covering all phases.

Amendments Presented.

The girl communist had had her say, had called Gen. Johnson "a dictator," and "a Mussolini," when Deputy Administrator W. L. Allen asked if there was "anything else before the meeting?" George Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile institute, whose members sponsored the presentation of the code, then rose to offer the amendments to the code.

The public hearings had been on since last Tuesday, with no hint of the drastic measures which Mr. Sloan now presented. Manufacturers who had protested vigorously against much less stringent restrictions of their business freedom had even left Washington after Mr. Allen yesterday had announced the discussion of the code had been completed. No opportunity was given for any discussion of the new proposals.

Although Gen. Johnson had announced that in the beginning of his effort in the control of industry he would restrict codes to simple agreements on wages and working hours, and would not attempt a dictatorship over trade practices, production and price fixing, the new amendments to the code appear to have been brought in by a "back door" method.

Asks Additional Regulations.

"In consultation with the representatives of the administration," he began, "it has seemed to us desirable to propose the setting up of certain additional machinery for making the workings of the code more flexible and effective by providing for dealing with various problems as they may arise, without the necessity for resort to its amendment or the framing of a new code.

"With that in mind, we submit the following suggestions and desire to express our appreciation to the recovery administration for their inspiration and helpful assistance in formulating them."

Mr. Sloan then proposed that a committee of twenty-one manufacturers, all members of the Cotton Textile institute, which had sponsored the code, be set up "to coöperate with the administrator as a planning and fair practice agency for the cotton textile industry."

Recommendations Revealed.

This committee would, from time to time, present recommendations to the administrator, and Mr. Sloan pointed out specific lines of recommendations which would be followed. These included:

1. For the administrator to require persons in the cotton textile industry to submit information and keep uniform accounts so as to promote the proper balancing of production and consumption and the stabilization of the industry and employment.

2. For the setting up of a service bureau for engineering, accounting, credit and other purposes.

3. For the requirement by the administrator of registration by persons engaged in the cotton textile industry of their existing productive machinery; for the requirement by the administrator that prior to the installation of additional productive machinery by persons engaged or engaging in the cotton textile industry, except for the replacement of a similar number of existing looms or spindles or to bring the operation of existing productive machinery into balance, such persons shall secure certificates that such installation will be consistent with effectuating the policy of the national industrial recovery act during the period of emergency, and for the granting or withholding by the administrator of such certificates if so required by him.

4. For the making of requirements by the administrator as to practices by persons engaged in the cotton textile industry as to methods and conditions of trading, the naming and reporting of prices which may be appropriate to avoid discrimination, to promote the stabilization of the industry, and to prevent and eliminate unfair and destructive competitive prices and practices.

5. For regulating the disposal of distress merchandise in a way to secure the protection of the owners and to promote sound and stable conditions in the industry.

After quoting the recommendations, Mr. Sloan added a provision that if they were approved by the administrator they "shall have the same force and effect as any other provisions of this code."

Provides for "Spy" System.

Then the amendments provided for the setting up of a "spy" system to detect "cheaters" in the industry as follows:

"Such agency [the manufacturers' committee] is also set up to coöperate with the administrator in making investigations as to the functioning and observance of any of the provisions of this code, both at its own instance or on complaint by any person affected, and to report the same to the administrator."

The same agency, it was further provided, would investigate imports of cotton textiles and report to the administrator and the President the need for protective tariffs.

After Mr. Sloan read his amendments, Administrator Johnson complimented him in the most enthusiastic terms. The administrator turned to Dr. Alexander Sachs, his economic adviser, and asked him to disclose what the new wage scale and the 40 hour week would mean to the cotton textile workers.

Purchasing Power Restored.

"This actually restores the worker to the purchasing power he had before the depression," Dr. Sachs replied. "It also allows him to take care of a 10 per cent increase in the cost of living as will occur, in view of the rise that has already occurred of 6 to 10 per cent in commodity prices."

"I understand also from your statement," said Mr. Johnson, "that, considering the present rate of activity in the textile industry, the 40 hour limit will absorb all the textile employés that are now unemployed?"

"And require," the expert replied, "an increase of about 100,000 from the level of October, 1930, which will amount to some absorption from the outside."

Discussing the proposed creation of the planning committee, with its drastic implications, Mr. Johnson said he thought "it is a very fine thing, and I have had such an idea, but I cannot say how it is to be done."

The girl communist, June Croll, representing the National Textile Workers' union, admittedly a communistic organization outside the pale of the regular union, was given a hearing. It appeared that she was denied a hearing yesterday, and that telegrams from W. Z. Foster, communist leader, and others, protesting against her being excluded, resulted in a decision to let her talk.

Attacking the proposals of the code as not giving any additional pay to the workers, Miss Croll launched into a typical communist harangue. Gen. Johnson listened patiently for half an hour, but when the young woman sought to argue that the code deprived employés of the right to strike he protested. After a sharp interchange, with the general getting hot under the collar, he said:

"Now, if you cannot quote the things correctly you are quoting—and you have misquoted five or six times—I am going to close this hearing in five minutes. If you do not stop departing from the rules of this hearing I will close the hearing in five minutes."

Keeps Right On Talking.

It was obvious from the determined attitude of the woman that nothing short of closing the meeting would stop her unless she wanted to stop.

"I think you will be able to congratulate yourself," he said, "that you were able to make these proposals and nobody has raided or arrested you."

"But you should know this," the girl said, as she faced a laughing audience, "I was here yesterday and I was refused the floor, and I was told that Gen. Johnson said he would have to study these proposals first, and if he approved of them he would let us speak. And if that is the spirit of the code, that is not democracy; that is dictatorship, like that which exists in Italy under Mussolini."

SEN. DIETERICH LAUDS PROGRAM TO AID RECOVERY

Senator William H. Dieterich, speaking yesterday at a meeting of the newly organized Franklin Roosevelt Democratic club in the Hotel La Salle, termed the emergency legislation passed by congress "one of the greatest legislative programs ever adopted in the history of the country."

"The President knows where he is going, has a definite purpose, and every measure was adopted with that purpose in view," the speaker said. "The President and congress were not dealing with normal conditions and, for that reason, some of the measures have come in for considerable criticism. The measures were passed to meet the present condition in the country and will be good or bad as they are administered."

MURDERS GAIN AS SUICIDES DROP IN COOK COUNTY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Harry Abelsky, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Irwin Mandell, robbery, 2 years in Pontiac reformatory; Jerry Lankford and Marshall Lankford, robbery, 2 years each in reformatory; Dean Ross Buchanon, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in reformatory by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Orellio Martinez, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Murders in Cook county have increased 16 per cent during the first six months of 1933, as compared to the similar period in 1932, while suicides have decreased 13 per cent, Coroner Frank J. Walsh revealed yesterday.

Since Jan. 1 there have been 268 murders in the county. During the first six months of 1932 there were 230 murders, or 38 less than this year. During the last month there were 33 murders, as compared with 35 in June, 1932.

During the first six months of 1933 there were 335 suicides, 53 less than in the first half of 1932. In June, 1932, there were 68 suicides, and last month there were 52 suicides. Coroner Walsh attributed the decrease in suicides to the new spirit of confidence in conditions and adjustment to economic changes.

AUSTRIA ORDERS PRESS TO PUBLISH ITS COMMUNIQUES

VIENNA, June 30.—(AP)—The government in a decree tonight ordered that all newspapers without exception must publish free of charge and without comment all government political announcements up to 600 words daily. The newspapers' own news and editorials remain subject to censorship.

Meanwhile the Vienna provincial diet passed a law excluding 15 Nazi members from legislative rights on the ground that their party's activities were treasonable.

During the diet session throngs of Nazi followers attempted a demonstration in front of the city hall, but were swiftly dispersed.

It Appears New Deal Puts a Premium on Inefficiency

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—[Special]—It looks as if the new deal in American industry will offer a fine opportunity for a new kind of industrial expert who might be called the inefficiency man. From my reading of the hearings which are being conducted in Washington by Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, in connection with the fifteen minute plan for industrial recovery, I gather that the fine old American ideal of efficiency has been renounced along with the fine old American virtues of thrift, economy, industry and sobriety.

The efficient textile plant, in which an operator can handle twice as many units of machinery as he would be able to cover in an inefficient plant is obviously a detriment to the nation when half as much efficiency means twice as many jobs and eleven million people are out of work.

Old Prices Will Go.

American genius therefore seems to be confronted with a problem of reducing efficiency all around and the old practice of awarding prizes such as a trip to Niagara Falls or a gold lapel button adorned with the firm's trade mark and a winged wheel, representing progress, for excellent work, will be reversed. Henceforth, the award will have to be given to the champion incompetent of the staff and naturally the secretary-treasurer, when he gets up at the banquet to make the presentation address, will extol the winner, for his unfailing laziness, his indifference to duty, his sterling, all around incompetence and, finally, his distinguished dumbness, from which his fellow employés of the Ajax Whipsocket Associates, Inc., will derive new inspiration.

The prize winning salesman will be the one who not only brought in an unblemished order book to show for a year on the road and turned in an expense account which will keep all the auditors busy for sometime, but also made the customers so sore that it was necessary to send another man around behind him to square things.

Only Thinking Out Loud.

I hope I do not seem to be finding fault with Gen. Johnson or the plan to recreate jobs which have been wiped out by mechanical invention and the constant exploitation over a long period of a false ideal called efficiency. I am only thinking out loud, so to speak, and trying to adjust myself to a new concept of worth whileness in industry and citizenship. This is not going to be very hard for me.

Happily, I never was so efficient that the change will catch me very far out on a limb. I am very flexible and if it is put up to me to do my work in such a way that another hand must be employed to mop up after me, I can meet the new condition just as I not only met but anticipated the abdication of thrift. I never believed very well in thrift. Perhaps that was because, in the sport business, we have an old saying that there are no pockets in shrouds.

When Mr. Coolidge was preaching thrift I was a little bit skeptical, suspecting that thrift in many cases was just a virtuous name for stinginess and that Mr. Coolidge, if it were put up to him, right quick, wouldn't give you the time of day off a hatful of watches.

Many Practice Thrift.

So many people who have practiced thrift were tying up large sums of their overset money in perpetual or long term trusts that I just reckoned, in my own homespun way, that if everybody did this, in time, all the money would be frozen up, which would be bad for business and, finally, some people enjoy spending money.

Consequently, when thrift was stricken off the list of virtues along there in the second year of the panic and the statesmen and merchants began to urge people to send it in because otherwise it might not, it was no problem to send mine in. I only wished I had more money to send in, not only for the pleasure or possessions which I could buy but also for the joy of flouting a practice which I had always regarded as more mean than handsome.

Then there was sobriety, or teetotalism, an evil virtue tending to deny the U. S. treasury the revenue which it needs. My record and my conscience are clear on this issue and it will be no trouble whatever to me to drink my part in the general patriotic effort to guzzel the country out of the red.

Will Do What He Can.

Except that I will feel a certain restraint or unwillingness to sacrifice my liver and arteries to provide cash handouts to those moocher states which insisted on the 18th amendment through all the years when the serious drinkers of the country might have been yielding in close onto a billion a year in taxes on their drams. However, I expect to dissolve this objection in wholesome, nutritive noggins of legal refreshment starting next year and to do what I can in the new state of affairs.

As to efficiency, I go back to a day, not very long ago, when the efficiency man was a big fellow and much dreaded in this country. Efficiency was a fetish of industry and the ideal employée was one who sat up nights earning a $5 bonus and a letter of commendation from the third vice president of the firm by devising some new way to tie up bundles, resulting in an annual saving of $50,000 a year in paper and twine and throwing nobody knows how many people out of work in the paper and twine factories.

Could Pass Another Law.

But if one employé didn't do it, another one would and economies in labor and material can hardly be avoided unless congress should pass another law. The boys could outlaw the steam roller and compel the work to be done by hand and the linotype could be made illegal, like the submachine gun, as detrimental to the general good of the greatest number.

But the first aim of the inefficiency man should be to arouse public opinion against a lot of false gods on the industrial era. I hope I am not presumptuous when I suggest that Gen. Johnson organize a great national hanging in effigy of Eli Whitney and Mergenthaler and Thomas A. Edison and the burning of the patent office.

2 FOUND GUILTY IN CARL MURDER; GET LIFE TERMS

John Milosic, 50 years old, and Ivan Grilec, 39, were found guilty of the murder of George Carl, 41 year old grocer, by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday, and their punishment fixed at life imprisonment. The state charged that the defendants, with the widow, Mrs. Vera Carl, plotted the death of Carl to obtain $15,000 in insurance money.

Mrs. Carl obtained a separate trial. Milosic was her alleged sweetheart and Grilec was a brother-in-law of the slain man. The jurors deliberated four hours and 30 minutes.

As the verdict was read by Judge Harry A. Lewis, who was called after Judge Feinberg had left the building, several women, apparently relatives of the defendants, burst into tears. They were led from the courtroom and Judge Lewis set July 14 for hearing on the defense motion for a new trial.

Carl was shot to death in his grocery at 2511 South Crawford avenue on July 6, 1932. The widow, Grilec, Milosic, Joseph Fess, the confessed slayer, and Edward Veselka were indicted for the slaying. Veselka and Fess, as well as the widow, obtained severances.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Closing its books at midnight tonight on the fiscal year 1933 after running up the second largest deficit in peace time, the government is faced with its fourth successive unbalanced budget in the coming 1934 year.

With a deficit of 1 billion 780 million dollars on its ordinary budget, the treasury department has had to pay out in addition 1 billion 260 millions through the Reconstruction Finance corporation, bringing the total to more than 3 billion dollars.

As Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin cast up the balance for the last year tonight, plans were already laid to slash the outlays for the coming year to the lowest level in post-war history and to prevent a fourth huge deficit.

Employés Cut Off.

Twelve thousand or more government employés drew their last pay checks tonight as the economy ax sliced them off the federal pay rolls. About 400,000 veterans, most of whom had been drawing compensation for minor nonservice injuries, were dropped from the pension rolls. Billions of dollars of public works were lifted out of the ordinary budget into an emergency account, so that they would not throw the regular budget out of balance.

Whether the administration's drive to cut expenditures for the coming year has succeeded in closing the gap between income and expenditures which has continued for three years will not be disclosed officially until President Roosevelt returns from his vacation. Preliminary figures indicate that it has fallen about 600 million dollars short of its goal. Ordinary expenditures for the coming year are now estimated at 2 billion 773 millions, and revenues at 2 billion 200 millions.

Deficit Accumulates.

With the one billion 780 million dollar deficit piled up in the 1933 fiscal year, the accumulated deficits over the last three fiscal years have mounted to a total of five billion 568 million dollars.

THEFTS OF AUTOS DOWN 17 PCT. IN FIRST HALF OF '33

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 84; recovered, 98; stripped, 12 [from Chicago police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight Thursday].

Automobile thefts in Chicago during the past six months were 17 per cent under the number stolen in the first half of 1932, according to a report made yesterday by Lieut. John Kelley of the auto section of the police department.

The total of cars taken by thieves in the first six months of 1932, in territory covered by the Chicago police, was 16,759. Adding 879 stolen in the park systems brought the total to 17,638. The corresponding figures for the like period this year were 13,800 in city police territory and 867 in the park systems, a total of 14,667.

Of the cars stolen this year 12,631 have been recovered.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

COURAGE MAKES TRADE HUM, AD MEN TOLD AT FAIR

Whalen Brings Optimistic Message to Meeting.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Business in the United States is rapidly becoming better because confidence has returned. There is a general improvement in industry as a whole and, for the first time since the start of the depression, leaders in the economic side of the national life are beginning to show courage.

That was the optimistic message brought to Chicago yesterday by Grover Whalen, president of the Advertising club of New York, former police commissioner and general manager of John Wanamaker's store in New York City. His speech of optimism was appropriate, for he was addressing the thousand advertising men at A Century of Progress Exposition, presentation of which has been largely responsible for the pick-up in business of which he spoke.

Fair Attendance Picks Up.

With the advertising program, Moose day and the colorful program of Children's day at the Fair, the attendance figures showed the same optimistic pickup that business in general has shown since the opening of the Exposition.

At 11:30 p. m. last night 118,464 visitors had passed through the turnstiles. This was an increase of more than 50,000 over the total attendance on Thursday.

The two major events of the day on the Advertising Men's program were a luncheon at the Pabst Casino, with Mr. Whalen making the principal address, and the dedication of the Cinema theater, the advertising exhibit at the Fair, in the afternoon.

More Ads Bring More Buying.

"More buying is being done and, in an effort to further increase sales volume, more advertising is being done," Mr. Whalen told the ad executives. "The question that now arises in every mind is, is this improvement in business temporary or permanent? Only the future will answer this question. It has been said during the last three years that business is on trial. Is it not our business leaders rather than business itself which is on trial?"

The danger of governmental intervention in private business was stressed by the speaker, and a warning issued that the recovery of business is up to the business men themselves.

"Alarm has often been expressed," he said, "by thinking business men of the encroachment of the government in business. There is a real danger in this, a danger that must not be overlooked lest the calamity of government control take full possession of the business of the country."

Ad Men to Lead Recovery.

"Under the national industry recovery act an opportunity is offered for business to correct itself. The business leaders of today must realize without a moment's delay that the job of setting their own business house in order has been put up to them by their government."

A new deal in business is being formulated, the advertising executives were told, and one of the major parts in that new program is to be played by advertising men.

"A terrific responsibility has been placed upon our shoulders by this new deal," the speaker said, "it is the job of advertising to sell the people of the United States the new business deal.

"Economists and leaders in American life should understand what advertising does and has done, in order to head off destructive regulation and taxation. This work, this teaching, must go on, carefully, earnestly, and without ballyhoo."

Warns of Excessive Taxes.

Mr. Whalen touched briefly on taxes in general and spoke at length on sales taxes specifically. While taxes are always unpopular they are necessary, the speaker said, but the heavy placing of taxes on every form of industry is apt to throttle recovery, he pointed out.

The Moose day ceremonies centered around the Illinois host building, with the installations of national officers as the major feature. Senator James A. Davis of Pennsylvania, director of the national organization, officiated.

The new officers were: Alfred J. Satori, Spokane, supreme dictator; Dr. W. E. Buehler, Chicago, supreme vice dictator; Walter Ruff, Canton, O., supreme prelate; Malcolm R. Giles, Mooseheart, secretary, and Harry W. Mace, Philadelphia, treasurer.

Elecet Mooseheart Graduate.

John C. Melickle, Washington, D. C., was installed as a member of the board of governors of the Mooseheart school. He was a member of the first graduating class of the school and had often expressed a desire to return as one of the officials of the institution.

A musical program was presented in the afternoon by the band from the school with a concert recital in the court of the Hall of Science.

The day at the Fair was filled with the special events, parades and colorful pageantry. Thousands of children, filing the concessions and parading through the grounds all day, helped to swell the attendance.

EMBASSY DENIES ENVOY BINGHAM IS SERIOUSLY ILL

LONDON, June 30.—(AP)—Reports that United States Ambassador Bingham is dangerously ill drew forth an emphatic denial today from the embassy. Mr. Bingham, it was said, is recovering from a latent infection which tends to send his temperature up when he exerts himself.

An official in the American embassy said that "Mr. Bingham is not seriously ill, but we want to keep him quiet because when he moves about too much his temperature rises." The official added that the ambassador is quite able to carry on his ambassadorial duties.

GROCERY OWNER ENDS LIFE.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

About 400 visitors to the Fair will arrive at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow over the Milwaukee road from South Dakota and Minnesota. They will remain in Chicago until late Tuesday night.

Rowing crews of Yale, Harvard, and Cornell universities visited the Fair yesterday. They traveled by motor boat from the Wrigley building dock to the 23d street dock on Northerly island.

More than 5,000 members of the Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, a Masonic organization, have visited the General Motors building at the Fair during the last two days, according to James A. Grefer, resident manager.

The "Days of '49," wild west concession at the Fair, was placed in receivership yesterday before Judge William J. Lindsay in the Superior court. Mrs. Helen Morse Beesley, wife of Thomas Beesley, one of the incorporators of the concession, asked the receivership on a confessed judgment for $1,707 which she said she had been unable to collect. Judge Lindsay appointed N. J. Wagner, manager of the concession, as receiver.

Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador, and his wife will be guests at a luncheon to be given on July 8 by the Japanese commissioners to A Century of Progress to celebrate Japan day. Ambassador Debuchi and Rufus C. Dawes will speak at the luncheon.

Rotary day at the Fair will be celebrated next Thursday with John Nelson of Montreal, president-elect of Rotary International, as guest speaker. Col. John B. Reynolds, president-elect of the Chicago Rotary club, will preside.

Mr. and Mrs. Amelio Ronelez and their 11 year old daughter, Lily, of Bangkok, Siam, visited the Fair yesterday, spending the major part of the day in the exhibit of the General Electric company. Mr. Ronelez is chief engineer of the Siam Electric corporation. Lily speaks only French.

Opie Read, novelist, yesterday was a guest of Harry Rice, commander of the Lagoon fleet. Both are former president of the Press Club of Chicago. Mr. Read said the present Fair gives "glimmerings of the future," while the Columbian Exposition was a "classic community. If there has been any progress in the last 100 years," he said, "this Fair shows it in comparison to the '93 Fair." Mr. Read lives in Chicago, but spends winters in Florida.

Gov. Guy B. Parke of Missouri will arrive over the Wabash railroad at 7:15 a. m. Monday to preside at the dedication of the Missouri exhibit in the Hall of States. The governor's party will be greeted in the Court of Honor at 4:30 p. m. by soldiers from Camp Whistler and will then proceed to the Hall of States for the dedication.

Two hundred Wisconsin teachers arrived yesterday to visit the Fair. The party was the Whitewater State Teachers' Century of Progress tour. They will spend the week-end in Chicago. A group of 50 teachers from Kansas City will arrive this morning for four days. Delegates from California to the National Educational association meeting will arrive today.

Tomorrow is Peoria day and large delegations will visit the Exposition under the leadership of the Peoria chamber of commerce. Being the first downstate city to have a special day at the Fair, Peoria will establish headquarters in the Illinois Host building.

Armenian day will be observed today with a special program of songs and music at 2:30 p. m. in the court of the Hall of Science. The program will end with an Armenian wedding and a Russian-Armenian ballet.

A new lounge and park will be opened at the World's Fair tomorrow by the Chicago and North Western railroad. The principal feature will be engine 3024, said to be the largest passenger locomotive in the world. The park is located on Leif Erikson drive, just south of the Travel and Transport building. Umbrella top tables and chairs will be provided for visitors.

SPEEDS A BILL TO OUST WIVES IN STATE JOBS

Madison, Wis., June 29.—[Special.]—About 500 married couples in the state service will be affected if a bill advanced through engrossment in the assembly today, which would force the wives to leave state employment if their husbands receive at least $1,500 a year, is enacted.

The measure allows exemptions only for couples working in state institutions under supervision of the board of control. The engrossment vote was 48 to 32.

In support of the bill, Assemblyman John Kaiser, Milwaukee, Democrat, said there are two families each of which has six members on the state pay roll. He referred to them as the Allen and Wheeler families.

Kaiser said Chester Allen, University of Wisconsin assistant professor, receives $5,000 a year; Mrs. Allen, university secretary, $181 a month; Ernest Allen, employed at the G. A. R. home, Waupaca, complete maintenance and $45 a month; his wife receives the same; Harry Allen, $80 a month and complete maintenance, and his wife $40 a month and maintenance.

MEXICO SHOWS ART OF ANCIENTS ON FAIR TRAIN

Thousands View Exhibit After Dedication.

The Mexican presidential train was dedicated yesterday as an official exhibit of the Mexican government at A Century of Progress, and was inspected by several thousand visitors. It is located just south of the Travel and Transport building. The train proper is open free to the public, "exhibited by the courtesy of Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, president of Mexico."

Soft voices of old Mexico sang, girls in native costume flashed white teeth, and formal courtesy was the rule as the dedication ceremonies progressed. Hundreds then entered the last coach on the train, either by invitation or paying the 25 cent fee which prevails for that coach, to see a rare collection of jewels, bowls, and other relics unearthed last year, after lying entombed for 500 years. The fees will be used for future archæological exploration.

Show Skill of Ancients.

Delicate bone carvings, heavy gold necklaces, and others of gold, jade, coral, and turquoise, worn not by women, but probably by priests during rituals, and, most rare of all, rock crystal bowls and earrings carved out as truly as if by compass, were on view.

All the relics were found in the Monte Alban archæological zone, in mound No. 7, near Oaxaca, in southern Mexico. The excavation was undertaken by the National Museum of Mexico, Mexico City, and, after unearthing several tombs of lesser value, discovered the one from which all the exhibited articles are shown on Jan. 8, 1932. A copper ax is the only weapon which was found.

A skull, thought to be that of a priest, is shown, bearing mosaics of turquoise and burnished with gold. With it were found a massive broad gold bracelet and beads. Another rare article was a string of amber beads.

Air Destroys Frescoes.

"Unfortunately all the frescoes which might have told a complete story of the life of these Indians from the Aztec nation fell into dust when exposed to air," said Alberto Le Duc, Columbia university graduate and a guide.

Le Duc and five other assistants accompanied Luis Gonzales Torres, manager of the exhibit; Dr. D. F. Rubin de la Borbolla, curator of anthropology of the museum, and Dr. Alfonso Caso, director of the museum and head of the archæological expedition, who arrived on the train with the exhibit.

JUGO-SLAVS HOLD CELEBRATION AT FAIR TOMORROW

Jugoslavian Americans from Chicago and all parts of the country will gather at A Century of Progress exposition tomorrow for a celebration of Jugoslavian day.

The ceremonies will begin at 12:30 p. m. at Congress street and Michigan avenue, where the statue of Mestrovic will be dedicated. The principal address will be delivered by Attorney General Otto Kerner.

There will then be a parade to Soldier's field, where 3,000 persons will take part in pageants, dances, and games typical of Jugoslavian life. One of the principal events will be the coronation of "Miss Jugoslavia." John Palandech will be master of ceremonies and speeches will be delivered by Rufus Dawes, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker and Congressman A. J. Sabath.

CLOCK STOPPED; PREVENT CLOSE OF LEGISLATURE

Trick by Republicans Upsets Program.

Backed by party loyalty with few exceptions, Gov. Horner has been able to put through most of the measures upon which he had set his heart. Some of the bills passed, he says, are only a beginning in the direction in which he hopes to make steady progress throughout his four years. But, on the whole, he is pleased with the session.

Despite the tenor of the times, there has been little legislation tinged with radicalism. Pressure from extremists has been exerted in vain. The two houses, except for alleged carelessness in committee work and that particularly in the senate, are credited by analysts with having deliberated measures carefully. Some of this credit is ascribed to the slowness with which the lawmakers moved.

This assembly followed the old Illinois custom of stretching out its business to the fullest extent by the process of meeting only a few days each week. It went right up to the deadline of the period during which it could pass laws by mere majority vote and see them in effect without a year's delay which would have ensued had they taken action on them after July 1.

Refused to Hurry.

But it declined to hasten through the closing days of the session as some of its predecessors have done. In former sessions observers condemned some of the rush work as careless, ill advised and even vicious. Most of the critics of this session say that the assembly passed less legislation of this character than any of those which have gone before for many years.

With the big shift in party control as the result of the landslide that put the Democrats in power not only in the assembly but in the executive branch of the government for the first time since the Wilson-Dunne victory twenty years ago, the machinery began to grind slowly. Some said it was due to lack of experience in possession of power, others said it was because of the pressure of politics resulting from the change of control, demands for a complete house cleaning in all offices.

Wheels Speeded Up.

But when the new administration and the new majorities of the two houses did get hold of the reins the wheels began to grind with fair regularity so that "farewell day" in Springfield witnessed the accomplishment of the aims set forth in campaign speeches, platform pledges and inaugural promises. Economy tax reform, unemployment relief, utility regulation, court procedure revision, modernized road planning—all have been pushed ahead.

Possibly the session will be known chiefly in history for one thing—it may be called the "repeal session," because the first subject on which there was a union of forces was the termination of prohibition. In response to unmistakable decisions by the voters of Illinois, this assembly as rapidly as it could so so repealed the state dry laws.

Then it passed the bill creating the convention of July 10 for state action upon the repeal of the 18th amendment. This was accomplished by concerted efforts of the two parties.

Horner Policies Put Through.

That label may come to tongue in future discussions of the session, but the record of its accomplishments during the troubled times of the depression constitutes a much longer recital.

First of all it is pointed out that Gov. Horner accomplished nearly all of the things he set out to do when he took office last January. Taking personal control of appropriation matters from the outset, he trimmed appropriation bills as they never have been trimmed before. It is established that those for the next biennium are 25 million dollars below those of the preceding two year period.

The new administration encouraged further economies by suggesting legislative cuts in salaries it could not reduce because they were fixed by statute. Its support was solidly behind the salary reduction program pressed vigorously by Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] in the house, and carried to a conclusion in the senate by R. Wallace Karraker [Dem., Jonesboro]], a program that in the main was successful.

Idle Relief Difficult Problem.

Gov. Horner, however, found his most troublesome problem in the conditions resulting from the extent of idleness in the state and the fact that wholesale relief on a scale never before attempted had been embarked upon before he took office.

After many conferences and long study he concluded that a state sales tax was the only source from which necessary funds for this relief could be obtained. The first law on this subject, levying a 3 per cent tax, was invalidated by the Supreme court, and left in its wake a hostility that made the passage of a second law difficult.

But Gov. Horner persuaded the assembly into this unwelcome step and at the same time progressed toward a second of his objects, a beginning of the reduction of taxes on real estate. For six months the 2 per cent sales tax that goes into effect at midnight will be spent for relief. The proceeds for the following six months will go toward the abatement of state taxes on real and personal property.

A second pressing problem of the administration was that of aiding Chicago and Cook county out of a morass of tax tangles. This was met principally by the enactment of the Skarda law providing for county receiverships for delinquent property and a companion bill requiring that a property owner must pay 75 per cent of his bill before he may protest by process of law.

Public Utility Regulation.

The Democrats, with Republican assistance here and there, also reversed the situation that heretofore existed between the public utility companies and the state in rate making matters. A law that goes into effect tomorrow permits the state, through the commerce commission, to fix rates and places on the companies the burden of proving them incorrect.

The same law provides that the company under inquiry shall pay the costs of a rate investigation with the effect that the load is distributed on the consumers of that company alone instead of upon the taxpayers of the entire state.

While the foregoing attracted wide attention there were other important matters that steadily made their way through both houses which aroused little interest on the part of the general public.

The Hunter program for future road building, allowing cities one-third of the gas tax receipts and turning construction toward main arteries around big centers, went through without difficulty.

So did the big bill revising the corporation act, the rewriting of the judicial practice act, and the extensive program of the judicial advisory council. There is also on the statute books now the legal reconstruction of the Illinois penal system, embodied in bills presented by the late Senator Clifford J. Vogelsang [Dem., Taylorville].

Modernize Insurance Laws.

The administration, largely through the appointment of Ernest Palmer, an insurance law specialist, as superintendent of insurance, is credited with modernizing the insurance laws of the state in a manner intended to prevent repetition of recent scandals in that field. Tomorrow the department of insurance, which Palmer heads, comes into existence as a separate member of the code family.

At the same time one of the Horner economy moves eliminates the department of purchases and construction and the department of trade and commerce, the functions of which will be transferred to other departments.

Senate Defeats Two Bills Sought by Gov. Horner

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—[Special.]—Failing to take their last legislative hurdle, the administration's tax commission bills were beaten by the senate. The bills had a stormy day in passing the house.

This last important action of a dying legislature was on concurrence with house amendments to these bills, which would have given the commission the power to assess the capital stock of all corporations. Needing 26 votes for concurrence, the bills obtained only 23.

To effect passage it would have been necessary to send the bills back to the house so that it could recede from its amendments. Such action requires 77 votes and at the time there were barely fifty members left in the lower chamber, and a good half of these were against the measures.

Forced to Accept Defeat.

So nothing remained save accept defeat and the administration forces in the senate unwillingly did that.

Senators Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline] and James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston] were the major opponents in the battle tonight. They did all they could to block the registration of absentee votes and employed other tactics to force announcement of the vote which the acting president, Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] was obviously unwilling to announce.

Whereas house Democrats in a stormy session earlier in the day voted almost to a man with the bills, there were nine Democratic senators against them.

Only 37 were present. Among these were Senators Daniel A. Sarritella [Rep., Chicago], James B. Leonardo [Rep., Chicago], and Joseph Mendel [Dem., Chicago], who left for their homes once today, but were notified at Pontiac to rush back. They arrived hurriedly shortly before midnight. Serritella and Leonardo voted with the Democratic administration, Mendel against it.

Win by One House Vote.

House passage was accomplished by a vote of 78 to 62, the bills drawing just one vote more than necessary. Their passage came at the end of a hectic day in which open lobbying for them was carried on, to quote Republican leaders, to as great an extent as for any bill in their experience.

This lobbying came to a head late in the afternoon when Minority Leader Schnackenberg of Chicago arose and demanded that members of the tax commission cease calling Republican members into the speaker's office and asking them to vote for the bills.

"If this does not cease I shall move that the session adjourn sine die," declared Schnackenberg.

His reference was to Tax Commissioners Barnet Hodes of Chicago and Scott W. Lucas of Havana. Hodes spent the morning in the speaker's office and was joined in the afternoon by Lucas.

Fight Begins in Senate.

A stream of members filed in and out of the office. Asked what was being talked about, Mr. Lucas said that the "important phases of the bill" were being explained. But finally the roll was called on each bill and they were rushed to the senate.

The amendment on which senate opponents made their fight would have exempted newspapers and publishing companies from assessment by the tax commission. Little debate accompanied the opposition when the amendment was called and the roll began without delay.

Lieut. Gov. Donovan and President Pro Tempore Graham were absent. Senator Ward was presiding and the amendment was handled by Senator Rollo M. Shaw [Dem., Lawrenceville].

Demand Result of Vote.

At the end of the call, when Secretary Eden had counted the "Aye" votes and noted only 23 present, Senator Shaw asked that further consideration be postponed. Barbour and Carlson objected and demanded that the vote be announced. There was then just 40 minutes left of the session.

Much jockeying ensued, particularly when Senator Shaw withdrew his motion and asked that the vote be announced. Finally Senator Ward arose and said: "The chair has been trying to announce this vote, but so many other motions were made that he had no chance. The vote on the bill was 23 to 16 and the senate refuses to concur in the house amendment.

HORNER NAMES NEW HEADS OF REGISTRY DEPT.

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner's own appointees took charge of the department of education and registration today. He named John J. Hallihan of East St. Louis as director and Eugene R. Schwartz of Naperville as superintendent of registration. The appointments were confirmed by the senate, and the new men took hold at once.

For six months under the present régime this department has been in charge of Michael F. Walsh, a Harvard newspaper owner and editor, who was appointed to the directorship by Gov. Emmerson. It was Walsh's insistence that he be relieved by July 1 that brought about the changes.

Hallihan has been treasurer of the Democratic committee of St. Clair county for several years and is now chairman of the Democratic central committee of East St. Louis. He was a state employé under the Dunne administration and served ten years as city clerk of East St. Louis. Schwartz is chairman of the Democratic committee of Du Page county. He is a graduate of Notre Dame and has been in the lumber business.

House Passes Dental Bill Without Dissenting Vote

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—[Special.]—The Graham-Gunning bill to regulate the practice of dentistry in Illinois was passed without a dissenting vote by the house of representatives today. The measure, sponsored by the Chicago Dental society and other organizations, would prevent the advertising of prices and enforce a code of ethics. The bill was passed by the senate on June 20 after State Senator James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville] stated on the floor that he had been offered a bribe to vote against it.

PREDICT HIGHER PRICE FOR BREAD BUT FEAR EFFECT

Bakers Cite Grain Cost and New Tax.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Predicting that the recent rise in wheat prices, coupled with the adding of a processing tax by the government beginning July 9, would cause an increase of from 1 to 3 cents per pound of bread, local millers and bakers yesterday expressed concern that many people would be turned to substitute foods for bread.

The Iowa Bakers' association meeting in Des Moines yesterday, announced that the price of bread would be increased on July 5 from 5 to 8 cents per pound loaf.

According to J. A. Powers, Des Moines baker and vice president of the state association, flour that cost $3 a barrel three weeks ago now costs $5 a barrel and the government's processing tax would add another $1.30 a barrel.

U. S. May Probe Increase.

In Washington it was reported that such a price increase would be made the subject of an investigation by the federal farm adjustment administration. It was said that the increase on July 5 could not be blamed on the processing tax, which is not effective until midnight July 8, and that the tax would amount to about $1.38 per barrel of flour or not more than ¾ cent per pound loaf of bread.

At the offices of the American Bakers' institute in Chicago, it was said that three factors might operate to raise bread prices somewhat, although no decision had been reached as to what the exact increase should be. These factors included the increase in price of wheat, the processing tax and adjustment which might be made under the farm act or industrial recovery act to offset price cutting in bread. A conference of the bakers and millers is expected in Washington and in Chicago next week.

Officials of several milling firms, preferring not to be quoted, asserted that economic conditions had almost doubled flour prices in about a month.

BAN MILK DELIVERIES.

Joliet faces a milk famine Sunday under an ultimatum issued yesterday by the Joliet branch of the Pure Milk association. Members of the association advised the Joliet Milk Dealers' association that no more milk will be delivered unless the dealers meet the price of $1.90 per one hundred pounds. The present price is $1.45.

"We are starving at the present price," said Fred C. Wilhelmi, president of the milk association branch. "There is no reason why we should not get the same price that is paid in Chicago and the surrounding area."

Dealers said they cannot meet the demands unless the price of milk is raised from 7 cents, the present retail rate, to 10 cents a quart.

College Faculty Member Is Detectives' Victim.

The "mistake" of two detectives who locked up a World's Fair visitor, a college faculty member, for more than twenty hours without giving him a chance to identify himself, was being investigated by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker yesterday.

Two other cases of alleged police brutality were brought to the attention of the authorities. A motorist charged he was beaten by a Lincoln park policeman for a trifling traffic infraction and an 18 year old girl was thrown in a cell for having no license plates on her new car.

Hunted by Fiancée.

The college professor is Edward Lohman, 32 years old, member of the faculty of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college. While he was spending Monday night and Tuesday locked up with bums and criminals in various police cells his fiancée, who is also visiting the Fair, hunted for him in vain, believing he had fallen afoul of thugs in a great city.

Lohman was finally released after being fingerprinted. Chief Schoemaker said that Detectives Frank McCune and Earl Flannery, who arrested him, realized they had made a mistake.

"I have been staying with friends at 5240 Kenwood avenue while visiting the Fair," said Lohman yesterday. "My fiancée, Miss Isola Mann, who lives in Kansas, is staying at 500 Fullerton parkway with four girl friends.

"We arrived last Monday and spent the afternoon down town. I bought theater tickets and parted from Miss Mann at about 5:30 p. m. with the understanding I should meet her at the theater lobby at 8 o'clock.

Story of Arrest.

"I went into the Hotel Sherman for a time and then started out to look for a restaurant. I was standing near Dearborn and Randolph streets looking in a window where doughnuts were being made.

"Two men in plain clothes came up to me. One took hold of my shoulder and the other seized my arm. They asked me roughly where I was from and what I was doing in Chicago. I asked them why they wanted to know and they showed me metal badges they took from their pockets.

"A policeman in uniform was standing at the corner and I appealed to him, asking if the two men were policemen. He seemed unconcerned and said nothing. The two men walked me over to State street and on the way I told them who I was and that I came from Stillwater, Okla. They said I could tell that to the judge.

Makes Second Appeal.

"I saw another uniformed officer and broke away to ask him whether the two men were policemen. He was also unconcerned and made no comment. The plain clothes men said they should have shot me on the spot for running. They sent me to the police building at 11th and State streets in a patrol.

"I asked permission to call my friends and permission was denied. The lockup keeper took my pen knife from me, but did not search me. Soon afterwards I was taken out and some policemen took my finger prints. Then I was placed in another cell. All my requests to be permitted to notify my friends were denied. I knew Miss Mann would be frantic with fear.

Girl Is Refused Information.

"She went to the theater looking for me. All night long she called up police stations and hospitals. The next morning at 9 o'clock she went to the 11th street station and asked about me, but she was not told I was arrested. A sergeant said to her, 'He will show up some time—don't worry.'

"At 3 o'clock in the afternoon I was taken from the cell to a lieutenant's office. He questioned me and then told me I could go. My pen knife was not returned to me.

"I suppose that under some circumstances a policeman has a right to make an arrest on suspicion, but no one at the station made any effort to learn my identity. No policeman looked at any of my identification papers. This hey, a Phi Lambda Upsilon, carried my name. I was graduated from Iowa State college in 1931 and then went to Oklahoma, where I obtained a master's degree. I was then placed in charge of the pottery plant there."

A sworn statement was taken from Lohman for use against the accused police before a police trial board. Lohman said he could not remain in the city to appear against them.

Attorney Joseph Braun of the Chicago Motor club yesterday said he would appear before Judge Thomas Green in the Speeder's court today and seek a warrant against a Lincoln park policeman, who is alleged to have assaulted William Marson, 835 Irving Park boulevard, a butcher. The assault, according to Marson, occurred on June 27 on the Lake Shore drive near Belmont avenue.

Marson said he stopped for pedestrian traffic at the direction of the policeman. The policeman, he said, dropped his arms, indicating traffic should move on and that he then started his car. He said the policeman arrested him and said he had crossed the pedestrian mark.

Marson said the policeman told him to wait for another policeman, who would take him to the lockup. It is charged Marson waited 15 minutes and then asked how much longer he would have to wait. He said the policeman then beat him up with a blackjack. Marson's case is scheduled to come up in the Municipal court on July 12.

Chief Justice Sonsteby was making a personal investigation yesterday of the case of Helen Louise Little, 6946 Stony Island avenue, 18 years old, who was locked in a cell in the Hyde Park police station. Miss Little had been taken to the station for driving a new automobile without license plates.

PLAN TO MERGE LEWIS INSTITUTE WITH U. OF C. TOLD

Technical School to Keep Its Identity.

The basis upon which trustees of Lewis institute and the University of Chicago are negotiating for a merger of the institute with the university was stated yesterday by former Judge Charles S. Cutting, chairman of the Lewis trustees.

The institute was dedicated in 1896 as an institution for academic and technical training. It was endowed by Allan C. Lewis, who made a fortune in Chicago real estate and at the time of his death in 1877 left $550,000 for the foundation of such a school. The endowment has been greatly increased since, but during the depression has declined to about $1,250,000.

2,500 Students at Institute.

The buildings of the institute are at Damen avenue and Madison street. There are about 2,500 students, of whom 60 per cent attend evening classes. The largest registration in the collegiate division is in the four year courses in engineering. The institute also has a large registration in pre-college courses. Since it opened it has registered more than 50,000 students.

Under the terms proposed for the merger with the university the institute would not lose its identity, Mr. Cutting said. It would become the Lewis institute of the University of Chicago, and, since the university now has no engineering school, the institute would occupy the same relation in that field that Rush Medical college occupies to the university in the field of medicine. Neither would the institute lose its present endowment, which would continue to be used to carry out the provisions specified in the will of Mr. Lewis.

Will Keep Present Location.

"It is not the purpose of the merger to move the institute from its present location on the west side, nor to abandon the courses now given," Mr. Cutting said.

"By the merger we will gain the prestige and financial support of the university. Our buildings are old, and we have not the funds in our present endowment to replace them. Under the merger proposal the present members of our faculty will be taken over by the university. Those who have pension rights will be granted their pensions before the merger takes place, if it does. The alumni of Lewis who took bachelor's degrees in the collegiate courses will become automatically, I understand, alumni of the university."

"KING OF BOMBERS" FREED.

James Belcastro "king of the bombers," was freed in the South State Street court yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct. Policeman James McMullen admitted that he had arrested Belcastro in the latter's own back yard during a police drive on hoodlums.

STEVENS TRIAL DELAYED; HOTEL MAKING MONEY

The trial of Ernest J. Stevens and his invalid father, James W. Stevens, 79 years old, on charges of embezzlement, was set for Sept. 18 yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the Criminal court. The defense gained the continuance on a plea that absence of the younger Stevens, resident manager of the Stevens hotel, might impair the hotel's business.

Defense Attorney Jay Fred Reeve told the court that A Century of Progress had brought business to the hotel, now in federal receivership, "beyond the wildest dreams." Continuance of the present business, according to affidavits presented in court, would allow the payment of back taxes on the building, payment of debts and the return of the hotel to solvency.

Ernest Stevens asked that the case be continued to allow recovery of his father. He said the presence of the elder Stevens was necessary for an adequate defense.

TWO KILLED BY LIGHTNING BOLT.

Greensburg, Pa., June 30.—(AP)—John Kane, 44, an dhis nephew, Deveiiner Fennell, 18, were killed by lightning as they sought refuge under trees on the Kane farm during a sudden thunderstorm today. Kane's son, Hobart, 17, escaped with slight burns.

COUNTY POLICE KEEP JOBS WITH NO PAY IN SIGHT

The hundred county highway policemen, the appropriation for whose services expires today, will go on working under reappointments given them yesterday by Sheriff Meyering. In accepting the reappointment, each policeman was required to sign a statement that he was aware that the county board had refused a further appropriation for his services, and that he accepted the appointment on the understanding that the sheriff is not to be liable for his compensation, but that he would look to the county board for compensation. President Whealan of the board reiterated his statement that no appropriation would be made. The original understanding of the county commissioners was that Gov. Horner would replace the county police by state highway patrolmen.

Pageant of Transportation Progress.

tion to the experimentation in plane building and plane flying, will close at twilight of Independence day with the singing of the national anthem by the 41,000 spectators and those of the 300 pilots who have breath and pep enough left for singing.

The heralding parade of the American Air Races was brilliant, instructive, and amusing, and packed with historic contrasts.

It illustrated man's progress in transportation of self and lady from ox to airplane and it brought forward his former best friend, the horse—which is still, I beg to interject, a very agreeable companion—in a highly picturesque way.

There have not been so many horses in the now highly mechanized loop since the dawn of the century.

The people, who for two miles lined both sides of the avenue six deep, saw everything fancy and friendly in horseflesh from the one hoss shay and the dancing ponies drawing a boy's cart to good oldtimers that dragged a swaying American stage coach.

Far-Flung Pageant of Nations.

The gazing multitude from Ohio street on down to Roosevelt road cheered the painted and befeathered Indians who rode spunky ponies as if they were sitting in rocking chairs, and in the next breath the onlookers were cheering astrakhaned Cossacks who ride like—bewhiskered comparison but always safe—the fabulous centaurs.

And they saw green turbaned Turks and sombreroed girls, and long haired rancheros clattering down the avenue to the clack-clack of hoof beats and the crashing of bands and the swaying of banners.

And if those alluring bits from "Wings of a Century" and the 101 Ranch show and the Forty-Niners camp send yesterday's spectators to the complete and glowing originals of the shows on the World's Fair grounds THE TRIBUNE will be heartily pleased, because the owners and managers of those exposition attractions cooperated generously with us by lending their performers and paraphernalia for the parade.

Art Director's Tribute.

The moving picture was 32 minutes passing the bronze lions of the Art institute, where seventy-five million dollars' worth of the painted pictures of the World's Fair art exhibition are delighting 3,000 visitors a day. As it passed Dr. Robert B. Harshe, director of the institute, who stood in the shadow of a lion, exclaimed, "Some picture! Some picture for the young geniuses of our art school to paint!"

And it was a picture!

Nearly a thousand actors and musicians were in it, and as it swept along it brought beneath the windows of towering office buildings and hotels—

Ponderous, sapient-eyed, cautious-stepping elephants which showed, as always, that they are barely reconciled to human nature.

And antiquated railroad locomotives that went hooting over the asphalt to the accompaniment of clashing bells.

And ancient autos that Noah would have felt at ease in after the planet went dry, and other autos, streamlined and built for the plutocracy—if any remains.

And aristocratic old broughams which, when you arrived at the possession of one in Victorian days, proved that you had also arrived at the pinnacle of earthly aplomb. Lord Macaulay was blandly proud when he was able to buy one—he recorded it in his diary—and Thomas Carlyle was prouder when he could make his dear Jane Welsh a gift of one.

In short, the hundreds of thousands along the way saw in half an hour the vivid and humorous march of a century of change in fashions and in inventions.

Hail the Conquering Hero!

Quaintest of all was the buckboard drawn by four army mules and described in the day's program as "similar to the one ridden in by Maj. Gen. Shafter, U. S. A., in the Spanish-American war." It was the loan of the ever up and dusting Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth corps area, and it started my reportorial skiff down a bubbling brook of reminiscence.

For, 25 years ago, I saw with these old eyes "the major general commanding the invading army in Cuba" riding in the buckboard to which Maj. Gen. Parker's loan is similar, and, believe me, children, it was a sight to make Mars grind his iron teeth.

William Rufus Shafter was more than stout. He was a hillside of fat—too fat to ride a horse up the heights behind Siboney. So a buckboard was shipped in the next dispatch boat from Tampa and onto it sergeants hoisted the warrior from Kalamazoo county, Mich.

To Battle on a Buckboard.

On it he rode to battle, his face crimson, the sweat pouring down it, his shirt open at the throat, and his high, shrill voice piping like a flageolet out of order. By his side, in the driver's seat, sat a shamefaced sergeant uttering sotto voce blasphemy to the army mules, and at a respectful distance would be standing British Maj. Lee and other European war observers, trying not to laugh.

And around us the embalmed beef piled on the Caribbean shore beneath a July sun was popping from its cans.

It was, for soldiery and for newspaper correspondents, like going to war with Sancho Panza.

Buckboard Eclipses Glory.

He has been dead this quarter of a century, but the buckboard farce still dims the glory of his capture of Santiago de Cuba. A brave, good, earnest man he was, nevertheless, and he received that illustrious command "because," as Gen. Corbin often said, "he was not an officer to find out how things cannot be done."

Well, while I for the moment was far away, the parade rolled on, and suddenly, ahead of a little float mounted racing plane that this afternoon at the races will be going 290 miles an hour, strode a noble young Greek with a Yankee last name—black-haired Michael Loomis of Chicago Y. M. C. A. He wore around his head a gold embroidered white fillet, and on his legs white shorts with a golden pendant, and on his feet sandals.

A Horseless Paul Revere.

He impersonated fleet Pheidippides, the courier who, 2,423 years ago this coming September, ran 150 miles on foot in 48 consecutive hours to beg the Spartans to hurry and join the Greeks at the impending battle against 100,000 Persians landing at Marathon.

Kind of horseless Paul Revere, as it were.

That impersonation and the buglike little 290-miles-an-hour racing plane on the float provided the supreme contrast of THE TRIBUNE'S pageant of progress in transportation.

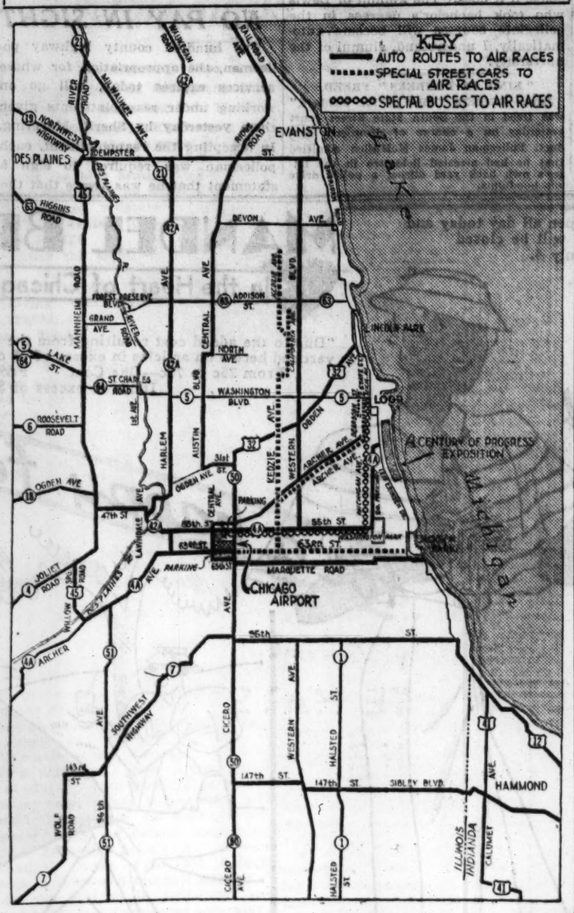

For today the Athenians would have sent Pheidippides to Sparta by airplane in less than an hour.

"Lillian the Unspoiled."

I don't know that there is anything more to report except that Miss Lillian Anderson of Racine, "the World Fair $5,000 Queen," as Mr. Barnum would have shouted, rode in the parade with maids of honor and received the plaudits of the multitude. She is still called "Lillian the Unspoiled," which is great.

O, yes!—and Capt. David Flynn of the police department, large as life and just as natural, maneuvered the parade down the avenue without a hitch. Best traffic disentangler and parade manager on the force is "Capt. Dave," and he carries a moral with him, because what he achieves so finely he achieves largely by keeping his temper. Many a time he has rescued my pale and panting corporosity from gala crushes and smilingly delivered me right side up to the press stand.

How to Get to Air Races

Cat Carries Young from Flaming Barn to Safety

Mc Gregor, Ia., June 30.—[Special.]—When the barn on the Henry Lawson farm north of McGregor, caught first and burned, the family cat which had a litter of kittens in the hay mow, didn't wait for the firemen to save her young. She carried them out to safety herself, making several trips through the fire.

HELD AS WIFE MURDERER.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Luca Dimonte, 35 years old, 710 South Sacramento avenue, to be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder. He shot and killed his wife on June 17 and then shot himself, but failed to inflict a fatal wound.

CLOSE STATION AT GREAT LAKES; ONLY STAFF LEFT

The Great Lakes Naval Training station was reduced to a bare maintenance basis yesterday in accordance with the economy program of the government. With the departure of the last of the enlisted men and the 300 civil employés, the station was left in charge of Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant of the station, 18 members of his staff and 40 marines.

The station was established by act of congress in 1904. Three months before the United States entered the world war, it had 1,000 men in training. During the war period the station expanded from 167 to 1,200 acres and had an average of 45,000 men in training at all times.

FREED IN KILLING, MRS. PETERS WINS ESTATE CONTROL

Mrs. Doris Peters, 4449 George street, who was acquitted two weeks ago of the murder of her husband, William, a milk wagon driver, was granted letters of administration yesterday for his estate, valued at $3,200, by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell.

Mrs. Peters was charged with killing her husband and their son, William Jr., 12 years old, but the case was dismissed by Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the Criminal court after a statement made by the boy that his mother had done the shooting was barred as evidence because the boy had not been told that he was about to die when he made the statement.

FIND WOMAN'S DEATH ACCIDENT.

A corner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death yesterday in the case of Mrs. Anna Cohrs, 40 years old, who was killed by motor fumes Thursday in the garage behind her home at 2439 Cochran street, Blue Island.

RECORD HOLIDAY TRAFFIC TO TEST CITY RESOURCES

Trains, Autos and Planes to Bring Throng.

BY HAL FOUST.

A holiday movement of a people this week-end will test the capacity of the transportation facilities of this world's greatest railroad center, world's greatest air center, and world's greatest highway center, at the foot of Lake Michigan.

This stir of humanity seeking recreation was started last night, when special trains and travel stained automobiles began to arrive in the city from all parts of the country. Meanwhile many Chicagoans were heading for cottages, camps, and resorts in Michigan, Wisconsin, northern Indiana, and northern Illinois.

The movement this afternoon will become heavy, virtually a temporary shift of major populations. Rail, bus, and airplane operators, basing their estimates on advance reservations, expect that all travel records will be broken. Traffic engineers, although lacking a concrete basis for estimates, expect that the highways likewise will carry more than ever before.

4 Movements of Traffic.

There are really four movements of the people this week-end. At the gates of the city there is the outflow of city dwellers and the inflow of visitors. Within the city there is the concentration at A Century of Progress and the concentration at the American Air races.

Using the figures of other years for his calculations, Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer, estimated that a quarter of a million automobiles with 625,000 passengers will leave Chicago for a holiday in the country. This is below the total in other years, when there was neither a World's Fair nor an air race to hold folks in the city.

The number of visitors arriving in the city in private automobiles, contrary to the precedent of other years, is expected to be even greater than those leaving. Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, made this deduction from inquiries received at the club's touring bureau in Chicago and at branches in northern Illinois and Indiana.

Expect Record Attendance.

The World's Fair administration believes that all previous attendance records will be broken this week-end. Maj. E. S. J. Irvine, superintendent of transportation, intimated that the total attendance for the four days starting today and extending through the Fourth of July would be 500,000. He said this was a conservative estimate.

The holiday week-end includes Jewish day at the Fair on Monday with 75,000 tickets sold in advance for events in Soldiers' field. The promoters hope to break the field's attendance peak of 125,000 set by THE TRIBUNE'S music festival.

The American Air Races, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, at the Chicago airport today, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday will probably draw more than a quarter of a million persons during the four days. This is greater than the attendance at any air event in Chicago, but it is the first time such an event has been held within reach of cheap transportation.

The airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue will be served by special street cars and special buses. The Chicago Motor club has prepared a map to aid automobile drivers in choosing a route. It is published in this edition of THE TRIBUNE.

Special street cars will operate from a downtown loop that includes Dearborn and State streets, southwest in Archer avenue to Kedzie avenue, thence to 63d street, and west to the air races. Other special cars will run from the eastern terminal of the 63d street line and from the north terminal of the Kedzie avenue line.

Special Bus Service.

Special buses will run south from the Michigan avenue bridge to 55th street and thence west to the port. The elevated lines can be taken to 63d street stations on the south branch or to Kedzie avenue stations on the western branches, and from there to the airport by special street cars.

Now for statistics on this holiday traffic movement. George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, estimates that 2,500,000 persons will take recreational automobile rides on the streets and highways of Chicagoland at one time or another during this week-end. His figures are based on traffic surveys made by the city and the state in 1931.

Robert Thomson, passenger traffic manager of the Chicago and North Western railroad, estimated arrivals and departures of 400,000 at the Chicago railway terminals this week.

F. W. Benefiel, vice president of the Greyhound lines, said buses will move 50,000 passengers, operating all available equipment, including some vehicles recently put in service.

Steamship Lines Busy.

Air passenger operators reported that their planes will carry capacity loads over the week-end. Steamship passenger lines, revived by the World's Fair, are also planning a record week-end. Excursion service is to be revived today on the old Goodrich line routes by the steamship City of Grand Rapids and City of Holland. Both ships are expected to bring large crowds to the Fair from Milwaukee, Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, and South Haven. The steamships Theodore Roosevelt, Isle Royale, and Alabama and a C. & B. liner are also arriving with hundreds of Fair visitors.

SOLITARY BID FOR FLATIRON BUILDING IN FORECLOSURE SUIT

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—The Flatiron building, one of New York's most familiar landmarks, was sold at foreclosure today by Edwin J. McDonald, auctioneer. The Equitable Life Assurance society, which was the plaintiff in the foreclosure suit, made a solitary bid of $100,000 and got the property.

The Flatiron building is twenty-two stories high. Thirty years ago, when the New York skyline did not have the sweep that it possesses today, the Flatiron building was a conspicuous and a novel part of it. The structure had been erected in 1901 and at that time was the tallest building uptown. It was given the name of the Fuller building after George A. Fuller, its builder, but, because of its shape, was quickly dubbed the Flatiron building and Flatiron building it remained.

ORDERS POLICE VIGIL TO AVERT 4TH CASUALTIES

Fireworks Law Violators to Be Prosecuted.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

While the rising crescendo of exploding fireworks in various parts of Chicago yesterday heralded the approclamation issued by Mayor Kelly nual toll of lost fingers, toes and eyes, as well as lives, Commissioner of Police Allman moved to keep the city's celebration sane. Instructions were issued to all policemen to notify all storekeepers that they will be vigorously prosecuted if found selling explosives.

Incorporated in the order was a proclamation issued by Mayor Kelly, directing attention to the yearly total of serious accidents from fireworks, and calling upon all law abiding citizens to uphold and aid in the enforcement of the municipal laws and ordinances prohibiting the unlawful sale and use of pyrotechnics.

Threat of Prosecution.

Instructions were issued by Commissioner Allman, that whenever policemen see children with toy pistols, cannon or fireworks, they are to inform the parents that it is a violation of the city ordinance, and that if the children are permitted to retain such articles, the parents will be prosecuted.

"It is the desire to make Independence day period the safest in the history of Chicago. You will see that every officer of your command is thoroughly instructed concerning the regulations covering sale and use of fireworks, and that they strictly enforce the same," the police commissioner's orders to his captains concluded.

Troops from the World's Fair camp, Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts and national groups will participate in a July Fourth parade within the grounds of A Century of Progress, starting from 39th street at 10 o'clock and terminating in the Hall of Science court, where patriotic addresses will be made by Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, Brig. Gen. Frank Parker, and Father Joseph Lonergan, past national chaplain of the American Legion. Alice Mock, soprano, will lead the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Historical Pageant at Night.

Preliminary to the parade, some daylight fireworks will be shot off from the top of the sky ride. Both daylight and evening fireworks displays will be held, the latter at 10 o'clock, following the historical pageant that will be presented in the floating theater in the lagoon at 9 p. m.

Harry S. New, United States commissioner to A Century of Progress, has issued invitations to many prominent Chicagoans to attend a reception from 4 to 6 o'clock in the reception room of the Government building at the Fair. The 6th infantry battalion will be on dress parade and the members of the 3d field artillery band will be attired in their blue dress uniforms.

The federal postoffice and all substations will be closed all day Tuesday, July 4. Postmaster Lueder announced yesterday. No deliveries of mail will be made by the carriers, although special delivery and lock box service will be maintained at the main branch. One collection from all street letter boxes will be made, to arrive at the main postoffice at 9 p. m.

VETERAN KILLS MILITARY HOME MEDICAL CHIEF

Dayton, O., June 30.—[Special.]—James D. Shadbolt, 53 year old veteran of the Spanish and world wars, confessed to the police today that he shot and killed Col. Vernon Roberts, chief of the medical staff of the National Military home here, because he "had the devil in him" Thursday night.

He added that he had several times carried bombs to a Democratic club in Dayton with the intention of blowing up Congressman Byron B. Harlan of the 3d Ohio district. On each occasion the congressman failed to appear.

Shadbolt's antipathy to both men grew out of the fact that he had been cut off the Spanish war pension rolls recently. He had been receiving $60 a month, but this was withdrawn in conformity with the federal administration's economy program, when it was discovered his disabilities were not incurred in the service of his country.

Following the shooting, which took place at the home, Shadbolt fled to a nearby cemetery, where he was captured. He said that he was sorry he had killed Col. Roberts, for whom he had worked as ambulance driver at the Johnson City, Tenn., veterans' hospital some years ago.

"He was a fine fellow," declared the killer. "I don't know why I did it, unless it was the devil pushing me into it."

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $929,277. It was the third greatest collection day since the beginning of the Kerner-Skarda act enforcement drive. The totals during the day and for four years are shown in the following table:

Uncollected	19,056,683	50,110,514
	1930.	1931.
June 30	$ 254,175	$ 529,531

The threat of receivership proceedings brought a group of delinquent taxpayers into the County court yesterday where they paid back taxes on their properties totaling $321,291. As a result, Judge Jarecki postponed the appointment of a tax receiver under the Kerner-Skarda act for those who made payments, but threw fifteen other properties into receivership because of the nonpayment of 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes.

The largest payment was made by attorneys for the Straus Safe Deposit company, owners of the building at 300 South Michigan avenue. The efficiency of the Kerner-Skarda act was pointed out in connection with the records in this case.

Pay 90 Per Cent of Bill.

When the act was put into force about two months ago the building was sued by County Treasurer McDonough, through Assistant State's Attorney William T. Crilly, for unpaid taxes aggregating $444,573. Shortly thereafter $237,939 was paid to avoid the appointment of a receiver. Yesterday lawyers for the building paid an additional $135,037, bringing the unpaid balance to less than 10 per cent of the total tax.

Attorney M. B. Morris paid sums aggregating $68,000 for clients facing county receivership action, and representatives of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company tendered Judge Jarecki checks totaling $69,634 to prevent a receivership appointment. Other property owners paid sums ranging from $500 to $10,000 to make up the day's total of court collections.

15 Properties in Receiverships.

The fifteen properties for which the judge appointed the county treasurer receiver and the amounts owed in back taxes were the following:

112 Armstrong street	$ 8,148
836 Lake Shore drive	12,022
1506 North Clark street	5,467
1112 Juneway terrace	5,827
204 Chestnut street	5,307
2800 Lunt avenue	5,290
7009 North Paulina street	5,687

HOLDS J. P. LACKS POWER TO TRY STATE CHARGES

Superior Judge Joseph B. David held yesterday that a justice of the peace may not try a person for violation of a state statute. He issued a writ of habeas corpus freeing Diana Hendrys, 26 years old, 4616 North Racine avenue, from the Bridewell, where she was serving out a $100 fine for driving while intoxicated.

In May, 1931, while she was driving with Oscar Nelson, real estate agent who was murdered two weeks ago, Miss Hendrys struck another automobile in Linden street in Evanston. Justice of the Peace James M. Corcoran, recently elected a Municipal judge in the suburb, fined her $100 for driving while intoxicated.

"Corcoran had no business to hear a charge of driving while intoxicated," ruled Judge David. "That is part of the state motor vehicle act, and all he had power to do was to hold her to the grand jury."

SUPREME COURT OF INDIANA BARS BEER ON DRAFT

Indianapolis, Ind., June 30.—(AP)—The Indiana Supreme court today overruled a lower court decision in Lake county sanctioning the sale of draft beer.

It made permanent a writ of prohibition, the effect of which will permit state and county officials to arrest and prosecute persons selling the draft beverage. The Indiana beer law permits the sale of beer in bottles only.

John Tenkely, East Chicago city councilman, under protection of a Lake county Superior court restraining order, sold beer by the glass until the authorities obtained a temporary writ of prohibition.

The Supreme court held the only question involved was whether the Lake county Superior court had jurisdiction to restrain operation of a criminal statute and did not involve constitutionality of the law.

Yanks in Panama Honor First President's Memory

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, June 30.—Honoring the 100th anniversary of the birth of Dr. Manuel Amador, Panama's first president, Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, commander of the United States forces, today staged a review of the troops on the Pacific side at Fort Amador. President Arias inspected the troops. Juan A. Jiminez, secretary of state, presented an oil portrait of Dr. Amador to the fort, which Col. Russell F. Reeder, commandant, accepted. As a mark of the day Dr. Arias pardoned 60 political prisoners.

Tax Collections in Court of Klarkowski Show Slump

Since he has begun to hear suits for the collection of delinquent personal property taxes last Feb. 15, Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski has been enforcing the payment of these taxes at a rate of 39 per cent of the total of the bills brought before him. During this time he heard 349 cases and returned judgments amounting to $483,239 against total bills aggregating $1,248,821.

During the eight months prior to Feb. 15, tax judgments totaling $3,027,326 were returned in 792 cases involving tax bills amounting to $4,130,093, or at the rate of 73.3 per cent. These judgments were entered by Circuit Judges Craig Hood and David M. Brothers, through court prosecutions carried on by Attorney Lee La Rochelle, who was under contract to the county to do this work.

Shown in Collection Report.

These facts were ascertained yesterday upon examination of the report of personal property tax collections compiled by the special committee appointed by the county commissioners. The report now is in the hands of the county finance committee.

The collection figures also disclose that before the commissioner began investigating of the court collections Judge Klarkowski had been collecting the personalty taxes at the rate of 11 per cent of the aggregate bills brought before him.

The rapid increase in the percentage was attained, the record discloses, during the period from May 4 to May 31, through a long series of default cases hurriedly put through the court by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney's assistants. The report shows that during eight months of trying similar cases before Judges Hood and Brothers, Attorney La Rochelle had obtained only 110 default judgments, while Assistant State's Attorney Emanuel Cowan tried 152 default cases in three and one-half months.

Of the $483,239 in judgments entered by Judge Klarkowski only $107,440 were in cases other than defaults. Attorney La Rochelle had a small percentage of default cases, the report disclosed, the total taxes involved in such cases being less than $150,000. Special County Attorney Hayden N. Bell said yesterday in a public statement that the default judgments should be discounted as uncollectible in the majority of cases.

Decline in Collections.

The report also shows that under Attorney La Rochelle the delinquent personal property taxes were being collected at an average of $378,415 a month for the eight month period. Under the prosecution of Assistant State's Attorney Cowan in Judge Klarkowski's court the collections declined to $13,809 a month.

A recapitulation of 126 cases tried before Judge Klarkowski between last Feb. 15 and May 1, shows that in 67 cases a total of $283,129 in outstanding taxes was reduced to $56,097. In 19 cases in which the defendants made no appearance, according to the court record, the outstanding taxes were reduced from $41,618 to $5,427. Nine cases, involving $37,069 in taxes, were dismissed without cost to the defendants.

During this period defendants in tax cases involving $261,655 won verdicts permitting them to avoid payment. During this time three default judgments were entered for a total of $10,612.

On May 1 the county commissioners' committee called Attorney Bell and Assistant State's Attorney Cowan. Commissioners Amelia Sears, George Miller, and Grace Fleming questioned Cowan and then agreed to continue the investigation for another month.

During the period from May 4 to May 31 88 cases were tried before Judge Klarkowski of which 46 were default cases in which no defendant appeared. The record shows that judgments totaling $146,887 were entered, but of this amount $129,720 was in default judgments. Total taxes involved in these 88 cases amounted to $239,427.

The commissioners have asked Assistant State's Attorney Cowan and Judge Klarkowski to explain the dismissal without costs of the suit against the American Oak Leather company. In that suit State's Attorney Courtney's name appears as attorney of record for the defendant. The suit involves a tax bill of $2,795.

An explanation also is sought concerning the Pullman company's taxes for 1930, amounting to $225,000. The commissioners noted that the court record shows that this case was dismissed without cost to the defendants. Then they recalled that representatives of the Pullman company had appeared before them with Attorney La Rochelle, offering a compromise payment of $200,000.

At that time the commissioners were told by Attorney La Rochelle that the courts would sustain the full amount of the tax and the offer was rejected. Attorney La Rochelle was ousted by the board before the case was taken into court. The actual court hearing was handled by Attorney Cowan.

U. S. POPULATION IS 125,693,000 BY NEW ESTIMATE

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—The population of the United States has increased 2,917,954 since April 1, 1930, to a new high of 125,693,000.

So declared the census bureau today in presenting some complicated additions, subtractions, and divisions arrived at by estimating the increase since the 1930 census, on the basis of the available data regarding births, deaths, immigration, and emigration.

The population of the several states was estimated by distributing to them the increase in the national population according to the per cent which each state increased in relation to the national increase between 1920 and 1930. Where there was a decrease in a state's population the census figure was retained and no estimate was made.

WARN TAXPAYERS TO STOP SENDING DEPUTIES GIFTS

Assessor Jacobs yesterday issued a warning that if any more "generous" corporations or individuals inclose cash or checks with the personal property schedules which they submit to deputy assessors their names will be made public and the state's attorney will be asked to investigate their motives.

During the last few days, Jacobs said, a number of his assistants in responsible positions have received cash or checks by mail, the checks drawn in the names of the deputies. Among the senders, it was reported, were two large oil corporations. The gratuities were all returned, he added, and employés have been notified that any one accepting them will be discharged immediately.

"Do you know how much is in this envelope?" asked the lawyer.

"It's not enough," said the deputy.

"What do you mean?" asked the lawyer.

"I won't take anything under $1,000,000," said the deputy. He reported the incident later to Jacobs.

36 STATES SURE TO VOTE ON REPEAL THIS YEAR; ANOTHER MAY

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Of four states that have laws making it possible for them to vote this year on repeal, three are considered sure to hold elections by fall, thus making thirty-six that will cast their ballot in 1933. The governor of the fourth, Frank H. Cooney of Montana, says he thinks repeal is progressing so fast there is no need for the state to incur the expense of a special election to speed it.

The legislature in Utah convenes on July 10, and after that session the governor will set a date for an election, at which the state dry law may be on the ballott, too. Gov. Dave Sholtz of Florida has not announced the exact time for the election in his state, but is expected to fix it in the first or second week of October. There is some debate among Missouri lawyers as to the time of the election there, but it probably will be in September.

Utah is the most doubtful of the four; Florida and Missouri are sure to go wet, according to observers there, and Montana would go wet should it vote.

Sixteen states have voted to ratify the repeal of the eighteenth amendment; seventeen definitely will vote this year; two have elections fixed for next year; nine have not decided on holding an election, and the four mentioned can have elections this year. Thirty-six ratifications are required for adoption.

MRS. BOOLE ASKS FOR NEW PARTY TO WAR FOR DRYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, reviewed the rise and decline of prohibition in the United States today in her address at the 59th annual convention of the organization. She promised a resurgence of prohibition's tide in a new and moralistic party arising from the old.

Both of the old political parties have been stampeded by the wets, she declared.

"The dominant political parties, although there are many drys enrolled in both, have betrayed their constituencies," she said. "We need a new party, a party of moral ideals, a party that refuses to yield to the liquor interests, a party that stands for the policy of prohibition and its administration by its friends. We need a party founded on such sure foundations that it can be trusted to work for clean government. We need a party that will respect the constitution and a congress that will accept its responsibilities."

Mrs. Boole said she had seen great benefits in the 13 years of prohibition, listing seven high points of advantage from them. She sees only evil from repeal of the 18th amendment, not the least of which, in her opinion, will be the inclination of women, egged on by skillful advertising, to drink as freely as the men. Few papers will be able to withstand the temptation for revenue from the advertising, she declared.

BETTER PRODUCTS AT LOWER PRICES.

Ever since the fall of '29 this country has been filled with the clamor of those who knew just what ought to be done. Some of their schemes have been tried and some are being tried. It is perhaps worth while to observe, then, that if experience is worth anything as a guide, the only road to economic progress is the road of lowered costs and improved products. Better products which cost less mean a wider distribution of goods, increased satisfaction from their use, and more employment. In short, they make a higher standard of living more widely diffused. No other formula, in the long run, has ever achieved the same end.

What happens to an industry when costs do not decline and quality is not improved is illustrated by the experience of the railroads of recent years. Their rates were rigid and there was little improvement in the quality of their service. Schedules adopted years ago had not been speeded up and equipment underwent few radical changes for the better. The result was declining use of the services the railways had to offer and, in consequence, a decrease in railroad employment. No other result was to be expected.

Labor saving machinery, of course, has made economic progress possible. It has done so by reducing costs, increasing output and releasing man power for other purposes. It is this release of man power, in turn, which makes possible the continual improvement of the product of industry. The enlightened manufacturer has always recognized this fact. Most of what he saved by labor saving devices he promptly reinvested in bettering his product, and thus lengthened rather than shortened his pay roll.

As evidence, if any is needed, our own experience might be cited. THE TRIBUNE was first printed on a hand press. In time the men were replaced by a horse, and the horse by mechanical power. Eventually we came to the electric press and then to its latest improvement, the line of electric presses. As this evolution was going on, collateral changes had to take place in many other departments and were made possible by the saving in unit costs. Improved stereotyping and typesetting machinery was needed. Increased circulation possibilities made for improved editorial methods which would make for wider circulation and in turn require greater mechanical improvements. The process has been continuous and has led with only the fewest interruptions to an improved product, produced at less cost but with a steadily expanding corps of employés.

Color printing, the latest of many innovations, will further illustrate the point. It requires a better quality of paper and has therefore increased the number of men employed in the paper mills. It has increased employment in most of the mechanical departments. It has led to increased circulation and has therefore increased the employment of drivers and newsboys. It is attractive to advertisers and no doubt stimulates employment in their stores and factories in consequence of the sales it produces. Because readers like them, the color pages have even attracted black advertising to the newspaper, with similar results.

THE TRIBUNE is glad to be in the world of progress after 86 years of pioneering. We do not think that the present product is the best that will ever be produced or that the methods now employed are the most economical that will ever be devised. We do not think that those industries which are not making efforts to reduce costs and improve their product are doomed. The plan to take up the employment slack merely by shortening the hours of labor and distributing the work more widely will not succeed. Industries which attempt this plan will find that the demand for their product will diminish because the quality has not been improved. They will be caught in a vicious and descending circle. The more they shorten their work week to take care of unemployed workers, the more they will have to shorten it to take care of still others.

A better product creates demand; a product produced at lower cost makes further improvements in quality possible. Improvements in quality are brought about generally by increased employment; and because higher skill is required as processes are refined, increased wages are paid. That is, in outline, the formula for economic progress.

THE NEW CHAMPION HEAVY.

As was anticipated by this department of THE TRIBUNE, Primo Carnera is now heavyweight champion of the world and for the first time since the heroic days of Jim Jeffries and Jess Willard heavyweight is no idle term. Mr. Sharkey made probably as valiant an effort as could have been expected of him to chip pieces off of the new champion until he was down to felling size, but the always present danger that the Bostonian would run into a punch with all of Carnera's meat behind it was abruptly realized in the sixth round and the petunia fancier was laid away in the blossoms. It was much as if Mr. Sharkey had driven through the gates on a grade crossing directly in the way of No. 8, in spite of the cries of all the beholders and of the gate tender. Once in that spot the disaster was inevitable.

It is impossible to predict how long Fascism will retain a world supremacy gratifying to Mussolini. If it were not for the extraordinary child of nature, Mr. Baer, recently arrived in dynamic probabilities, it might be conceded a long tenure in top place. Mr. Baer is unpredictable. The joyous warrior who beats his head against the rocks to toughen his brain cells and who takes the impact of cannon balls on his abdomen as an appetizer may be able to absorb the punches Carnera has learned to direct skillfully as well as annihilatingly. An ordinary mortal would be a gnat bumping against a mountain side.

It has been a long time since the Appian way saw an absolute and unqualified world conqueror. Mussolini should build the triumphal arch, sound the trumpets, and call the big boy home.

CHICAGO IS YOUR TRIP TO EUROPE.

This year a trip to Chicago is a trip to Europe, not figuratively, but actually. It is also a trip about the United States. Here the old world and the new are joined. The past and the future are brought together. The Fair is an exposition of what has been and more than a mind reading of what will be.

A visitor might sail the ocean and tramp the galleries of Europe and see less of art than has been collected in the Art institute here for exhibition this year. It is the art lover's joy for a trip to Chicago. The traveler, instead of incurring the expense of ocean voyage and foreign travel, delightful enough for full pocketbooks, can come inexpensively to Chicago and find many of the equivalents of what he would seek abroad. In great pictures he will find more than an equivalent. Pictures alone justify many a trip abroad. The American art lover has Europe brought to his own shores. A Louvre is here.

People whose expectations do not include extensive travels abroad will find the satisfactory experience, equal in every respect, here at the Fair which is enrichened and colored by the cultures of the entire world. Something of every people and race is contributed with all its significance to the composite of the great exposition. The whole of American civilization is embodied, from the beginning to the present.

Here is a great book of life and the visitor can turn page after page. The Fair is a great drama and a great university. No one can turn away without realizing that he has seen history alive and science prophetic. The American will know himself better. The foreigner must lose some preconceptions.

Essentially the Fair is a hundred years of Chicago, a hundred years in the making of the American republic and typical of it. It also is a thousand years of the older worlds and in many respects it is the next generation. Upon the text of what has been it expounds what is to be.

SALES TAX TOKENS.

Much of the dissatisfaction with the previous sales tax derived from the fact that the consumer was frequently obliged to pay an excessive tax. If he paid a tax of one cent on a ten cent purchase he was paying at the rate of 10, not 3, per cent. The same objection will be raised to the new sales tax unless the Association of Commerce or some similar organization undertakes the sale of tokens, perhaps in the form of stamps, which the consumer may buy. The tokens, of course, should be in denominations of fractions of a cent.

ALIMONY ABUSES.

The assembly has added an important credit to its record in passing one of the bills for the correction of our archaic and mischievous marriage laws. The bill making alimony reciprocal, that is applicable to either party, is a step forward. Under this law if the wife has means and the husband has not, is unemployed or unable to work, the wife in the discretion of the court may be required to pay. Senator Graham was sponsor for the bill in the senate, which passed it almost without opposition, and Representative Adamowski directed its course in the house, supported by Representative Libonati, Lottie Holman O'Neill, Schaefer O'Neill, and Glen Sutherland, the vote being 107 ayes to 11 nays. This is a good beginning at a session loaded with emergency problems and it may be hoped that further corrective legislation will follow at a later session.

The evils developed under existing laws relating to marriage and divorce have long called for consideration and correction by our law makers, but some of the most flagrant, such as the alimony racket, can and should be corrected by the courts. The court of equity has a large discretion in these cases and the cruelty and injustice which have marked the imposition of alimony and the penalizing of destitute men have been largely chargeable to perverted sex sentiment or the inclination of weak judges to conciliate it. A strict sense of equity would have saved many men from unjust imprisonment and exactions. It is to be hoped the rising tide of protest will bring about not only necessary corrective legislation but more just and intelligent use of the judicial discretion.

[Kansas City Star.]

In ordinary times the country would be pleased when such an undertaking as the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago proved a success. But in this instance there must be general satisfaction in the remarkable success of the great Fair and what it means to Chicago, and also congratulations for a success built on courage that was equalt to such an enterprise in a time of national depression.

The metropolis of the west was in a particularly bad way when the Fair opened. It had relatively more than its share of unemployed, of taxation problems and of hotel and theater receiverships or closings. But the great attraction it has provided for the whole country has brought about an activity that, externally at least, gives the city the aspects of the old prosperous days. Retail business and catering are flourishing. Hotels are filled. More than 2 millions have paid admittances to the Fair.

This "comeback" demonstration is stimulating. The benefits are not entirely local. Railroads and other mediums of transportation are profiting relatively. Those who furnish the traveling public are included. More than anything else, the attendance shows there is plenty of spending money in the country, even while so many are out of employment and without incomes.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

JULY! THIS IS IT! Summer, the glorious Fourth, vacations, fishing trips, picnic time, swimming, strolling in the moonlight! And a lot more things. All through the cold, dark winter we looked forward eagerly for this very thing—July. Here it is. Enjoy yourselves. It's a great month. The flowers, the trees, the lush green grass all around, the blue sky overhead. How perfect the world is. (If it wasn't for the idiots dashing seventy and eighty miles an hour along the road and paying no attention at all to the STOP signs.)

However, it's a great month, and if you can't have a good time in July you might as well send for a wrecking crew to come over and pull you down, for you're a complete ruin. It's always been a great month. Gen. Braddock was killed this month on his way to Pittsburgh by the French and Indians, who ambushed his army. War is a terrible thing; it's estimated that 25,000 to 30,000 people were killed by the auto in 1932. If Gen. Braddock were alive today he'd probably rather take chances with the French and Indians than with the hit-and-run boys. And the general would look out next time for an ambush. Just as the number of motor accidents make us insist on licensing all drivers and being more careful and making Junior go roll his hoop instead of driving papa's sixteen cylinder car roaring down the boulevard. Lykell! Lykell! Lykell!

Caius Julius Cæsar was born in July, too. But they've tossed the classics out of the school and nobody knows anything about him any more. But ask 'em about Primo Carnera and what he did to Sharkey and you'll hear a lot. Sir Henry Percy, Hotspur himself, killed at Shrewsbury in 1403. And a lot of people wished he had never been born and then they wouldn't have been named Percy. But what a great noble name it was when Hotspur wore it. How the world changes.

Johann Sebastian Bach died in July, 1750. Lucky dog! He never had to listen to jazz. More things than this have happened in the Julys that have gone. But we're all more interested in what's going to happen, especially to us, in this particular July of 1933. And I wouldn't know about that.

UNPRODIGAL SON.

When I was a growing lad I made
Obeisance to life's brevity;
I never did this or that—afraid
To jeopardize longevity.

But now reflecting on friends long dead
Who lived, laughed, loved, defied—
An aging man with the grave ahead—
I wish I, too, had died.

I bought a Turkish rug once from a Mohammedan peddler in Paris. I paid him twenty-five bucks for it, and some experts on the boat said it would have been expensive at thirty-five cents. What that peddler didn't know about economic problems wasn't worth knowing.

ANOTHER BLOW AT MEN'S RIGHTS! Over at Muskegon, Mich., they let the gals wear backless bathing suits, but not the men. Outrage! The beach director over there says men's backs are ugly. Suppose they are. Are they to be deprived of the glorious rays of the sun because of that? Let us men have the opportunity of the sun and air on our backs; let us wear backless bathing suits on the beach and swallowtail coats low cut in the back at dinner parties and dances at night, and in time we, too, will have beautiful backs. But until we do it might be well for the men to have ships and mermaids and castles and landscapes tattooed on their backs. Then people who think men's backs are ugly could look at the pictures.

POOR MOTHERS.

Mothers must be always saying, "Dont!" and "No! No!! No!!!"
Mothers must be telling little boys, "Do thus and so."
Mothers have to punish little boys to train them right;
Have to act as dampers on them morning, noon and night.
Mothers get so tired of being just and stern;
But there are many dreary things a little boy must learn.
He has to learn so many things that aren't any fun,
And some one has to teach him,—and Mother is the one!

SALTS THE BODY NEEDS.

THE body needs certain minerals and if they are not forthcoming trouble ensues. In consequence, sooner or later the diet may contain these necessary substances if health is to be maintained. These minerals are not very soluble, or, to put it differently, some salts of these minerals are rather insoluble. In consequence, when a mineral of this class is to be used it changes to a soluble form, is dissolved by the blood and tissue juices, and is carried away to the place of need. The remainder retains its insoluble characteristics and is held in reserve storage.

In addition to the chemicals commonly called minerals, there are other chemical elements and some salts for which the body has use. The most important of these is oxygen. This element is required to convert nutrition elements into energy. It is the element required to keep the body fires blazing. It differs from lime and iron in that it is very soluble, and, in consequence, no great amount of it can be stored. It is too active for any such stage of inaction as storage requires. We need it when we need it and unless it is to be had and promptly the fires go out.

However, there are conditions which result from chronic oxygen hunger of some degree. Chronic monoxide poisoning is one. Severe anemia is a second, and silicosis a third. These conditions result from impairment of the capacity of the lungs to absorb oxygen or of the blood to carry it. The results are asthma, clubbed fingers, dusky skin, headaches.

A salt needed by the body is that one known as common salt, or sodium chloride. It is needed to help dissolve substances required by the body, and to keep the body fluids in just the state needed for their duties.

Too much of it is harmful and too little of it is a cause of trouble also. Since it is so freely soluble it cannot be very satisfactorily stored. Nevertheless, the cells can be soaked with some reserve supply of it, enough to keep up the blood supply for a few days when there is no intake of food salt. If a man sweats excessively, as when working in a rolling mill or stoking the fires under the boilers of a ship, he is liable to develop so-called heat cramps. This is a symptom of salt starvation. The preventive, and also the cure, is to add a little salt to the drinking water.

The body needs water to dissolve the elements required by the tissues. Water being a liquid, and the best of solvents, it cannot be stored satisfactorily. We must drink some of it every few hours. But, in a limited sense, some water storage is possible. There is considerable difference in the water content of the tissues from an elderly, weather beaten, dried out inhabitant of the dry country on the one hand, and a man with some dropsy on the other. There is a degree of downward progression in water content from the very tender tissues of a new born babe to the almost tanned tissues of a leathery old man.

Iodine belongs only half way in this list, since it is almost to be classed with iron and lime. The body needs iodine as an ingredient of some of its more necessary juices. If the supply runs short the growth may be stunted; or goiter, myxedema, or cretinism may result. Since iodine in several forms is not very soluble, nature stores a considerable reserve of it when plenty is available.

The body needs phosphorus, magnesium, and potassium. However, consideration of these elements introduces another question—that of the proportion between these and other elements. In the case of phosphorus the important point is its relation to lime. In the cases of potassium and magnesium the balance with sodium is to be maintained.

TUBERCULOSIS.

H. E. N. writes: Please advise as to the manner in which a person may obtain natural sunlight treatment for miliary tuberculosis and the benefits obtained.

REPLY.

Lying quietly in the sunlight is satisfactory. The eyes should be shaded. The amount of skin to be exposed depends on circumstances. As a rule one begins by exposing a few inches and for short periods. After tanning, all of the skin can be exposed and for long periods.

Does your physician advise this treatment? As a rule it is not of service in miliary tuberculosis.

DEPENDS ON TRUST INDENTURE.

Harvey, Ill., June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a first mortgage on my home. Also, I owe an installment on a special assessment for paving. The holders of these special assesment bonds, otherwise known as the bondholders' protective committee, claim that they can institute foreclosure proceedings against my property to satisfy the lien of this assessment. Is this possible? H. B.

Rights depend upon the wording of the trust indenture. Sometimes the wording authorizes foreclosure for mere default on the tax or assessment and sometimes it requires something more.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NONWARRANTY CLAUSE.

Chicago, June 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A farmer ordered from a seed house "globe onion seed." All onion seed looks alike. At harvest time the crop turned out to be "white bunches" onions, and unmarketable. Six hundred bushels were raised, all of which was practically worthless. Globe onions were worth a half cent per pound [55 to a bushel.] 1. Can damages be obtained? 2. How could you prove the current price of globe onions? 3. And the quantity of onions? In marketing onions are delivered in sacks. 4. Must the value of the sacks [6 cents] be deducted to obtain the market value? P. C. D.

1. The tendency of recent decisions has been to sustain the theory that the seedmen's nonwarranty clause is so generally used that seedmen will be presumed to have contracted with reference to it. The authorities are collected in 32 ALR 1215.
2. By the testimony of an expert witness who would know the price.
3. If the two varieties ordinarily produced the same quantity, then your damages would be the difference in value.
4. Obviously, your loss would have nothing to do with the sacks.

JULY 1, 1917.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Thirteen excursionists were killed, eight dangerously wounded, and others less seriously hurt yesterday when a 25,000 gallon tank toppled from a steel tower 100 feet high and crashed on to the crowded decks of the whaleback Christopher Columbus, on which were teachers and pupils of Northwestern university, University of Chicago, and other summer schools. The accident occurred in the Milwaukee river, on the east bank, just north of the East River street bascule bridge. The cause, as deduced from statements of both passengers and officers of the Columbus, was the failure of the tugboats to keep the steamer clear of the east bank. The bow of the steamer swung into one of the steel supports of the tank tower. The ship started frantically to back away from the falling mass of metal. It was too late. Portions of the decks were torn away and for a time it was feared many passengers might have been carried to the bottom of the river with the weight of wood and metal and water. Thousands of gallons of water, loosed by the bursting tank, flooded every deck. Many passengers, seeing the rush of water, with visions of a repetition of the Eastland disaster, leaped into the river.

WAR SUMMARY.—Berlin reports inflicting a stinging defeat on the French in the Verdun sector. Paris admits a violent onslaught and loss of first line trenches, but declares the Germans were driven out, except on slopes of Dead Man's hill, with heavy losses. London reports an important advance on a four mile line to a depth of over a mile on the Lens sector. Berlin brands fighting in this sector as minor attacks. Berlin reports Russian heavy artillery fire, which may, it hints, presage an attack to aid allies in west.

PARIS.—An official announcement was made that the armored cruiser Kleber had struck a mine off Point St. Mathieu on June 27 and sunk. Three officers and thirty-five men were lost. The Kleber had come from Dakar, Africa, and was on its way to Brest.

CHICAGO.—"Draw sabers!" The command startled a church full of guests at the wedding yesterday in St. Chrysostom's church when Miss Mary Louise Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Russell of 19 East Goethe street, was married to Capt. Arthur Read Christie, U. S. A., with full military ceremonial.

NEW BRIGHTON, N. Y.—William Winter, famous as a dramatic critic, died at his home here last night. He was 81 years old. He retired from the New York Tribune in August of 1909, having been dramatic critic since 1865, when he accepted the position at the invitation of Horace Greeley.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

ANSWER — Both boys and girls from 3 to 7 years of age may compete. There is no entrance fee and any child may enter. It will be held at 3 p. m.

QUESTION—Is a ring from the last World's Fair of value at this Fair? Can I place it on exhibition?

ANSWER—A jeweler would have to examine the ring to see if it has any value. It is impossible to sell it at the Fair, and no provisions are made for the exhibition of such items.

QUESTION—I have a ticket in good condition for the Chicago day of the 1893 Fair. Is this of interest to any one?

A CHEER FOR IRELAND.

Chicago, June 28.—Now that we have given Finland a well deserved hand for honoring its debt payment, let's give another, equally well deserved, to the Irish Free State. In a little six line paragraph in today's TRIBUNE I notice that Dail Eireann [the I. F. S. parliament] has passed a bill authorizing the payment of $1.25 for every dollar borrowed in the United States. Most of the money borrowed here, amounting, I think, to between 5 and 6 millions, was from sympathizers with Ireland's fight for freedom. Bond certificates were given in exchange for cash. A great many of the subscribers, possibly a majority, looked on their subscriptions as contributions.

Ireland, the good Lord knows, is far from being a rich country. Certainly it can't hold a candle in that respect to England and France. But the latter countries renege their debts, while Ireland pays them, not only in full but with a 25 per cent addition. I wonder what's the reason for the different attitudes. Would it have anything to do with honor? JAMES O'CONNELL.

MOSCOW BELLES.

Ravinia, Ill., June 27.—Your picture entitled "Moscow Belles Hail Arriving Athletes," published in the last Sunday edition of THE TRIBUNE, was originally sold to Acme by the Russian Soyuzphoto, which is the official press photo agency of the Russian government. The caption which you have supplied is a misstatement of the facts. The celebration was not a Russian Sport Olympiad. As the picture shows, a chorus of women from a Moscow factory dressed in peasant costume for the occasion is singing a greeting to the arrivals for the International Olympiad of the Revolutionary theater. The participants in the Olympiad are groups of workers interested in the theater and are not profession l athletes.

Your caption writer would perhaps be justified in poking fun at the lusty women pictured if THE TRIBUNE did not always choose for publication those pictures the meaning of which can be so misconstrued as to give a mistaken impression of degradation and crudity in Russia. Other pictures which give a truer impression are refused.

THE LOUISVILLE FAIR OF '83.

Chicago, June 28.—At the start of our Big Show one of the speakers made the statement that at the previous World's Fair in 1893 the electric light was just being introduced.

He is wrong. They had, I think, fourteen or fifteen thousand electric lights at the Southern exposition in Louisville, Ky., held in 1883, which was ten years before the Chicago Fair.

I also paid 10 cents for a ride on the electric train which circled Central park in Louisville at the same Fair. I don't know whether that was the first electric train in this country or not. But it was running there in Louisville in 1883, just fifty years ago. J. H. MAYER.

IN DEFENSE OF DETECTIVE TRACY.

Chicago, June 28.—I have read with considerable interest Mrs. Nichols' article on the Dick Tracy comic strip.

With due regard for her interest in the welfare of her sons, I believe she is condemning a highly moral medium and overlooking an opportunity to point out that right will prevail, or, shall I say, crime does not pay.

No child would admire nor wish to imitate Stooge or Steve, but child cannot benefit by the resourcefulness and self-reliance portrayed in the character of Dick Tracy Jr.?

All of THE TRIBUNE comics are good and the artists to be commended.

Chicago, June 27.—As an alumnus of the University of Indiana, I have for the past fifteen years followed athletics and other collegiate interests in the Big Ten. It is only natural that one will read the publication which carries the greatest amount of copy or space in reference to his or her university, and this thought has prompted me to write this letter.

I have read with increasing interest the articles devoted to Indiana university athletic teams. I know this additional space has been read by a great many other loyal Hoosiers, who have felt in the past that the Chicago newspapers have not devoted the proper amount of print or pictures to Indiana's splendid teams.

I desire to extend my appreciation and thanks to you and your athletic writers for the splendid articles published during this past year, and believe that I am expressing the will of thousands of loyal Hoosiers who read your CHICAGO TRIBUNE throughout the Chicago area as well as over the state of Indiana and elsewhere. BEN H. DROLLINGER.

LECTURES ON THE ART SHOW.

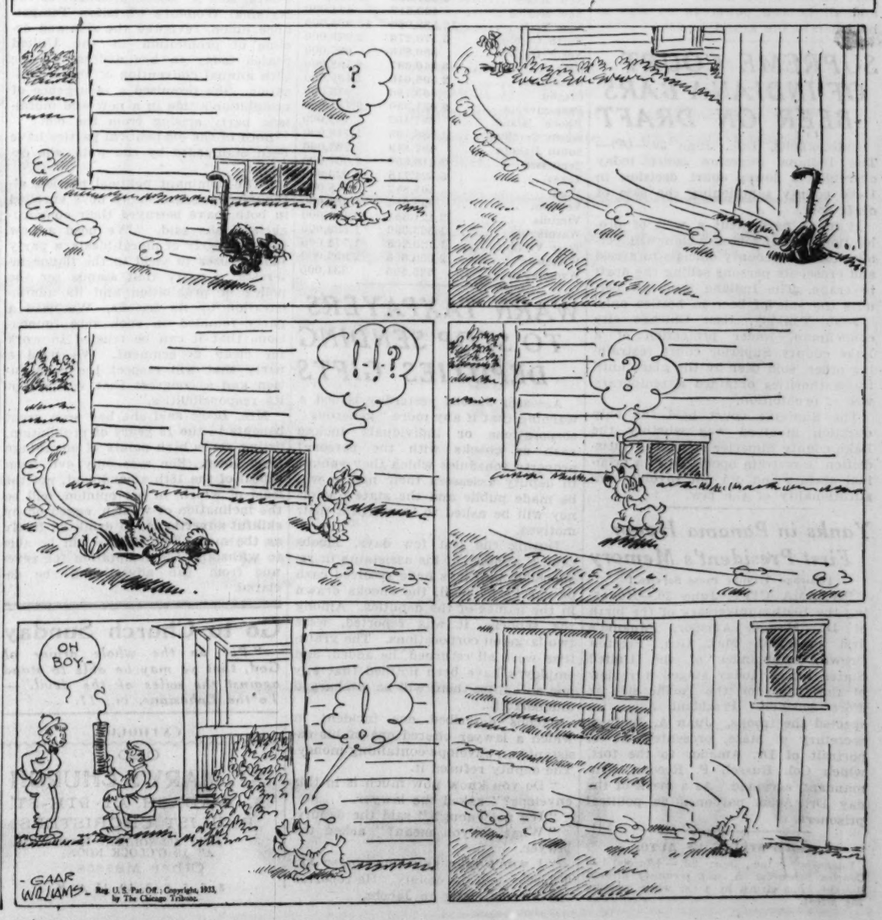

Chicago, June 20.—It was with pleasurable interest that I read James O'Donnell Bennett's article of June 18 concerning the masterpieces of painting in the Art institute. May I say that one more paragraph, calling attention to the daily lectures in Fullerton hall [in the Art institute], about these paintings would make him a super-benefactor to the many people viewing these pictures? In my numerous visits to the galleries recently I have overheard many remarks plainly indicating that most of the people viewing this great exhibit have actual need of the information and delightful art history given at these lectures.

THE VICTIM.

Chicago, June 27.—With the governor of the state tax and license mad, with the aldermen and councilmen of Chicago tax and license mad, with all the public officials, secure in their jobs and incomes, tax and license mad, what is the answer to the lowly taxpayer? And why wouldn't he become a communist or even an anarchist? W. K. C.

WORLD EXCHANGE OF IDEAS IS URGED UPON SCIENTISTS

Suggested as a Means to Combat Idleness.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Pooling of scientific resources and experience for the common economic welfare of all countries was urged last night by A. P. M. Fleming, research director of the Metropolitan-Vickers company of London, in an address before a joint session of four engineering societies and the Econometric society at the Palmer house. This was the final meeting of the organizations affiliated with the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which have been in session in Chicago for two weeks.

That strange enchainment of mankind by which some communities are compelled to starve in the midst of the plenty that the world affords was ascribed by Mr. Fleming to the far reaching restrictions due to national aspirations.

Improvement of Methods.

"Today throughout the world," he said, "there are large numbers of scientific and technical workers employed for the most part in the improvement of methods of industrial production, but to a much less degree is there purposeful and organized activity of such workers in the development of entirely new lines of industrial activity.

"The great reservoir of experience and knowledge which is being continually augmented is the potential source of new lines of manufacture which could be developed to alleviate the problem of unemployment. Individual firms are using their resources to this end, but as yet its possibilities on a national and international scale have not been recognized."

Mr. Fleming, several of whose colleagues were recently tried by the Russian government for espionage and sabotage, spoke of the "imminence of the challenge of industry under the communal system of the U. S. S. R. to that planned on the individualistic and competitive system of other countries."

"The soviet government," he said, "looks to science to play an important part in its industrial and economic activities. While their research activities are to a large extent imitative, considerable progress has already been made and there is in the U. S. S. R. a larger body of organized research workers under unified control than exists in any other individual country in the world.

"Whether the soviet plans succeed or fail, already enough has been accomplished to show the possibilities of this combined scientific effort. Even partial success may have far reaching effects on the rest of the industrial world. Should the standard of living be raised to the same or to higher levels than those of other countries, and, as may in time reasonably happen, hours of labor be shortened, there would be a considerable labor unrest in other countries."

Engineers and Economics.

The idea that engineers are best fitted to take leadership in this changing and confused world received a setback at the session of the Econometric society at the Palmer house yesterday afternoon. Dean D. S. Kimball of Cornell university and C. F. Hirschfield questioned the view that engineers should be able to step into the field of economics and solve problems which have vexed some of the best brains in the world. For the time being the engineers should be regarded even as questionable leaders, according to Mr. Hirschfield, who maintained that economics is not yet a science.

"Back of it all," he said, "lies that peculiar organism known as the human being. It is his reaction to stimuli of various sorts that constitutes what I am sufficiently optimistic to believe will ultimately be the true science of economics."

New Heating System.

A revolutionary system of heating houses and buildings was visualized for the future by L. W. Schad, research engineer for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, in a paper read before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday.

"Instead of assuming that we keep an individual comfortable by warming him in a bath of warm air," he said, "let us assume that he keeps himself warm and we adjust his feelings by the control of the heat that he gives off. Comfort then becomes a question of controlling heat emission from the body. This can be done by the separate or simultaneous adjustment of air temperature, humidity, and radiation."

Daniel Anderson Resigns as Assistant U. S. Attorney

Daniel Anderson, an assistant United States attorney since 1924, resigned to enter private law practice yesterday. For several years Mr. Anderson has been in charge of liquor conspiracy cases and aided in prosecuting a number of gang leaders, including Tony [Mops] Volpe, Joe Saltis, and "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn. Anderson was a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in 1922 but was defeated by Elliott W. Sproul.

Faces Murder Charge

Howard Allgood, chief of police of Oskaloosa, Ia., pleaded not guilty when arraigned on second degree murder charge growing out of fatal shooting of youth during a liquor raid. His hearing was set for July 7.

Iowa Woman Cleared of Blame After Trial.

Oskaloosa, Ia., June 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hazel Ridout, widow of Claude Ridout of Creston, who committed suicide after killing Federal Prohibition Agent Harry H. Elliott, and wounding Agent A. A. Murphy in a gun fight five miles west of Oskaloosa on June 22, was exonerated from any connection with the crime today by Justice of the Peace J. E. Bartley.

Murphy, who is recovering from five bullet wounds, and Mrs. Ridout were the principal witnesses at the trial. Mrs. Ridout testified she had nothing to do with the shooting, and that she sat crouched down in the front seat of the car while the shooting was in progress.

Admits Driving Machine.

Murphy claimed that she either handed her husband a second gun, or reloaded the gun he was using. This she denied, and offered as proof that her husband fired only seven shots, the number of cartridges contained in the magazine of his gun.

She admitted driving part of the time after her husband returned to the car and they started for Creston. She told of the field in which she let her husband out of the car, and where he was located the next day.

When surrounded by a posse of officers Ridout shot himself. She said she knew that her husband was a bootlegger and had been watched by officers. She also said she did not approve of his business and had no disposition to aid him in any unlawful undertaking.

Deny Liquor in Car.

She said there was no liquor in the car the night of the shooting. At the close of the trial Bartley ordered the defendant discharged and her release from bonds.

There were no new developments today in the case of Police Chief Howard Allgood of Oskaloosa, charged with the fatal shooting of an unarmed man, Gerald Blackwood of Eddyville, during a prohibition raid. A preliminary hearing has been set for July 7.

SEIZE EX-CONVICT, ONCE LINDBERGH KIDNAP SUSPECT

Lee Turner, 34 years old, ex-convict and a gangster from East St. Louis, was arrested by Detectives Roy Van Herik and James Bresnahan. He was taken to the detective bureau and held there for department of justice operatives.

The police suspected that the federal agents had a clew to indicate that Turner, who was once an associate of Fred [Killer] Burke, who is now serving a life term in the Michigan penitentiary, might have had a part in the kidnaping and murder of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. This however, was denied, the department of justice men claiming that he was wanted only for a violation of the Dyer act. At one time, it was said, Turner was wanted as a possible suspect in the Lindbergh case.

Turner served a term in Leavenworth for transporting stolen automobiles across state lines. He was sought once as a suspect in the kidnaping of Howard Woolverton of South Bend, Ind., stove manufacturer. The Woolverton abduction took place in January, 1932, and the Lindbergh kidnaping in March, 1932.

Andre Maurois Finds Chicago a Great Town

Charming Frenchman Visits World's Fair.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

ANDRE MAUROIS stepped off a train in the Union station yesterday morning and breathed for the first time in his life the air of Chicago. Ten minutes later he stepped out of a motor car and into an elevator to be whisked to the top of a tall apartment building overlooking Lincoln park and in those ten minutes Chicago had lived up to its motto, "I Will!" If the city had consciously declared, "I will beguile this man," it could not have been more successful.

ANDRE MAUROIS.

M. Maurois was enchanted with the lake, the boulevards, and the quaint men and women on horseback and in covered wagons, and the red Indians who were dashing side by side down Michigan avenue with a sea of motor cars. It was a grand show that Chicago put on for its distinguished French visitor. Police were clustered on each street corner.

"How is the racketeering in Chicago?" was M. Maurois' natural inquiry.

I was sorry that I had to explain the morning's spectacle away with the fact that there was going to be a parade and only the lake and the boulevards were our daily fare.

For some pens—not so scrupulously exact as Mr. Maurois'—that picture might make an amusing chapter in a book about America. But M. Maurois, first of all, is too honest a writer to tell a half truth for the sake of a sensation, and . . . he is not going to write a book about us at all!

Articles, yes, for the French press, about the "brain trust" in Washington and about unemployment and the immediate social scene, but no book on "America the Menace" as one of his compatriots did.

He found in Washington—where he saw every one—a definite cleavage, he said, between the generations, the younger ones living as if it were war time, working far into the night on their problems, with results which were looked upon with mingled awe and fear by the older political figures who skeptically hoped that now that the brain trust had got us out of the depression it could keep us out.

And besides any book, other than those he has already planned, would not be part of his scheme, his ten year plan. "Ten years ago I made myself a plan of work, and I have lived up to it in everything except that I am a year late," he said. "I have just finished a book on 'Edward VII. and His Times,' a sort of sequel to 'Disraeli,' and the next book I shall do is a political novel. It is about a young man who went, immediately after the war, into politics. He started out with ideals, and as the years passed he found them less tenable. Finally, when he comes to the period of today, he travels to America. I had decided that my young man would have found those years of complete disillusionment. But just before he died, M. Briand was talking to me about my proposed novel, and when I told him that I was going to have my hero become completely disillusioned he said, 'But we have all some illusions left, even I.' So perhaps I shall not make him lose them all."

When we urged him to come back in the fall, M. Maurois said, "Not next fall. I make this trip to America, I start my novel and until it is finished I do not permit myself frivolity." And in that connection—returning to America—he told an amusing story at the luncheon which the writers' group of the social functions committee of A Century of Progress gave for him yesterday in the Trustees' Lounge at the World's Fair. He said that he knew an old American couple in Paris, and that the wife once said to the husband, "My dear, if either of us should die, I shall go back to America." And he turned it gracefully to regret that his wife was not present, but he promised that he would say to her, "No matter what happens, BOTH of us will go back to Chicago, where we will find our friends."

With that quality which I have found all really great writers to have, a sort of quiet shyness, but almost a genius for friendliness, M. Maurois merely emphasizes for me every time I see him the irresistible charm which he had the first time that I ever saw him. We went out to Neuilly to call about 11 o'clock on Whitsunday morning. He had just arrived from following the trail of Lord Byron for his impressive biography.

It was his first moment at home for months. In the drawing room were gentlemen who looked like the most de luxe editions of the members of the French Academy [and were].

He was being called upon formally by great men who admired him, for he is a very great man indeed in France. The lowly as well as the lofty look upon him as "champion des lettres Française." While he was excused by men who looked as if they had come out of the history of French literature, he answered perfectly frankly, my question about what he was working on. That frankness may not seem unusual to any one who has not spent as many years as I have with authors, but believe me, M. Maurois is rare among authors; for, quite openly and without the slightest reservations, he told me what he was doing and what he was planning on doing. Many authors feel that if any one knows their plans, either some one pops in ahead of them with a life of Byron or a political novel, or the edge is taken off the surprise when the book does appear.

M. Maurois has the very sensible belief that what he writes bears the mark of himself and that no matter how many people write about the same thing, every individual's version is different. No matter how many books about the times of Edward VII. or how many French political novels are written, each one is an entity.

M. Maurois was the guest last night of the Chicago chapter of the P. E. N. club, and he responded with a twinkle in his eye when he was told that no speeches marred the ease and comfort of the P. E. N. club dinners, "Once I went to the London P. E. N. club and they said to me, 'We do not have speeches, but the members will be very disappointed if you do not say a few words.'"

Those few words he said in excellent English, which he used as a liaison officer during the war. Incidentally, that work furnished him with the material for his first published book, "Les Silences du Colonel Bramble" (The Silences of Col. Bramble), which is one of the subtlest characterizations ever done of the French and the British in their fundamental human onenesses and their very divergent social differences. It is, incidentally, one of my favorite books, although "Ariel" sometimes shoves it off its pedestal in my affections.

M. Maurois will leave Chicago tomorrow to return to France, and, we hope, to us in 1934.

O'Brien's Anthology of 1933 Short Stories Dedicated to Magazine

Edward J. O'Brien, the famous short story anthologist, is this year honoring a magazine instead of a writer. He wired the editors of the magazine Story, recently imported to New York from abroad and the only magazine devoted entirely to the presentation of short stories, that he was dedicating his new anthology, "The Best Short Stories of 1933," to "the future of Story." Heretofore Mr. O'Brien has always dedicated his yearly anthologies to various writers of promise or distinction. This magazine holds a three year record for being the one from which he has taken most stories to reprint in the anthologies. This year, the record still going, Edward J. O'Brien selects seven stories from this one magazine.

Bone Family Contributes Another Book on Sea

Another member of the nautically famous family of Bone has turned to writing. Alexander Bone, brother of David, James, and Muirhead and uncle of Freda Bone (who has achieved fame as an artist), has written a book which should be placed close to "The Brassbounder" (by Brother David) on the sea shelf of any library. "Bowsprit Ashore" [Doubleday-Doran] is a casual, cheerful, though at times wistful, account of many years in sail and steam. It's a salty volume of varied incident and adventure on deep water, charmingly illustrated with wood cuts by Niece Freda.

'Our Movie Made Children' Studies Film Influence

Henry James Forman says in "Our Movie Made Children" [Macmillan], that from 45 to 50 per cent of the delinquent girls attributed their lapses partly to the effect of movies upon them, the stimulation they afforded to lead lives of luxury, to give wild parties. He states further, "The fact that good pictures may be as permanent in their influence as bad pictures only makes the infrequent occurrence of the good more regrettable."

London Reads Serious Novels on Living Today

Struggle of Present Is Theme of Two Writers.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The London book world is now entering the doldrums. The spring has been fine, with much sunshine, and the summer is early, and reading is in such weather apt to be casual. But while comparatively few new books are now being published, a welcome has awaited Commissioner Catherine Bramwell Booth's biography of her father, the late leader of the Salvation Army. On all hands this book is highly praised.

NEIL M. GUNN.

In fiction two serious novels dealing with present day conditions of life and labor are attracting wide attention. Both are by new writers. The first is "Original Design," by Eardley Beswick, a tale of industry and a factory in the north of England; the second is "The Plebeian's Progress," by F. Tilsey.

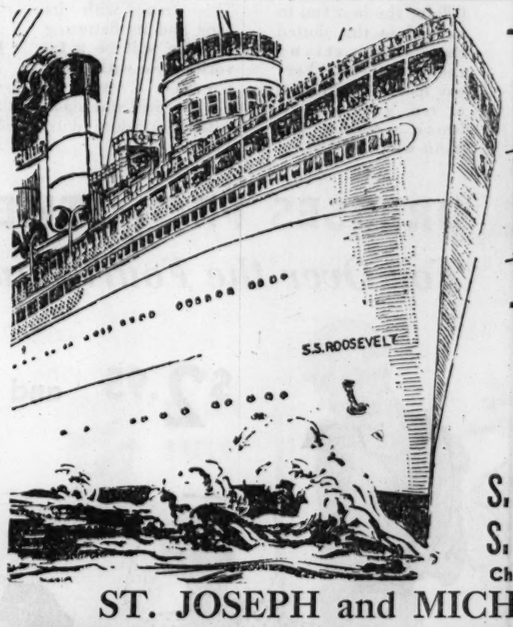

These two books are comparable in theme, although they differ greatly in treatment. The point about them is that both do what so many eager critics are demanding—they both tell a story of the acute struggle of men and women of the present time to live amid the pressure of modern conditions.

Neil M. Gunn's new novel, on the other hand, turns away altogether from the modern. Its scene is again Scotland, as was the scene of Mr. Gunn's "Morning Tide," but this time Mr. Gunn has gone right back to ancient times, and his book is nothing more nor less than an attempt to picture the birth of the Scottish nation. Such remoteness from the present is usually a great trial for readers, who seldom feel able to interest themselves in the doings of primitive warriors and thinkers. Mr. Gunn's gifts, however, are so great that he may well have conquered this difficulty and made a story that others, besides antiquaries, can read with enjoyment.

Another new novel of moment is J. D. Beresford's "The Young People." This book completes the trilogy which began with "The Old People."

BY JUDITH CASS.

CANARY yellow will be their silk shirts and canary yellow will be the magnificent plumes waving from their horses' heads, and scarlet will be the gay banners they carry when the 12 best riders of Miss Elizabeth Chase's pupils go through the tricky maneuvers of the famed Bharnazar Lancers, which is to be the main event at her Children's Horse show that will take place Sunday morning either July 22 or 29 at Paul Llewellyn's farm, 4 miles out of Lake Forest.

Starting "in earnest" today to master the different formations of these lancers, which Miss Chase knows well, as she often watched the Bharnazars in India on a recent visit, these adept pupils of hers will certainly be as dashing as the real lancers, for they have three weeks in which to practice. Miss Chase, besides furnishing all sorts of fancy trappings to adorn the horses, which she collected in Persia, India, and Siam, has promised that this event will be exactly the same, in miniature, as the amazing, spectacular shows that one sees when sitting in a maharajah's box somewhere in the wildest part of India.

Besides the lancers' formations there will be classes for children on horses, children on ponies, and lead classes for the very young. There will also be the usual exciting contests such as spearing a stuffed pig while dashing by on a galloping pony, and a most thrilling exhibition of jumping through fire! [A fire of colored tissue paper, however.] Because the monkey and the organ grinder and the ice cream wagon were so popular last year they will be present again at this show.

Among those training to be lancers and practicing their jumps are Marshall, Milton, and John Hughes Jr., Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor, Homer Lindsey, Betty Mead, Kay Goodman, and Johnny King, and among the younger children are the John Evanses' and the T. Phillip Swifts' youngsters.

Of great interest to those who attend the show will be Miss Chase's tack room on Mr. Llewellyn's farm. A tack room is where the saddles and bridles are kept when not in use, and as this one is also Miss Chase's study, she has her great desk in one corner of it. A cheery red leather sofa stands along one wall and the rest of the space is filled with the three large tiger skins that Miss Chase has bagged on her travels, one in Indo-China, another in India, and the third in Siam, and the best of the pictures she has taken on her various trips to Africa, Persia, and other thrilling lands. This fascinating and gay room is permeated with the incomparable—to the horseman—odor of polished leather, and it is here that the two Persian kittens that Miss Chase just brought back from Persia play. They look just like tiny, dangerous tigers.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

Mrs. Dexter Fales has left New York for a ranch in Montana to join her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cruger S. Fowler.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock Jr. yesterday at the Women's hospital. Mrs. Hitchcock is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Larimer Mellon of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Pell entertained at a luncheon at the Starlight roof garden of the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday and had among her guests Mrs. Duncan Dunscombe, Mrs. Reginald T. Townsend, Mrs. C. Kenneth Clinton and Mrs. C. Whitney Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Roosevelt Thompson, who were married on May 2, returned from Europe on the Statendam and are at the Barclay before going to Hadlyme, Conn. Mrs. Thompson was Miss Adele S. Kelley.

Entertainment For Air Officers.

Tonight after the twenty-seven officers of the Twenty-Seventh Pursuit squadron of the First Pursuit group have winged their way from Selfridge field, roared over the loop, and thrilled thousands at the opening of the American Air Races, they will settle down for a refreshing drink on board Commander Eugene MacDonald's Mizpah, anchored in the Chicago Yacht harbor.

Commander MacDonald has promised his guests a lake cruise ending up at the World's Fair, where they are to be entertained at an 8 o'clock dinner at Old Mexico. Capt. R. C. Blessley is in command of the squadron of twenty-one pursuit planes. With the squadron this morning on arrival in Chicago will also be three or four transport planes.

Hundreds of fashionables will fill the boxes in the great horseshoe at the Chicago airport this afternoon for the opening of the big four day air spectacle that is under the sponsorship of THE TRIBUNE. There will be another gala crowd on hand for the dare-devilry of hundreds of pilots tomorrow afternoon and still greater crowds on Monday and Tuesday. All of the boxes for the event have been sold, Capt. Maxwell M. Corpening, president of the Chicago Air Race corporation, reported yesterday.

Mrs. Stoll Will Be at Arlington.

Mrs. Anne Camden Stoll of Versailles, Ky., daughter of Senator J. N. Camden, arrives today for her annual visit to Arlington Park, accompanied by Miss Jessie Bond, sister of Mrs. Roy Carruthers. Miss Bond's engagement to Frederick Boulton of Chicago has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bolivar Bond of Versailles, and the wedding is scheduled to take place Aug. 17. The couple will sail immediately after for a honeymoon in Europe.

Today will find both the Post and Paddock club and the clubhouse at Arlington crowded, for despite the heat of the last week there have been good crowds every afternoon at the track.

Today the Hyde Park stakes will be run and on the Fourth the Stars and Stripes handicap.

Young Socialites Hear Dr. Bayley.

Skyscraper panoramas and "narcotic" notes held the interest of two dozen young members of society gathered round a long luncheon table yesterday in the Electric club—the thirty-ninth floor of Chicago's Civic Opera building. Arthur M. Barnhart and Louis E. Laflin Jr. were hosts at a party for Dr. William D. Bayley, a Canadian, who is a former member of the legislature of the province of Manitoba.

With chalk illustrations and test tubes Dr. Bayley proved that alcohol is useful in industry but interferes with the normal functioning of the human body.

Mrs. Laflin, wearing a navy blue costume, was one of the most interested listeners. Others were Miss Martha Fitts in a beige dress and matching hat, Miss Elinor Chapman, who leaves today with her father, John A. Chapman, for their summer home at Bar Harbor; Miss Marguerite Foster, Miss Louise Fentress, and and Miss Louise Lackner.

Robert Purchas had a place close to Dr. Bayley and so did Miss Eleanor Jerrems, looking cool and summery in a blue eyelet embroidery dress and a large black linen hat. Miss Jane Trowbridge was still another guest, and so was Burt Crawford.

There was a gay farewell party for Miss Chapman Thursday night at the Fair with Mr. Barnhart as the host. Miss Jerrems, Miss Betty Scriven, who left yesterday for a few days' holiday on Long island with the Roy Larsons; Miss Elizabeth Rumsey, "Bob" Jorgenson, Henry Rumsey, and Earl Kribben were among the guests who met at the Century club for dinner and then toured the exposition, concentrating on the Midway.

Goes West With John J. Mitchells.

Mrs. Alister H. McCormick left Thursday night to return to her home in California. She took the same train with the John J. Mitchells and their adopted baby, whom they have named John J. III. Mr. McCormick is staying in Chicago with her brother, Edward H. McCormick, until the latter's wife arrives from London, after which all three will motor out west together.

"Patrick Phillips—after his great grandfather." This was the news given us yesterday by Dr. David S. Hillis when we inquired the name of the Alfred Phillips Shaws' newly arrived son. The late Mr. Phillips was Mr. Shaw's grandfather and a prominent resident of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr. have followed in the footsteps of Mrs. Dennehy's sister and brother-in-law, the Edison Dicks, by returning from New York with an adopted baby daughter, who is just 2 months old. She has been named Jane, after her grandmother Warner and her aunt, Mrs. Dick. The Dicks' adopted daughter, who is a few weeks older than her cousin, was named Marion, after Mrs. Dennehy and Mrs. Dick's and Mrs. Dennehy's mother, Mrs. Ezra J. Warner.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Henneberry and their daughter, Mrs. Henneberry Robertson, are opening their home, "The Maples," at Wheaton today. The Henneberrys have not been at "The Maples" for several years, but, now that it is remodeled and refurnished, they are looking forward to a happy summer there.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield, Miss Betty Offield, and young Wrigley Offield left yesterday for a cooling six weeks' cruise on the Corinthia up around Norway and Sweden. They sail today from New York and on their return will remain east until Wrigley returns to the Choate school, after which they will be back in Chicago around the end of September.

Hale Holdens Jr. Go to Duluth.

It will be a disappointment to the junior Hale Holdens' many friends here to learn that although they will be in town today, they are just passing through on their way to Duluth

Satin Is Used in Ensembles; Wins Buyers

New Color Contrasts Are Style Success.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Black satin suits and street ensembles have certainly caused plenty of shopping excitement . . . first, the slick all black affairs slipped into town without much ballyhoo, and now the contrasts have been unpacked. You'll find two new colors, dramatizing this black stuff . . . a shade called shrimp pink and another called china blue with the third favorite, white, coming along as an extra.

The way they work this contrast stunt is plenty good to look it, shrimp pink silk crêpe is used for a top for the slim dress and used again as the smart loose coat with long sleeves. China blue is used the same way as the pink and white . . . if the all-black rather overwhelmed you at first sight these considerably lightened ensembles ought to be just what you want.

New shoulder ideas have arrived in the last collections, especially in the all black models . . . for instance, one black dress is all puffed and plaited about the shoulder seams and then two huge china blue buttons are planted under each ear, which makes the dress look as though it were fitted with headlights.

Most of the skirt sections are cut with bias seams, and any gal knows what superslim creations this bias seam stuff assures . . . the coats are simple things that depend upon the luster of the satin for eye filling effects.

Black and white combinations are stunning, as you may surmise . . . grand looking get-to-gethers that are smart enough to return any appraising eye, male or female, but if you want grand and unbelievable swank, look for the luscious white satin evening ensembles that will make you look as cool as an ice maiden even on the sultriest night.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Well, well—Sunday is almost here again!

Tomorrow 100 of the numerous children who wrote to me for invitations to my World's Fair party will be very happy. Their names will be printed in THE TRIBUNE and invitations will reach them the early part of this week. It's going to be a very gay party, and those invited may consider themselves extremely fortunate.

I'm awfully sorry to have to disappoint so many, many boys and girls this week ,but we can't possibly take more than 100 children with us on Thursday.

For that reason I've planned another very special party for July 13. When you see what it's going to be I know you'll forget your dashed hopes and run like everything for a pencil and paper.

India Speaks Is Travelogue with Fiction

"INDIA SPEAKS."
Produced by Walter A. Futter.
Presented by RKO.
Described and interpreted by Richard Halliburton.
Presented at Orchestra hall.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

India speaks part of the time and part of the time Hollywood speaks, while, hark, from the hinterlands, H. T. Cowling, one of the photographers concerned with the making of the travelogue part, emits a series of mournful wails.

In the International Photographer, Mr. Cowling avers bitterly: "They have taken scenes made in Burma, Java, Sumatra and other places and put them in Tibet, with no regard for geographical truth. They turned my tiger shot into a lion shot, then faked a fight between a lion and a tiger. . . ."

Mr. Cowling also wrote me a letter about it.

Well, it's not my fight. As an observer, fairly pure and often simple, "India Speaks" struck me as a too long travelogue into which had been injected unconvincing synthetic drama. The undeniably interesting and instructive sequences are offset by unnecessary feet devoted to the aforementioned animal fracas and repulsive sights of natives torturing and being tortured. Photography is excellent.

A great asset is the accompanying descriptive lecture delivered in the mellifluent voice of Mr. Richard Halliburton, the w. k. author-adventurer-lecturer. Mr. Halliburton, who possesses rich powers of description, explains that he was not on the ground at the time of the actual making of this picture, and, also, in the foreword, smilingly admits that, for dramatic reasons, fact has been tinctured with fiction.

LONDON, June 30.—(AP)—Phyllis Nancy Astor, the only daughter of Viscount and Viscountess Astor, is engaged to Lord Willoughby de Eresby, the son of the earl of Ancaster and the heir to the title and estates. Viscountess Astor is the former Nancy Langhorne of Virginia.

Lord Willoughby de Eresby's mother is the former Eloise Breese, daughter of the late W. L. Breese of New York.

Phyllis inherits her mother's vivacious temperament and energy. She was a keen horsewoman until she was thrown and injured while hunting three years ago. She has been working for two years in the office of a real estate concern in London.

Protect Child from Danger of Firecrackers

Avoid Accidents on July Fourth.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

In its persistent and successful campaign to save the eyesight of babies and children, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness calls two things to our attention. In connection with the Fourth of July they say:

"During the last year the society sought particularly to arouse the public against dangerous fireworks and toy firearms, which constitute serious hazards to children. A survey conducted by the society revealed that many children lost their sight as the result of accidents while playing with such toys.

"Every year," the report says, "hundreds of children are hurt by playing with firecrackers, fireworks, and toy firearms. Scores of them lose their sight or injure their eyes.

"Some communities have laws regulating the sale of fireworks, but there is great laxity throughout the country in enforcing these laws. The society has secured the coöperation of governors, mayors, local safety councils, and influential citizens generally in its effort to stamp out this menace to childhood. While legislation is necessary, the major responsibility rests with parents and teachers."

At the same time it may interest you to read also:

"The report points that special clinics have been established in New York, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati for cross-eyed children whose parents cannot afford the long and expensive treatment under the care of a private physician. While it may be too soon to forecast the success of the work being done in these centers, the report says it is hoped that it will prove an added accomplishment in the program of saving sight. It seems almost inexcusable that there should be any children left with cross-eyes, when we realize that it is an affliction which usually can be corrected early in life.

"The cross-eyed child is frequently a behavior problem because he is self-conscious and suffers from a sense of inferiority.

"Parents often neglect to have the defect in their children's eyes corrected until too late to avoid the physical or psychic involvements. The society is striving to inform parents through popular literature, lectures, and the newspapers of the urgency of early treatment for the young cross-eyed child."

Miss Elinor Chace, Artist, to Wed Steward Kehler

A marriage license was issued in Waukegan yesterday to Miss Elinor Lambert Chace, artist and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Chace of Cincinnati, O., and Steward W. Kehler, vice president of the Hexin company, who lives at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Miss Chace, reached last night at the home of Mrs. Abby Farwell Ferry at 925 North Lake road, Lake Forest, which she has taken over for the summer, said that she and Mr. Kehler would be married at 4 o'clock this afternoon "somewhere in Lake Forest." Only three friends are to attend, she said.

Maurois Visits Fair; Guest at Two Functions

Writers' Section Is Host at Luncheon.

White flowers are the coolest looking table decorations there are, at least so Mrs. James Ward Thorne and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed decided yesterday, and we are sure their decisions were right, for two lovelier tables for a hot day than those they decorated for the two affairs given for Andre Maurois couldn't be imagined.

The one that Mrs. Thorne had planned was for the luncheon the writers' section of the social functions committee of A Century of Progress gave in the Trustees' Lounge and the one Mrs. Goodspeed "did" was for the dinner the P. E. N. club gave at the Arts club for the distinguished French writer.

The luncheon really wasn't planned especially for M. Maurois, for the section of which Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank is chairman plans to give luncheons for visiting writers every second Friday all summer and yesterday's, the first of the series, happened to be given on the first day of M. Maurois' brief visit to Chicago, so of course he was the especial guest. The table at which about forty sat at luncheon was on the attractive terrace of the Trustees' Lounge and the combination of the silver topped tables, spun aluminum vases holding calla lilies, pyramids of gardenias, and a center pyramid of daisies and baby's breath, and luster balls was a delightful one, particularly on such a warm day. The only business attended to was the adoption of a resolution to send telegrams of congratulation to the Chicagoans who won Pulitzer prizes this year, Archibald MacLeish and Edgar Ansel Mowrer. Some of those at the luncheon in addition to Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and M. Maurois were Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, whose house guest M. Maurois is; Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Miss Harriet Monroe, Thornton Wilder, Mrs. Frank G. Logan, Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, and Princess Sacha Kropotkin, who is here from New York to see the Fair.

The P. E. N. dinner last night was small, but that was the very reason probably why it was such an enjoyable party and voted such a success by the sixteen or eighteen who were there, some of whom were Miss Fanny Butcher, president of the Chicago P. E. N.; Mr. and Mrs. Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Goodspeed, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Meeker, Miss Clara Laughlin, Miss Alice Roullier, Mr. Wilder, and Bernard Fay, another well known French biographer who is at the University of Chicago for a time.

Mrs. Goodspeed has made no engagements for her guest for today or tomorrow—he leaves tomorrow evening—for he wants to spend all the rest of his time here sightseeing and visiting the Fair.

The hostess committee is giving a luncheon today at 1 o'clock at the Illinois Host building for Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, at which plans for future functions at the building during the Fair will be discussed. Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, and Mrs. Herbert L. Stern are in charge of the luncheon.

Teachers Ask More School Fads, Frills

Talk Program at N. E. A. Convention.

An elaborate and costly program of fads and frills in education will be advocated at the convention of the National Education association which opens in Chicago today. That the program will extract millions of dollars from the taxpayers is a point that the educators will admit, but aren't anxious to discuss.

Plans for the increase in the amount of education were described yesterday in an interview with Joy Elmer Morgan, editor of the journal of the N. E. A. Mr. Morgan contended that there are a great many educatable persons in the country who are not being educated. In this class he placed policemen.

"Policemen should be trained for their profession," said Mr. Morgan. "They should be taught psychology, sociology, economics, mental hygiene and city planning. This training will enable them to understand better the effect they have on people with whom they deal."

There should be more teaching of "socialized recreation," such as the training of park directors, Mr. Morgan declared. Other fields needing developing, he said, are city planning, social planning, landscape gardening and even automobile servicing.

"Our nation is on the road to more leisure time for its citizens," asserted Mr. Morgan, "and persons will have to be trained to direct leisure pursuits. During this depression parlor bridge hs grown to a $250,000,000 industry."

He explained, however, that he did not advocate the teaching of bridge in school.

The N. E. A. platform calling for increased adult and prekindergarten education, which was announced several years ago when a sharply declining birth rate began to decrease the pupil population in lower grades, was also touched on by Mr. Morgan.

"In 1830 there were 900 adults for each 1,000 youths 16 years old and younger," he explained, "and in 1930 we had 2,000 adults to each 1,000 youths. Naturally, the complexion of our education is changing."

Mr. Morgan was asked how the cost of education could be increased when school districts throughout the country have scortened terms, cut budgets and are finding great difficulty in paying teachers.

"Well, the men who run the big cities are just bookkeepers," he answered. "Instead of cutting down they should add new activities, which always increase income. Education in this nation has always been underfinanced."

A preliminary conference of the National Council of Education, which is the selected "brain trust" of the leading educators of the country, was held yesterday at the Stevens hotel. Among the speakers were Mr. Morgan and Thomas E. Benner of the College of Education of the University of Illinois.

The first general session of the convention will be held tonight in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Swell Garrick—the World's Perfect Tailor's Dummy—is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training rather than tailoring skill. Maitland, a crooked gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough, who is unknowingly being used as decoy. Maitland plots to trick Rhoda out of a fortune left her by an uncle who died in Rome. Garrick exposes to Rhoda, before Maitland and his gang, their crooked card tricks. Garrick is overpowered by Schewan, Maitland's chief, but manages to defeat Schewan's purpose of burning him alive in his car. Maitland has Rhoda adjudged insane. Garrick learns from his uncle, a professor of chemistry, of a drug which will produce temporary madness. Having no proof of guilt Garrick determines to settle the matter in his own way. He kidnaps Maitland and holds him captive until he learns where Rhoda is being held. Garrick learns from his solicitor that if Rhoda can gain and maintain her liberty for twenty-eight days she will be considered legally sane. Garrick undertakes a bold rescue. He escapes with Rhoda in his car, headed for London. Schewan has sent out a police alarm.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

A BOLD ESCAPE.

Garrick had slipped in between the tail of the Yard van and a lamp standard.

The van had forced him on to the crown of the road. A hundred yards ahead, on the wrong side of the road, was a second van. To the second van, he knew at once, had been entrusted the real business.

The Flying Squad has only one motto—"Get your man." If the law-breaker wants a collision on the road the Flying Squad will oblige—every time.

Over that short stretch of less than a hundred yards the two cars rushed headlong at each other. Each at the start was doing about thirty-five—together they rushed at each other at a velocity of seventy miles an hour. And Garrick was accelerating—hard.

Garrick intended to use the greasy surface of the road. He waited for his moment—the moment when the van and the car were hardly a car's length apart. In less than a second they would crash, head on.

Garrick swung the steering wheel full over, and at the same time jerked on his hand brake, so that the back wheels were instantly locked.

On a dead dry surface he would have turned turtle. On the greasy film of the Great West road the car skidded a complete semi-circle. There was a grind and a scream as the wings of the two cars met and tore each other apart. But there was no shock. The wheels had cleared.

He was now facing in the opposite direction—the same direction in which the assailant van was facing.

In the meantime the first van had swung round and was ready to come into the fray. Garrick cut across its line of advance, just cleared it, then turned round on the broad road and headed once more for London. As he drew level with the second van the latter backed and tried to crash into him but was just too late. He was now running parallel with the first van, both heading towards London.

The Reindert could beat the Yard van on the straight and Garrick ran into Gunnersbury—the first of the London suburbs—with a lead of something under a quarter of a mile. This was race track stuff—with both cars at full throttle. It could not be kept up through London, even at midnight.

"We're going to play cat and mouse with them," he shouted exultantly to Rhoda. "You'll hear a funny noise in a minute." He was watching the driving mirror that showed him the road behind. "Here they are!"

The Reindert was running now at well under forty miles an hour. Garrick bent forward and pulled a wire ring, roughly fixed to the steering column. At once the rhythm of the exhaust was changed. Instead of a regular hum there came an irregular spattering.

"Look out of the window behind!" he told her.

"O!" she gasped. "There's a fog—a thick fog. It'll be on us in a moment."

"No, it won't!" he laughed back. "We're making it ourselves. That's what the exhaust is doing—it's running through a smoke drum. It'll take them five minutes to crawl through that smoke. . . They've had about enough now."

He pushed the ring back and the exhaust resumed its normal hum. He increased speed and when he was quite sure he had shaken off pursuit, turned northwest for St. John's wood.

"Where are we going?" she asked.

"We are going to call on your guardian—the estimable Maj. Maitland," answered Garrick. "You left a lot of clothes there, didn't you? Clothes are what we want for you chiefly, at the moment—and for me."

There was no policeman about when the Reindert swung into the little drive in front of Maitland's house. A light burned on the first floor. Garrick stopped the engine and rattled loudly on the knocker.

Maitland opened the door and gaped in astonishment at Garrick's make-up as a superintendent of police with a false mustache. Before Maitland could actually see through the disguise Garrick pulled off the false mustache.

"Hullo, Maitland! Miss Fairclough is with me. Can we come in?"

"Hush, Maitland, hush! Never swear in the presence of ladies! . . . Come along, Rhoda! Maj. Maitland says he's delighted. And he says there's absolutely no ill feeling now it's all over."

"You'll go straight up to your room, won't you?" Garrick smiled reassuringly and then: "Maitland, old fellow, I want to use your telephone."

The telephone was in the drawing room on the first floor. Garrick strolled up the stairs behind Rhoda. Maitland, still gasping with astonishment at their presence—to which was added bewilderment at the sight of Rhoda in nurse's uniform—followed them up the stairs.

Maitland started in horror as he heard Garrick give the number of Scotland Yard.

"Urgent. I want to speak to the night superintendent. It's about that escaped lunatic from Nympstone house, Slough."

Maitland could make nothing of it. He stared at Garrick, who was standing with the telephone in his hand, and noticed that Garrick's finger was not on the receiver rest that would prevent communication.

"He really is speaking to the Yard," muttered Maitland to himself and aloud: "What's the game, Garrick?"

But Garrick was already speaking into the receiver.

"Garrick speaking . . . About the abduction of the lunatic, Miss Rhoda Fairclough. I am speaking at the moment from Maitland's house. Yes, Maitland—the guardian, you know! Haltravers Crescent, St. John's Wood. . . Yes. Correct! Miss Fairclough is here with me. We both wish to surrender. . Yes. Your people have got Schewan, Dorling, Lawson, George and that Dr. Kendall—with a photograph of Schewan attempting to inject hilvanium, which is now being developed. Yes—Maitland, the guardian, is here. I'll keep him until you come round. . . What's that? . . No."

Maitland heard the last from the staircase. His one thought then was to go while the going was good.

Garrick smiled as he saw the room was empty. A moment later Rhoda came in.

"I heard what you said," she whispered. "Why—"

"Listen!" warned Garrick.

There came the sound of a car's engine.

"I'm afraid your guardian has stolen my Reindert!" he remarked with a smile. "I hope he gets a nice long way with it without being stopped by the police. We'll take his in exchange when we're ready."

"Were—were you speaking with your finger on the catch?"

"O, no! That's too simple a trick even for Maitland. He was behind me when I picked up the telephone and he didn't see me—do this."

Garrick showed her the broken end of the wire. As he had picked up the telephone he had jerked the wire from its terminal in the wall.

"Change as quickly as you can," he said. "And I'll see what Maitland can do for me."

Garrick slipped into Maitland's bedroom and selected a lounge suit. It was, in his opinion, an execrable fit. But it was good enough to deceive policemen at night.

Almost as soon as he had finished, Rhoda appeared in evening dress and cloak, carrying a dressing case.

"We shall want the key. It's kept in the kitchen—I'll get it," she said.

Maitland had a presentable little saloon. They drove out and headed south for Marylebone where Garrick's warehouse was situated.

As they ran past Lord's cricket ground they saw the Reindert ahead. Maitland had got out of it and was arguing with two policemen.

"That fellow," he said to Rhoda, "is going to look a prize ass in the morning. The Gorilla can be quite sarcastic when he tries . . . Now for the warehouse!"

Alter Coward Play Slightly for Film Tale

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 30.—[Special.]—In the screen version of the Noel Coward stage success, "Design for Living," the pattern of the story has been altered somewhat to make the three principals young Americans living in a Bohemian section of Paris, whence they remove to London's rialto, and later to New York.

At the Paramount studio, which bought the screen rights, it is stated that Noel Coward profited more than $100,000 exclusive on the sale of movie rights, from his play's seventeen week run on Broadway. Paramount still hopes to have young Douglas Fairbanks in one of the three main parts, as the joint sweetheart of Miriam Hopkins who shares her affection with Fredric March.

Jean Carmen, one of those blondes you always look at a second time, who used to be a double for various Universal City actresses, and who recently attracted some attention in a bit of action in Radio's "Melody Cruise," now has been promoted to an important subordinate part in "The Glory Command."

One associate producer had a bad time of it yesterday. He was bossing things on "Balloon Buster," the Radio film about an American war flyer with an antipathy for German air sausages. The producer got the machine gun expert who was acting as technical director, and said: "Now for this next scene we will have to get a special balloon gun."

"But there is no such gun, and never was," the gun expert said.

"Well, there must be one somewhere, we'll have to get one; it says so in the script here."

Lilyan Tashman has been cast for the Bing Crosby-Jack Oakie-Skeets Gallagher comedy, "Too Much Harmony," which is a continuation of the thread of the successful 1932 film, "Close Harmony." Crosby, for whom the Paramount studio has big plans and profitable expectations, takes the place in this one that Buddy Rogers had in the first of the series. Harry Green again supplies dialects.

Dorothy Wieck and Maj. Ernst Udet, famous German war flyer, were joint guests at a banquet by Los Angeles German-American residents tonight.

Fatty Arbuckle's passing marks almost the last link broken in a rollicking Hollywood group of close friends which made things gay here 15 years ago. Mabel Normand is dead. Norma Talmadge is retired. Constance Talmadge has retired also. Buster Keaton has gone to Europe after being divorced by the third Talmadge sister. Lou Anger is still here, still acting as financial associate of Joe Schenck in local enterprises, but that's about all that's left of the once noted group.

MINUTE MYSTERY

CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

CLASS DAY.

"In my younger days," Fordney said to his class, "I occasionally, very occasionally, resorted to disguise. Perhaps you fellows would be interested in knowing the results of one of those infrequent times when I considered a change of appearance called for. Yes? All right, then.

"There had been several important thefts in Boston and my investigations led me to believe they were the work of Myron Southey and Daniel Foster—two of the cleverest crooks who ever operated.

"Knowing something of their habits, I disguised myself as a 'weary willie' and set out walking about the countryside. On the second day I dropped into a 'jungle' near the railroad tracks, just as two tramps approached.

"'Say, fellow,' said one, 'you look kind of hungry. All we got is some bread. I got five loaves and my buddy here has three. You got any grub on you?'

"I replied in the negative. Did they suspect me? I really didn't know.

"'All right,' he continued, 'we'll split the eight loaves with you—can't see a guy go hungry.'

"We sat down and each ate an equal share. Soon I knew the two were the men I was after. Southey furnished five loaves and Foster three.

"Finishing our repast, I reached into my ragged pocket and pulled out eight cents. 'There you are, boys—that's all the dough I have. Divide it so that both of you get your right share.'

"Southey scratched his head in mock bewilderment and said, 'Hell! I ain't no arithmetic stoodent. How we gonna do that?'"

HOW DID THE TWO DIVIDE THE EIGHT CENTS SO THAT EACH RECEIVED THE RIGHT AMOUNT FOR THE BREAD THEY HAD FURNISHED?

[See solution on page 28.]

Perhaps you have a story or problem you would like to submit to Prof. Fordney. If so, send it care of this paper. He will be delighted to receive it.

Empress of Japan Expects Child; Hopes for a Boy

TOKIO, June 30.—(AP)—The empress of Japan expects another child in January, the imperial household ministry indicated today on the authority of court physicians. The empress will soon go to Hayama on the physicians' advice, to spend the summer quietly at the imperial villa on the seashore. Their majesties still lack a son to inherit the throne and therefore the court and the nation hope their next baby will be a boy.

BY MARY MEADE.

Again the curtain rolls up on the Saturday cookery bout. Questions are busy sparring with answers, and it looks as if there might be some interesting moments before the bell—or whatever it is that ends cookery bouts.

And by the way, if you have troubles in your kitchen, or if favorite recipes have a way of vanishing, remember that Saturday is our clearing house for cookery queries. You provide the questions and we'll produce the answers. If the column won't hold them all—and it never has yet—we'll enlist the offices of the mailman. So be on the safe side, won't you, and send along a stamp?

Mrs. E. G. L. writes: "Shall I salt my meat before putting it in the oven to roast? Also, should I sear it, cover it, baste it, or add water?"

Salt may be added before or after roasting. If added before it tends to keep the roast from browning. I usually sear my roasts, not because I'm trying to keep in the juices [for one actually loses more], but because searing adds to the good appearance and to the rich, browned flavor of the outer meat and the gravy. Never cover a roast of lamb, pork, or beef. Doing so creates moisture and really stews the meat instead of roasting it! For the same reason we do not add water when roasting these meats. Basting should not be necessary if we have a reasonably fat piece of meat and roast it with the fat side uppermost. The fat melts and runs down, self-basting the meat.

Any desired mixture of vegetables may be canned for vegetable soup. Prepare each vegetable as for canning and combine them. Add boiling water [the amount of water will depend on the kind of vegetables used; if tomatoes are used they will furnish the necessary liquid], and boil 1 to 2 minutes. Pack the vegetables into sterile jars at once and add one teaspoon salt to each quart. Then process in a steam pressure cooker under 15 pounds pressure for 1 hour.

Another good vegetable soup combination is 2 quarts tomatoes, 1 pint corn, 1 pint lima beans, 1 pint okra, 1 small onion, chopped; ½ cup chopped sweet red pepper, 1½ teaspoons salt, and 3 teaspoons sugar. Prepare each of the vegetables as for canning, combine with the seasoning, and cook together for 10 minutes. Pack immediately into hot sterile jars and process as above.

Mrs. J. J. S. inquires: "Can raspberries be substituted for strawberries in a recipe for making jam?" Yes, Mrs. S., you may substitute the one fruit for the other in the same proportion.

The fourth request is from Miss E. K., who writes: "Can you suggest a menu for a wedding reception to be staged in the evening after an 8:30 o'clock wedding." Such a menu, Miss K., might consist of the usual assortment of dainty sandwiches, relishes, individual cakes, punch, candies, nuts, and wedding cake. Or it might be an attractive buffet supper.

A question from Mrs. O. B. reads: "I have a heavy cast Dutch oven. Would it be possible to bake a small ham in it?"

Yes, Mrs. B., but the finished product would not be quite like that of the conventional baked ham and the outer surface of the ham would be more moist.

This last is not a question, but a helpful hint from Mrs. D. M. She wants to suggest to other housewives that apple peelings may be quickly removed if the apples are first dipped in boiling water for a moment, just as you are in the habit of scalding tomatoes before peeling. After the apple skins have been removed the flesh of the apple is left smooth and red. Apples treated in this way make attractive salad fruits.

CHILD'S DRESS.

Isn't this a cunning dress for small girls? It's as easy as can be to make. The one piece front has an inset at the center front that is gathered to the brief yoke. The square neck and armholes are bound with a contrasting color—and the lacings are also of this color. Red and white dimity made the original dress, and the contrasting color was a dark blue.

The pattern, No. 2972, comes in sizes 1, 2, 4, and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1½ yards of 39 inch material with 3¼ yards of braid.

to spend a few weeks with Mrs. Holden's mother, Mrs. Joseph Cotton. Miss Eleanor Holden, Mr. Holden's sister, is leaving shortly for the Holdens' home at Black Point, Conn., where the junior Hale Holdens will join her later.

Mrs. Henry B. Stimson, the former Isabelle McBirney, has arrived with two of her children, Alice and the baby, Hugh McBirney Stimson, to visit her mother, Mrs. Hugh Johnston McBirney, in Lake Forest. Mrs. Stimson will be here for the summer.

Several Events For Polo Fans.

Most of society will leave the saddle to a few experts this long holiday week-end and join hundreds on the side lines at one of several polo games or the two day Fort Sheridan horse show.

The members of the St. Louis polo team arrived in town yesterday for a few practice games before they meet Oak Brook tomorrow afternoon. All of these players live up to the reputation broadcast the early part of the week . . . attractive, intelligent sportsmen from some of Missouri's best families. There's Edwin G. Simmons II., brother of "Dick" Simmons, who is playing under the colors of the Onwentsia this summer; Mahlon Wallace Jr., Edward Love Jr., and Julius Van Raalte.

After the second St. Louis-Oak Brook game the afternoon of the Fourth there are to be the finals of the Eugene Byfield Memorial tournament for possession of the Eugene Byfield trophy. In this game Oak Brook will be the defending team.

On the lakeside polo field at Fort Sheridan the El Ranchito team that has been playing Oak Brook the last fortnight is meeting the fast Fort Sheridan players tomorrow.

The boxes are sold and the stage all set for the horse show Maj. Gen. Frank Parker is sponsoring Monday and Tuesday at the Fort. After the ring competition, which will give horse lovers an opportunity to see some of the best horses in the country in action, there will be another polo game between the El Ranchitos and the Fort Sheridan teams.

"Won't you drop in for our housewarming on Sunday afternoon, July the second, about four o'clock?" ask those four bachelors—Burke Williamson, William Rodenberg, George Lewis, and Horace Kiser—who have taken a great old house at 1240 Tower road, Winnetka. They plan to remain for the hot weather months, then shifting their domicile back to the near north side.

Alice F. McCulloch, Granddaughter of Robert Fair, Engaged

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. David Hugh McCulloch of Port Washington, L. I., and Palm Beach, Fla., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice Fair McCulloch, to Frederick K. Hemsley Gillmore, son of Gen. and Mrs. Quincy A. Gillmore of this city and Rumson, N. J.

Miss McCulloch is a granddaughter of the late Robert M. Fair of Chicago, who was a partner in Marshall Field & Co., and was introduced to society at a dinner dance at the Central Park casino in June of 1932.

Mr. Gillmore is a great-grandson of the late Gen. Quincy A. Gillmore, who fought in the civil war. He was graduated last month from Yale university.

MISS ISABEL WERNER

Mrs. Ellen Werner of Evanston announces the engagement of her daughter, Isabel, to William Mell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mell of Chicago. Miss Werner attended the Chicago Latin School for Girls. Couple Break Because They Cannot Agree

After Argument They Part for Months.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

They've been living apart six months. This, following an argument in which each was right. Every night for the last three months he's come to see his bride at her mother's home. They would go back together, as they admit being in love still—but he won't admit he's wrong. Neither will she!

The two foolish persons should be sentenced to six months hard study on the psychology of harmonious living. A bit of pre-marriage schooling would have been better. But it is not too late to try to get a slant on the individual's right to his and her own opinion.

The basis of quarrels is invariably the attempt of one of the wedded pair to try and dominate the opinions and reactions of the other; trying to make the other see identically as you see a thing.

Why should one expect another to have the same feeling and the same point of view about every question? You are two distinct and separate entities and cannot possibly meet every problem from the same angle. If you young warriors would get this firmly planted in your arbitrary young heads you'd save no end of troubles.

You must not expect your mental pattern and your emotional attitudes to be identical just because you are joined together in marriage. As premarriage friends you could look at a problem in a far saner way. You made allowances for differences in the other. But immediately the knot is tied, some evil genie seems to come and dictate terms of complete surrender or nothing.

It's simply not grown-up. If a congenial acceptance of these differences in temperament, emotions, points of view can be arrived at outside of marriage, they can in, just as well. In friendships that last one is not always trying to beat down the other's resistance. That's why the friendship endures. If you can't arrange it otherwise, think of wife or husband as an outside friend due the courtesy of his own opinions.

"Symbolism of Cards."

Evangelical Women Ask Army Exemption for Church Group

Buffalo, N. Y., June 30.—(AP)—The National Evangelical Women's union today elected Mrs. Magdalene R. Mernitz of Chicago Heights president. The union adopted resolutions favoring the proposed union of the Evangelical and the Reformed churches and condemning raffles and card parties for the raising of church funds.

The union also approved a declaration asking the government to place the Evangelical church on the same footing as the Society of Friends and similar groups opposed to war and grant them exemption from military service.

Folks Helped by Exercises Give Testimonials

Say West Point Series Do the Work.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

They work all right—those stretching exercises do! I've received more testimonials on their reducing value than on anything I've had in a long time.

You won't mind reading a couple of them, will you? I only want to show that if they'll make a new model out of these former fat-burdened bodies they'll do as much for you.

"I want to thank you heartily," Mrs. B. L. tells, "also to offer a few words of encouragement to the fat and slightly-over-forties. I'm 44 and weighed 173. I'm only 5 feet 1, so I was as broad as I was tall. Last December and January you published a series of silhouettes with directions for reducing. I decided to try them. Today I weigh 134½ pounds, a reduction of 38 pounds.

"My bust and hips are inches smaller. My dress size has changed from 42 to 36. Every one tells me how much better I look, and can I dance now with my hubby, who is crazy about dancing and wouldn't ever ask me when I was fat? I have a large house and do all my own work, but I manage to get in twenty minutes every single morning working at those wonderful exercises."

"Junoesque" tells a happy tale of shelving twenty pounds in similar manner.

"Mrs. B. F." took off ten pounds and got her job back as model when her husband's firm disbanded. Ten was all she needed to reduce. Reports of thirteen pound losses, fifteen, eighteen, and more are on record.

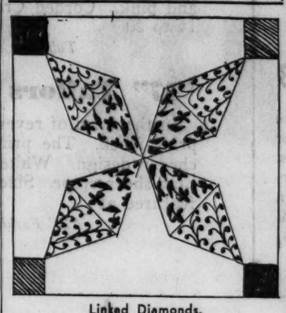

But the weight loss isn't what tickles me so much as the renewed pep and eagerness to be up and doing, reported in every instance. And this I claim is what exercise does for you that dieting alone will not do. I've seen it demonstrated time and time and time again that weight loss is accomplished through dieting, but where it is done with exercise and food regulation rather than stringent dieting there is a far better result of year shelving. People feel younger.

Germaine Bailly Uses Two Blues, Lots of Buttons in an Exclusive Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The frantic search for clothes that are different, and that haven't been bought and copied hundreds of times, takes women into small, exclusive houses in Paris. They simply can't bear to see bad copies of their expensive clothes adorning the windows of the Galeries Lafayette.

Quite a number of these ladies are wearing Germaine Bailly's clothes for this reason. Mme. Bailly makes clothes that uphold the ancient tradition of the haute couture for incredibly fine hand work and odd color schemes, and this is just what the copyists have to avoid.

The ensemble in our sketch today is a Germaine Bailly ensemble that is the choice of some distinguished women. It combines a pastel blue silk frock with a cape-coat in navy blue, and it is trimmed with a whole brigade of dark blue buttons. The simple dress buttons from top to bottom on these buttons, and the capelet on the coat is buttoned on them, too.

The dress has a star shaped yoke and big cuffs made of narrow bias bands of blue taffeta set together with drawnwork bands. The yoke has a turnover collar done with this same fine handwork, and a navy blue bow tie. The belt is made of braided taffeta.

The coat is straight and hangs loose.

CUNNINGHAM, METCALFE WIN PAIR OF RACES

Dominate National A. A. U. Games.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Glenn Cunningham of Kansas and Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette dominated the 46th annual National A. A. U. track and field meet last night at Soldiers' field. These boys from the central states, Cunningham from the sunburned prairies of Kansas and Metcalfe from the south side of Chicago, accomplished the difficult feat of winning double championships.

More than this, Cunningham and Metcalfe accounted for two of the four meet records which were broken last night. The Kansas star had a bit better of the record breaking, for his mark was the best 1,500 meter race ever run in America.

Metcalfe had no trouble retaining his sprint titles in the 100 and 200 meter races. He distanced James Johnson, victor in the national junior 100 Thursday afternoon, and Jesse Owens, East Tech High school star of Cleveland.

Lowers 200 Meter Mark.

Metcalfe gave the crowd of 8,000 a thrill when he came home three yards in front of Johnson in the 100 meters in 10 5-10 seconds. Later he coasted in for an easy victory in the 200 meters, far in front of Johnson. Metcalfe covered that distance in 21 1-10 seconds, three-tenths of a second faster than the five year old mark credited to Charley Borah, formerly of the University of California.

Cunningham had a more difficult job earning his two championships. His first race, the 1,500 meter, was his best. Two weeks ago, in the national collegiate meet, Cunningham ran the fastest American mile in history. Last night he placed the 1,500 meter event in the same category and stamped himself as an all-time middle distance star.

Gene Venzke, who won one race at this distance on the indoor boards last winter in three meetings with Cunningham, was expected to push him. But Venzke never led, and after a brief spurt on the backstretch finished third. Second place went to Joseph Maugan of the New York A. C., who trailed Cunningham to the tape by 20 yards. The Kansan's time was 3 minutes 52 3-10 seconds. This was three-tenths of a second faster than the American record, owned by Venzke.

Comes Back with Great Race.

This was Cunningham's greatest race, but not his greatest endurance test. That was reserved for the 800 meter, in which Charles Hornbostel of Indiana, who had beaten the Jayhawker by half a stride in the national collegiate half mile, tying the American record, barred his path to the title.

Last night Cunningham won, distancing Hornbostel in a stretch drive, for which he is famous. The time was 1 minute 51 8-10 seconds, nearly two seconds short of the American record, but the slow time may be attributed to the luck of the draw, which placed both the feature runners on the outside of the field at the start. Neither could break through the press of competitors who elbowed freely on the turns and all but resorted to use of their fists.

Cunningham was nearer the infield and when he broke a path through the pack on the last lap he had the inside lane, with Hornbostel trailing. Seventy-five yards from the finish the Hoosier pulled up on even terms, but those who expected the same gruelling finish that had marked the collegiate race were disappointed. Cunningham's stride lengthened and he moved away without effort.

Lambertus Sets Mark.

Heye Lambertus, Nebraska's Big Six hurdle champion and national junior winner, broke the 200 meter low hurdle meet record. The big Cornhusker had superior skill in clearing the barriers, but he faltered in the final dash to the tape, barely beating Gus Meier of the Olympic club. Lambertus' time was 23 4-10 seconds, one-tenth faster than Bob Maxwell's former National A. A. U. time, but far short of the world mark of 23 seconds held by Charles Brookins, former Iowa hurdler.

The other meet record was established by Cornelius Johnson, Los Angeles high school boy, who cleared 6 feet 7 inches to eclipse his own mark by three-eighths of an inch. Johnson defeated by two inches his collegiate rivals, George Spitz of the New

THE GUMPS—THROW OUT THE LIFE LINE

Victory in Relay Thrown Out; Rerun Today.

Two meet records were broken yesterday at Soldiers' field as the Illinois Women's Athletic club won the National A. A. U. track and field meet by scoring 42 points in ten events. The South Parks of Chicago, represented by Genevieve Valvoda, tied for second place in the standing with another one girl team from the Onteora club of Malden, Mass. scored 8 points.

One of the meet records was registered by I. W. A. C. girls. In addition Katherine Rutherford of the I. W. A. C. took individual scoring honors with first places in the 8 pound shot and the baseball throw, and second in the discus throw.

Small Field of Contestants.

The Illinois Women's club won four of the ten events and placed in all, this last honor being a dubious one, since the entire field of contestants numbered only four score, although there were athletes from coast to coast and from Toronto to New Orleans.

Annette Rogers was the I. W. A. C. girl to break a meet record. She covered the 100 meter dash in 12.2 seconds, one-tenth of a second faster than Wilhelmina von Bremen's mark. The world record is 11.9 seconds. Miss Rogers defeated Louise Stokes, Negro sprinter from Malden, Mass., who previously had won the 50 meter dash.

The Illinois Women's A. C. won the 400 meter relay and established a record of 48 seconds, but the women's committee on track and field ruled last night that because of a foul the event would be run over this afternoon at Soldiers' field during the program of men's relay races and the national gymnastic competition.

New York Girl Sets Mark.

The second meet record was established by Alice Arden of the Dragon club, New York. She high jumped 5 feet 3¼ inches, an inch higher than Genevieve Valvoda of Chicago's South Parks, who a short time before had won the broad jump with a leap of 17 feet 2¾ inches. Miss Arden's jump displaced one of Babe Didrikson's meet records by 1-16 of an inch.

In winning the broad jump Miss Valvoda defeated the defending champion, Nellie Todd of the I. W. A. C., who was second with a jump of 16 feet 10 inches.

Two defending champions retained their titles. Olive Hasenfus of the Boston Swimming association was the victor in the 200 meter sprint, and the lanky, stoop shouldered Ruth Osborn of Shelbyville, Mo., made a show of the field in the discus, as she did last year. Miss Osborn hurled the weight 123 feet ¼ inch, ten feet short of her 1932 mark. Most of the girls threw the discus without regard for form.

Simone Schaller of Pasadena, Cal., gave a first rate exhibition of hurdling when she covered the 80 meter event in 12 seconds, winning by more than six yards. Summaries:

WHERE YOU HAVE TO BE GOOD TO WIN

Ralph Metcalfe crosses the finish line with three yards to spare over Jimmie Jo[illegible] of Illinois Normal in the final of the 100 meter sprint in the National A. A. U. meet at Soldiers' field last night. The Marquette star was timed in 10.5 seconds over a slow track.

Catherine Rutherford puts the eight pound shot 38 feet 11 inches to win her specialty in the national women's games at Soldiers' field yesterday afternoon. She represents the Illinois Woman's A. C.

Carnera Plans Hazy; Happy as Champion

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Gloriously attired in many, many yards of snappy blue shirting, on which his initials gleamed in purple thread some inches high, Primo Carnera, whose giant fingers picked up the tawdry gilt crown of the heavyweight division last night, lumbered up and down the corridors of the Hotel Victoria today and did his best to look like a champion of the old days.

He had the retinue—managers, backers, hangers-on, well wishers—that comes tumbling into camp when the hero brings home the title. Of course, there was a pretty girl on hand, one Rose Ingrao of the Bronx, who sat daintily by the side of the so-called man mountain as he fumbled with the starting gadgets of his car.

Deny They're Engaged.

Both the pugilist and his lady friend denied, with amiable smiles, that they were engaged when they were submitted to the question by some chaps whose innocence is such that they can't see a girl going down the road with a celebrity without figuring they're going to see the preacher any day now.

Around noon the champion held an audience.

Louis R. R. Soresi, associated with the champion, popped in and out of the interview with surprising ease for a man who has not been in the fight industry long. What he said didn't mean much until he cried out: "Fight Schmeling? I should say so. And say! Do you know where I—I mean we'd like to fight him? In Rome! That's the place. Rome!"

The pleasing visions of thousands pouring in from the Tuscan plains to plank down the lira was broken by the statement from somebody or other that Carnera was expecting a cable message of congratulation from Premier Mussolini of Italy.

Shows Knockout Punch.

"I feel fine. I have no plans. I await developments," replied Carnera.

"Spell it," said the red pencil.

"Sure," said Carnera, "I'll show you how it was I knocked him out. It—this traveled about six inches." He then ran his fist up toward the ceiling in a fierce uppercut three feet long and two feet wide. "That's how."

"Five seventy eight! Five seventy eight!" yelled out another fellow. He was terribly excited. Everybody thought he was talking about dollars, but he meant only that that many telegrams had come in to the champion.

"Ah!" Carnera exclaimed, "every-

CUBS END BAD MONTH WITH BAD DAY; LOSE, 6 TO 3

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 30. — The Cubs, who have been losing well pitched games during this miserable month of June, bade the month farewell today by losing a poorly pitched encounter. They were beaten by the Brooklyn Dodgers for the first time this year. The score was 6 to 3.

Charley Root was the starting pitcher and resigned after allowing a triple, two doubles, and four singles in 2 1-3 innings. Lynn Nelson, the losing pitcher, was touched for eight hits the rest of the way, including four in the seventh, when the Dodgers broke up the ball game with a cluster of three runs.

Joe Stripp, who went hitless yesterday, was the worst enemy with a perfect day. He had two doubles and three singles. Joe's efforts figured directly in the production of all but one of the Dodgers' runs.

Cubs Score First.

The Cubs remained seven games out of first place, but lost ground to the second place Cards, whom they now trail by 4½ games.

The Cubs got the Hermans home in the first inning. Bill singled with one out and went to third on Babe's single. Demaree fouled to Lopez, but Hartnett doubled to right, scoring Bill and Babe. Gabby was out, however, when he tried to reach third.

In their half the Dodgers scored a run and had men on third and second when they got the misguided notion they could work the double steal to tie the score. Frederick tripled with one out and scored on Stripp's single to left. Wilson bounced a single over Root's head and Stripp stopped at second, after which he went to third while Leslie was forcing Wilson. Stripp and Leslie then sought to put on the aforesaid double steal and Stripp was out at the plate, Hartnett to Jurges to Hartnett.

Dodgers Are Deterred.

Another play at the plate in the second inning prevented the Dodgers from tying the score. Cuccinello opened with a double to left. Lopez singled to left and Cuccinello sought to score but was out on a fine throw by Hendrick. Lopez went to second on the play at the plate but died there.

The Dodgers took the lead in the third after driving Root to cover. Boyle beat out an infield hit and went to second while Jurges was throwing out Frederick. Stripp then doubled for the seventh hit off Root, scoring Boyle with the tieing run. Nelson immediately relieved Root. Stripp held second while Jurges was throwing out Wilson, but scored on Leslie's single to center. Jurges threw out Cuccinello.

Cubs Tie Score.

The Cubs didn't make a hit in the third, fourth, or fifth inning, but in the sixth they broke loose to tie the score. With one out Babe Herman slammed a triple off the distant centerfield wall and scored on Demaree's single to left. Hartnett and Demaree tried to put on the hit and run play, but Mungo pitched out and Demaree was an easy victim at second. Hartnett then sent a long fly to Boyle.

The Dodgers resumed the lead in

H. Johnson Victor Over Ted Lyons.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox were forced to take a lesson yesterday from the heretofore mild mannered Red Hose of Boston. The Chicagoans learned to their sorrow that, at least for the day, they couldn't hit. They also learned that boys from the codfish country could not be kept in restraint by the pitching of Ted Lyons. The upshot of all this was a slightly emphatic 4 to 2 trimming for the home athletes before 6,000 ladies' day guests, 3,000 noisy school kids, and about 4,000 customers who paid. It was Boston's twelfth victory in the last nineteen starts.

The impotence of the Pale Hose at bat can be credited to Henry Johnson, the ex-Yankee, who annoyed everybody except Al Simmons and Evar Swanson. They shared the four singles surrendered by Johnson. Simmons' two hits served to push the Chicagoans into a 2 to 0 lead in three innings. After that things were vastly different, because Lyons' luck ran out and Johnson shut down almost completely on the matter of permitting his stuff to be hit to safe spots. He allowed only one hit in the last six innings.

Lyons Shaky from Start.

Lyons was so shaky from the outset that it was just a matter of time before bad news would arrive. He managed to leap out of various predicaments for four innings, but in the fifth and sixth the bats of Rabbit Warstler and Bill Werber turned things around. Warstler's two doubles were particularly distressing.

Lyons gave the 6,000 women fans something to screech about in the first inning. He pitched himself into a peck of trouble, but escaped without a scratch. Warstler opened the matinee with a single, Werber sacrificed and Cooke walked. Appling was given an error for juggling Alexander's rather hot grounder, filling the bags. This threat was erased in a hurry. Ferrell bounced to Dykes, who pegged to Hayes, forcing Alexander, and Hayes threw to Sullivan for a double play.

Simmons Scores After Single.

A single to center by Simmons starting the second appeared to be such a shock for Hi Johnson that he lost control. This feature assisted the pale sox to one run on one hit. After Simmons' single, Appling walked and both advanced on Dykes' bunt. Sullivan sent a soft grounder to Alexander and Simmons scored on the out. Then Grube walked, but the inning ended with Lyons being tossed out on a tap in front of the plate.

Another pass off H. Johnson in the third helped the Chicagoans to their second run. Hayes fanned, and Haas walked. Swanson poked a bunt along the third base line and he had no trouble beating it for a hit. Simmons then uncorked his second hit, a single to right center, Haas scoring and Swanson pulling up at third. The fun was cut short when Appling's roller was turned into a double play.

The Boston fellows began to get the scoring idea after one was deposed in the fifth. Warstler lined a two bagger to right center. Werber fanned, but it took Lyons considerable time to register the third out. He walked Cooke, after which Alexander singled to center. That scored Warstler and put Cooke on third. Then Ferrell walked, loading the bases, but Jolley could produce nothing better than a tall fly to Swanson.

Red Sox Take Lead.

The Red Sox tossed in two healthy hits behind a pass in the sixth and these proved just the right ingredients for two runs, putting them ahead of their Chicago friends by 3 to 2. Hodapp walked with one out, and Johnson flied out. Warstler doubled for the second time, putting Hodapp on third. Both scooted home on Werber's single to center. Then Cooke fanned.

Lyons was lucky to get away on a yield of only one run in the eighth when the bags were filled before anybody was retired. Hodapp led off with a single. Hi Johnson tried to bunt but didn't succeed. He then took a swing and singled to right, Hodapp taking third. A pass to Warstler brought on the full house. Werber flied to Swanson, Hodapp running home and H. Johnson taking third. Cooke then fanned for the second time and Alexander bounced into a forced play at second.

M'GRAW PICKS SOUTHPAW FOR DUEL THURSDAY

Reserved Tickets Sold Out.

BY ARCH WARD.

Laydees and gentlemen! The batteries for the game of the century Thursday afternoon will be:

For the National league—Carl Hubbell and Gabby Hartnett. For the American league—Lefty Grove and Bill Dickey.

John McGraw, manager of the National league team, yesterday picked the New York Giants' brilliant southpaw as his starting pitcher. Connie Mack on Wednesday named Grove as his choice.

Hubbell has won ten of his fifteen games this season. His record of seventy-seven strikeouts is not approached by any pitcher in the league. The figures on Grove for the first half of the season are equally impressive. So there is every indication that the sluggers of both leagues will be confronted with the finest pitching available when the big game gets under way at 1:15 Thursday.

Bartell Leads Off.

McGraw, in announcing the National league's starting lineup, reserved the right to make any last minute changes he considered necessary. Like Manager Mack of the American league, McGraw was willing to release his tentative batting order as an accommodation to newspapers which are deciding fan contests prior to the game.

The lineup and batting averages:

Frisch, St. Louis, 2b	.311
Klein, Philadelphia, rf	.371
P. Waner, Pittsburgh, cf	.275
Terry, New York, 1b	.305
O'Doul, New York, lf	.266
Traynor, Pittsburgh, 3b	.307
Hartnett, Chicago, c	.298
Hubbell, New York, p	.149

McGraw figures his team's chance of victory rests in its ability or lack of ability to stop the American league sluggers in the first half of the game. For the first four and a half innings the American league ball will be used. The cover on the National league ball is slightly thicker than the American, which explains the number of home runs the American league batters pile up, according to National league fans.

Orders American League Balls.

McGraw has ordered four dozen American league balls delivered to the National league dressing room at Comiskey park Thursday morning at 10 o'clock for batting and pitching practice.

Klein is the only National league player who has consistently walloped the ball out of the field. He has collected 15 home runs. Jimmy Foxx of the American league has 20 and Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig have 17 each. Walter Berger, who is listed among the National league outfielders, has rapped 14.

Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, announced last night that all grand stand and box seats had been sold. There remain only the bleacher seats. Instructions will appear in THE TRIBUNE tomorrow how to apply for these. They are not on sale now, so there will be no excuse for any one to write or telephone for tickets.

No Standing Room.

No standing room will be sold the day of the game. Any one who has planned on attending and neglected to obtain grand stand or box seat tickets will be disappointed. Nobody without a ticket will be permitted around the entrances of the park the day of the game.

The attendance will be 49,000, the capacity of the park. If all persons who requested box seats or choice grandstand locations could have been accommodated the crowd would exceed 100,000.

CAREY RESIGNS AS GARDEN HEAD; PICK KILPATRICK

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, confirmed rumors today that he had resigned. His resignation became effective last night following the Jack Sharkey-Primo Carnera championship fight. Carey became president of the Garden in 1929.

John Kilpatrick, formerly Carey's assistant, has been named president of the corporation. Kilpatrick once was an outstanding end on Yale's football squad.

ARLINGTON PARK OFFERS GREATEST PROGRAM OF YEAR

Three Stake Races Today Draw Best Horses.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Arlington Park Jockey club steps up this afternoon with the best one day's racing program offered in America so far this year.

The Hyde Park stakes, bringing together the finest band of 2 year olds assembled this season, is the day's headliner. It carries $7,500 in added money and will gross more than $17,000 if the 23 juveniles named over night accept the issue.

A Century of Progress handicap at six furlongs brings the Pacific coast champion, Gallant Sir, into action in a field which includes 13 overnight nominees, among them Big Brand, Pair by Pair, Mr. Sponge, Helianthus and Rush Hour.

Barn Swallow Entered.

A rapidly drying out track prevailed yesterday and unless there is additional rain, the going should be fast when these stars swing into action today.

Despite the season debut of Gallant Sir and the appearance of the brilliant Barn Swallow, it was the Hyde Park stakes which spurred speculations to a considerable volume last night.

The Hyde Park marks the western debut of Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney's Green Tree stables' Black Buddy, unbeaten son of Bud Lerner-Siren and generally rated as the eastern champion. He meets the fleetest band he has encountered this year. Last night Singing Wood, owned by Mrs. John Hay Whitney, a daughter-in-law of the owner of Green Tree stable, was rated the one Black Buddy would have to beat.

Trumpery Shows Up.

Then there was another angle. Trumpery, believed to be the best 2 year old in Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's barn, arrived at Arlington yesterday and will start in the stake, according to Trainer Tom Healey. Some eastern racing folks believe this fellow Trumpery will clean up on the other Whitney baby racers.

Trumpery will have Sainted and Rhadamanthus as running mates. Blue for Boys will be the running partner of Singing Wood, while Earnings, a half brother of Twenty Grand, will help Black Buddy carry on for the Greentree stable.

While the easterners were making much noise about these Whitney representatives, two bands of Chicagoans were standing by their guns, backing the home 2 year olds with considerable spirit.

One group was championing Warren Wright's entry of Hadagal and Prince Pompey. The other group likes Fred A. Burton's Dartle and were not backward in laying their money in on the son of Dodge-On Time. The Virginia folks liked Cloud D'Or and Miss Patience from the Audley Farm stable, while the Kentuckyans pinned their hopes on New Deal, winner of the Curran Memorial stakes at Washington Park. New Deal is owned by J. W. Parrish, the banker of Midway, Ky.

Black Buddy at 7-2.

The betting last night found Black Buddy the favorite at 5 to 2, while Singing Wood was the second choice at 7 to 2. The Wright entry had so many supporters it ruled as the third choice at 5 to 1.

The race may bring a new track record if run over a fast track, for Singing Wood came dangerously near cracking the old one when he won the first race of his career earlier in the week. The record of 1:04 1-5 was made by Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Crowning Glory in the Hyde Park stakes a year ago.

There is a strong possibility that the winner of the Hyde Park will go on to the 2 year old championship. All the leading candidates are eligible to the richer 2 year old fixtures to be decided later in the season.

The Arlington Jockey club officials were making plans last night to entertain one of the largest crowds of the season. They were not sure that the richer Arlington Futurity to be renewed on the closing day of the meet will attract greater interest than the Hyde Park does today.

MORELAND AND LITTLE ENTER TOURNEY FINAL

Moreland defeated Ben Cowdery, young Omaha star, 4 and 3, and Little disposed of Zell Eaton, slender Oklahoma City medal player, 1 up, in a struggle that went two extra holes. Eaton cut Little's morning lead of 3 up to 1 at the 30th hole.

Latonia, Ky., June 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Silas B. Mason's Head Play and six other leading 3 year olds will go to the post in the $10,000 Latonia Derby tomorrow afternoon. The distance of the race is 1½ miles.

DAMASCENE, a strong factor from the start, went around the leaders gradually when approaching the turn, drew out before reaching the stretch and, under strong hand riding, maintained his advantage thereafter. SERGEANT HILL moved up fast nearing turn, then fell back when taken under strong restraint and easily disposed of THREAT in the stretch. Latter began fast, saved ground at the turn, and weakened in final quarter.

BROWN TONEY, on inside from the start and having speed, bore out when drawing away fast after reaching stretch and won easily. LIGHTUP, forced back after a quarter, lost much ground when entering stretch and held on fairly well under pressure. WITCHES NIGHT had speed under hustling tactics, but weakened in stretch.

RUSTY, well up from the start and on inside for five-eighths, came around TIMOROUS at stretch turn and drew out for a handy win. TIMOROUS, quick to get going and steadied along for a half mile, could not withstand winner, but held on well, stalling off COG-AIR. Latter saved ground at the turn and went evenly until the final drive.

ESSEFF, much the best and strongly restrained for a half-mile, began to move up slowly after reaching final three-eighths and, disposing of the leaders, came away fast. KNIGHTS GAL had speed from the start, and while no match for winner, held on well and was eased near end. MISS BUNTING began fast, saved ground throughout, and stopped badly in stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—Substitute. Hertz course, one mile out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by P. Reuter. Went to post at 5:11. Off at once. Start good from permanent stalls. Won easily; second and third driving.

SCANDAL SHEET, restrained for five-eighths, came around the leaders slowly at stretch turn, drew out into a safe lead under strong riding, and had little left. KIBITZER, on inside early, went to outside at the turn and held on well, but did not menace winner. SETH'S BALLOT, slow to get going, came through on inside in stretch and closed stoutly.

Winner trained by C. Ponce. Went to post at 5:36. At post 4 minutes. Start bad from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

TARNISH, away well but unable to keep up, saved ground the first five-eighths, slipped through a narrow opening when moving up fast at lower turn and again getting through on inside in final eighth, wore down ED LARK in closing strides. Latter, away fast and steadied along for seven-eighths, held on stubbornly under a long, hard drive. FOXLAND HALL had speed and fought it out gamely to final fifty yards before faltering.

Esseff Rolls Up 2d Victory at Arlington

Esseff, the daughter of High Time, racing in the silks of Charles Fisher's Dixiana stable rolled up her second triumph of the season at Arlington yesterday when she won the Shady Nook purse from a band of stylish 3 year old fillies by six lengths.

Jockey Westrope brought her from behind to conquer Miss Bunting and Knight's Gal at the head of the stretch. She went on to win by six lengths from Knight's Gal. Miss Bunting, badly beaten, wound up third.

The time for the seven furlongs over the heavy holding track was 1:28 2-5.

Esseff, as a result of her victory a few days ago, ruled the favorite at 6 to 5.

A change in plans brought Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Equipoise to Arlington Park yesterday from New York. He came to run in the $10,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap Tuesday. Equipoise was to have remained on Long Island to run in the Brooklyn handicap, also to be offered Tuesday, but Owner Whitney and Trainer Thomas J. Healey decided to include him in their regular shipment.

The 5 year old son of Pennant and Swinging unloaded in splendid condition after his long journey. He is in readiness for his engagement as he demonstrated Wednesday when he worked a mile and one-eighth at Belmont Park in 1:52 3-5, nicely in hand all the way.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Whitney will arrive from New York this morning to see their Singing Wood run in the Hyde Park stakes. From Washington will come Admiral Cary T. Grayson, one of the honorary stewards at Arlington Park, to watch the 2 year olds fight it out.

The extremely difficult track conditions at Arlington yesterday caused two substitute races to be added to the program. Rusty, a 5 year old son of Wise Counsellor, won the first of the substitute events in runaway fashion from Timorous and Cog-Air. The second substitute race came seventh on the program and it was won by the long shot Scandal Sheet with Abraham Bartelstein's Kibitizer second and Seth's Ballot third.

MONROE TAKES FIRST PRIZE IN DOCH, DORIS GOLF

The Doch and Doris day of the Gasoline Alley section at Olympia Fields was held yesterday, Roy Monroe walking off with the big prize, the Jerry Glynn special for the best dressed golfer. F. J. McCullough appeared in the next loudest clothes, winning the Chuck Tannis special.

C. H. Dunnigan took low gross with 82, and H. E. Dunning second, 87. L. H. Lamont won low net, 93—26—67, with J. Clay Lee, 91—20—71, second. J. C. Conley turned in a score of 111 and won high score award.

The Poker-Blake special was captured by Joe Pierie with 73—666, which may mean almost anything. Low net for guests went to L. Sims with 96—20—76.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, June 30.—American ranks were thinned out somewhat today as the Wimbledon tennis championships approached the finals.

Cliff Sutter, third ranking United States player, fell before the attack of George Hughes, ranked fourth among English players, who scored a surprising victory in straight sets, 9-7, 7-5, 6-3.

Mrs. Moody Wins, 6-3, 6-0.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody passed another hurdle in defense of her women's singles title, when she eliminated the French player, Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, 6-3, 6-0. Mme. Henrotin appeared to advantage with her drop shots and volleying, but her service weakness decided the issue.

Lester Stoefen, an American mainstay and Davis cup team aspirant, had a close call in five bitterly waged sets with H. G. N. Lee, third ranking British player, but won 5-7, 2-6, 7-5, 7-5, 6-3.

Burwell and Jones Win.

Clayton Lee Burwell and David Jones, Americans attending Oxford and Cambridge respectively, were victors in a men's doubles match against Daniel Prenn of Germany, and Pierre Grandguillot, Egypt, 8-6, 5-7, 9-7, 7-5. In another doubles contest two other Americans, W. L. Breese and W. K. Ryan, were defeated by Gottfried von Cramm and E. Nourney of German, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian, teamed with Mme. Rene Mathieu of France for a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Mrs. Holcroft Watson and Miss E. H. Harvey of England.

MOLE TUNNELS UNDER SLEEPING SCOUTS IN CAMP

Fox River Trip Brings Boys Close to Nature.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fox River, Ill., June 30.—The small animal life of the Fox river valley has combined with the weather to give THE TRIBUNE canoe cruisers a few thrills as well as a number of typical camping experiences on this last lap of the paddling trip down the Fox river. What with a series of heavy thunderstorms which deluged the Boy Scouts' camp before they left Millington and the antics of a burrowing mole and a friendly mouse, the boys are finding plenty of experiences to record in their note books.

Victor Hough and Ralph Tutein checked in with the most interesting natural history note this morning when they told how a mole excavated his underground runway beneath their blankets. Hough had scooped out what these Scouts called a hip hole, a shallow little spot in soil in which the camper rests his thigh while sleeping on the ground during the night, the mole worked like a trooper around Hough's sleeping spot and all but destroyed his carefully prepared hip hole.

Causes Miniature Temblor.

The tunnel of little mole finally was extended so that it reached beneath the shoulders of the sleeping boys and throughout the night the burrowing animal staged a series of minor temblors under the Scouts as it dug through the soft earth.

Harold Coterell, who is working on his bird study merit badge, blossomed out as a small animal collector this morning when he reported that a field mouse had crawled into his duffel bag and spent the night under the pup tent. The mouse bolted from the bag when the latter was picked up, considered the proposition for a second, and then ran into the bag probably with the idea of joining the expedition and traveling with the Scouts on the last few days of the trip.

A Traveling Laundry.

The Scouts headed into the beautiful sandstone cliff country of the lower Fox river this afternoon with their bright yellow canoes looking like floating laundries. The heavy storm of yesterday soaked blankets, pajamas, mosquito nets, and other camping equipment, so the boys rigged up drying lines on their canoes to get all their wet belongings in the sun. Cyril Grin and Jim Rosenberg set the style when they decorated their canoe with nearly everything from a soaked mosquito netting to socks which dried out as the expedition paddled down the river in the sunshine.

The Scouts now are in a section of the Fox river valley, which is rich in Indian history and legends of big caves which are supposed to have housed renegades of the early days. Late this afternoon they looked at an old portage trail which crossed the river to a trading post where both Indians and whites gathered during the pioneer days in this state.

Explore Outlaws' Cave.

The entire party stopped to explore a deep cavern in the high sandstone cliff at the edge of the river, using candles and flashlights to light their way. The Scouts went deep into the darkness of the cave. They were told that it was used as a hiding place by outlaws many years ago. The canoeing expedition now is encamped on deep water backed up by the Dayton dam several miles below Wedron. The deep water drew lusty cheers from the expert swimmers and divers in the party, who have been asking for lots of river for their sports. Tomorrow this crowd of sun tanned Chicago boys will churn up the deep water in a series of swimming and canoe races, take a nature study, and woodcraft hike on the high rocky bluffs along the river, and play a game of ball during the time not spent around the commissary tent.

Southtown Club Seeks McLarnin-Petrolle Match

The Southtown Sportsmen's Athletic club, which will present a show at Shrewbridge field Thursday, is attempting to arrange a nontitle bout between Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight champion, and Billy Petrolle at Comiskey Park on Sept. 2. McLarnin has been offered the first $20,000 taken in and all over that amount and expenses Petrolle has agreed to split with the promoter.

Jackie Purvis, Indianapolis, Ind., welterweight, and Johnny Phagan may box 10 rounds instead of eight, as in their two previous matches, at Northwest Stadium Wednesday. Contracts were signed yesterday with the number of rounds open until William Bostelmann, manager of Phagan returns to town.

Harry Dublinsky, west side boxer, is in New Orleans, La., to face Batling Shaw there Monday. . . . Joe Foley, Chicago Stadium Operating company promotion manager, returned from New York yesterday. . . . Jackie Brady, who meets Puggy Weinert in one of three 10 round bouts at Mills Stadium Thursday, was forced to extend himself yesterday by Young Walker at Trafton's gymnasium. . . . Charley Retzlaff, Leonard, N. D., heavyweight, has established training quarters at Kid Howard's gymnasium for his bout against Ed Prante of Philadelphia at Shrewbridge field Thursday. . . . Barney Ross, world's lightweight and junior welterweight champion, will leave today for a rest at Loretta, Wis.

Twelve bouts between boxers in the lightweight and welterweights classes are scheduled tonight at A Century of Progress. The program is a continuation of the first round bouts in the amateur tournament held last Saturday.

the seventh. Boyle walked and moved to second on Frederick's sacrifice. Stripp dumped his fourth straight hit in left and Hendrick got the erroneous notion that he could make a shoestring catch. The ball went past Gink for a double, scoring Boyle. Jurges made a great stop of Wilson's drive, and though it went for a single, Stripp did not progress beyond third. Leslie forced Wilson, Stripp scoring, and Cuccinello singled to right, putting Leslie on third. Lopez singled to left, scoring Leslie, Cuccinello stopping at second. Flowers then forced Lopez.

Hendrick walked to start the eighth but was forced by Bill Herman. Judge drew an error when he left the bag to prevent the completion of a double play. Babe Herman fanned, and Demaree forced Bill Herman. The Cubs went out on three blasts to center in the ninth.

Detroit, Mich., June 30.—(AP)—In a game replete with sensational fielding, particularly by Schulte, Goslin, Rogell, White and Stone, the Washington Senators evened the series with the Detroit Tigers today by winning, 2 to 1. The victory gave the Senators' undisputed possession of first place.

Both Crowder and Bridges pitched good ball, the former yielding six hits in eight innings. Bridges gave only seven in nine, and Russell, who pitched the last inning for Washington, held the Tigers hitless.

Washington scored what proved to be the winning run in the seventh. Crowder walked and was forced by Myer. A single by Manush put Myer on third, and he scored on Goslin's long fly. Score:

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: A vacant lot at Laflin and Jackson streets once was the baseball playground for nearly all the then west side. Catcher caught without a mask or protector, often without a mitt, playing far back of the home plate until a batter got to base. A third strike or foul caught on the first bounce was out. Bug Baldwin from the old Brown school was among the best catchers. He lived at Warren and Paulina.

Back in the bicycle days of the '90s the Columbia Riding school was in the old Armory where the Illinois theater now stands. Empty glass cases that had held soldiers' uniforms still were in the building. Once while going at full speed I failed to steer a turn properly and landed among the glass cases with a terrific crash. It taught me caution, but did not diminish my interest in the "safety" bicycle.

In earlier days about our only winter sports amusement for participants was ice skating. There were numerous ponds in the parks, and commercial rinks at Congress and Wabash, and at Ada and Randolph.

That dwells upon this earth
Is made to order and to bring

Why didn't Noah on his ark,
Give all the elephants right to park

Belated Prize List.

From Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where Friend Arch sent us for our winter vacation, comes a belated list of prizes offered by the Anglers' guild there. Among the list we note four Chicagoans:

Albert Snife, largest marlin, 104 lbs. 12 oz.
J. H. Rork, largest tuna, 15 lbs. 12 oz.
Dr. George W. Hall, 3d size sailfish, 63 lbs.

June Beebe Wins Golf Title; Beats Jane Weiller, 3 and 2

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

June Beebe of the home club won the fourth open tournament of the Women's Western Golf association over the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields yesterday by defeating Jane Weiller of Northmoor, 3 and 2, in the 36 hole final match.

Miss Beebe's career in the four years of the open has been played in a two-one tempo. The young Olympia Fields star has been a finalist in each of the four tournaments, being runner-up and champion in alternate years.

Miss Beebe lost the first final to Mrs. Lee Mida four years ago, but came back in 1931 to win the title from Mrs. Melvin Jones. Last year she lost to Miss Weiller in the championship match at Milwaukee.

Miss Mildred Hackl of the University of Chicago won the championship consolation final by defeating Mrs. David W. Norton of Glen View, 1 up, in 20 holes. Janet Willard of Exmoor took the first flight by defeating Diane Marks of Calumet, 3 and 2, while Mrs. F. P. Hammond, Olympia Fields club champion, scored a 2 to 1 victory over Mrs. W. W. Haerther of Exmoor in the second flight final.

Mrs. Karl Meyer brought Exmoor another title by taking the third flight from Mrs. T. G. Lowry of Sunset Valley, 1 up, in 19 holes. Mrs. Paul Walker of Chicago Golf was the fourth flight victor, defeating Mrs. C. L. Nourse of South Shore, 2 and 1.

*Picked up.

Miss Beebe went 1 up on the first hole of the morning round, where she ran down an eight footer for her par 5, while Miss Weiller took two putts from 6 feet. Both had taken four to reach the green, each encountering a trap en route. The Olympia Fields star holed a 25 footer for a half at the second.

June Wins Three in Row.

They halved the third and fourth, and June then took three successive holes. She hooked her drive into the trees at the fifth, while Miss Weiller's drive struck a spectator. Her second was on the top of a hill, and her third was 4 feet over the pin. She took two putts for 5. Miss Weiller's third was over the green, but she pitched back to five feet and needed two putts for a 6. Miss Beebe won the sixth when the champion drove the creek and, after missing the ball on an attempted recovery, conceded the hole. June was four up after the 7th, where Jane sliced her drive and was partially stymied on the green. They halved the 8th and 9th, leaving Miss Beebe 4 up at the turn.

They divided the 10th, but Miss Weiller won the next two to be only two down. Miss Beebe three putted the 11th, while Jane was taking her par four, and the Northmoor girl won the 12th with a birdie when she dropped her third shot two feet from the pin.

They halved the 13th and 14th in par, and Miss Beebe went 3 up at the 15th, despite a 7 on the hole. Both were in all manner of trouble, and Miss Weiller finally conceded when her seventh shot, out of a trap, sailed over the fairway to the woods.

The champion birdied the 16th with a 6 foot putt, but took a seven on the 17th to be 3 down again. Both took sixes on the home green.

They halved the first hole of the afternoon round in sixes also, Miss Weiller finding the rough twice while Miss Beebe's second was trapped and she was half stymied on the green. She was only 2 up after the second, where she was trapped and stymied again, taking a six.

The Olympia Fields girl went 3 up again at the third, where Miss Weiller found the water and took a penalty. June was only 2 up after the fourth, where she was among the trees, and conceded the hole. She regained her advantage at the 5th, where Jane was in the woods and a trap.

Miss Weiller was only 2 down after the sixth, which she birdied by driving four feet from the pin. Miss Beebe went 3 up again at the seventh, where Miss Weiller took a six. June was 4 up after the eighth, where Jane was trapped. They halved the ninth in fives.

Jane rallied at the tenth, sinking a 10 footer for a birdie four to be 3 down. She was on the eleventh in two and down in two, while June was taking a five. Miss Weiller lost the 12th by missing a short putt, and Miss Beebe was again 3 up. June then missed a putt to lose the 13th, but regained it at the 14th, where Miss Weiller drove the woods and hit a tree with her second. They halved the 15th in 6's and the 16th in 3's to end the match.

Cunningham, Metcalfe Win Pair of Titles

One other individual championship was shared. Matthew Gordy, whose vault over the bar at 14 feet clinched the National collegiate team title for Louisiana State two weeks ago, repeated last night at the same height, but Keith Brown, former Yale star, competing for the New York A. C., equalled the jump.

Owens Takes Broad Jump.

PHILS WERE KIND TO JIMMY WILSON; THEY LET HIM GO

(This is the 16th of a series of sketches on players who will take part in the game of the Century between American and National league all-stars at Comiskey park, July 6.)

Jimmy Wilson, the Cardinals' first string catcher, has been around so long he should be showing signs of wear and tear. But it isn't very noticeable, at least not sufficiently so to make any of his admirers concede he is not just about the best target in the league. The constituents of Earl Grace of the Pirates might dispute this, but they'd have trouble furnishing satisfactory proof of their claim.

Wilson is Philadelphia born and made his major league debut with the Phillies, but had to go away from home to get attention from a club almost at his back door. He drifted up to New Haven in 1920 for a shot at baseball as played in the Eastern league, but it wasn't until the next season that the Phillies really began to appreciate him. New Haven used him regularly and continued to do the same in 1922. That wound up his minor league career for the time being.

Before 1923 baseball affairs got under way the Phillies took him over at a modest consideration. He wasn't with the Phils long before other clubs cast covetous eyes. But the Philly owners resisted temptation for so long that it began to look as if Wilson never would be able to use his ability where it would mean something.

In May of 1928 the lad finally was given a break. The Cardinals took him for Catcher Virgil Davis and Outfielder Homer Peel, and supposedly property rights to Chuck Klein, still in the minors, were included. Wilson arrived with the Cardinals just in time to help skim the cream. He was in the world series of 1928, 1930, and 1931.

Change Polo Series Opening Date to Aug. 13

BY BRUCE DENNIS.

Dates for the East-West polo series, which will bring together America's greatest players in three matches at the Onwentsia Country club, Lake Forest, were changed yesterday to Aug. 13, 16, and 20. The first game had been set for Aug. 9, but Louis E. Stoddard, chairman of the United States Polo association, and Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, executive committee member, decided in a conference at the Sherman hotel to get things started on a Sunday.

Mr. Stoddard came here from New York to discuss details of the series with Maj. McLaughlin. A former 10 goal player and internationalist, Mr. Stoddard is enthusiastic over the coming battles. And he's most enthusiastic of all about Tommy Hitchcock, who has rated a 10 goal handicap since 1922 and who will pick the eastern team and play on it.

Chicago Due for Thrill.

"Chicago will not have seen great polo until it sees Hitchcock," Mr. Stoddard said. "He's only 33 years old and at the peak of his game, although he has been playing since he was 10. He hits hard and accurately from either side of his mount, and is one of the hardest riders in the game. I have seen or played with all the stars of the last 40 years and I believe Hitchcock is the greatest of them all."

For those interested in the slugging tendencies among polo players, Mr. Stoddard pointed out that Hitchcock can drive the white wood polo ball more than 400 feet, nearly half the length of the standard 900 foot field. Earl A. S. Hoppings, a member of the United States team which opposed England in the last international matches in 1930, also hits a long ball. He probably will be in the East's lineup on Aug. 13.

Accurate, That's Pedley.

The East may have the edge in hitting for distance, but Eric Pedley, Pacific coast star, who will be in the Western lineup is the most accurate shot in polo today, Mr. Stoddard said. And Cecil Smith, 9 goal player from San Antonio, Tex., will be willing to try hitting for distance with either Hitchcock or Hopping.

The western players are expected to arrive in Chicago by Tuesday. They will play one or two practice games with Fort Sheridan's 22 goal squad.

The eastern team will work out at Meadowbrook and then will ship its horses to Chicago just in time for the opening game.

Golf School to Close Soon! Selecting Stars

THE TRIBUNE Golf school neared the end of its term last night when a majority of the 27 member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, sponsor of the plan, completed the selection of their entrants in the final competitions. The first of the finals, to be based on form, will be held at Mid-City, Grace street and Western avenue, at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, and the second, and eighteen hole medal play tournament, will be decided at Northbrook, Dundee and Sanders roads near Wheeling, at 2 p. m. next Saturday.

Most of the courses have named their four finalists for the competitions at Mid-City and Northbrook, and the remainder will complete the task tonight, tomorrow or Monday. Jack Daray of White Pines will name his winners in the women's girls' and boys' classes tonight, Harry Adams of Hickory Hills will make his choices tomorrow, and Evergreen, Harlem and Mid-City will complete theirs Monday night.

Pick Indian Head Winners.

Harry Kinnell of Edgewood Valley aided Tom Geary of Indian Head in naming his four finalists last night. They are Mrs. Paul C. Metz of La Grange, Miss Helen Carlson of Hinsdale, Roy Klein of Berwyn, and Bob Kuncl of Cicero. Ed Newkirk chose Tom Walsh's three winners at Westgate Valley. They included Mrs. Ellen Holm, Hazel Schultz, and Frank Lambesis. Clarence Hall, 235 Douglas avenue, Elgin, was named the men's finalist at White Pines.

Con McGinnis of Golfmoor selected as his winners in the boys' and girls' divisions Margaret Parliman, a Parker High school student of 3724 West 63d place, and Arthur C. Bodeau Jr., of 8010 Kenwood avenue, a student at Tilden Technical High school. Scotty Irwin chose Katherine Jones, Dorothy Sturm, and George Kertes at Mid-City, which will name its men's champion Monday night. Mid-City will continue the free lessons for women indefinitely on Friday nights.

Two Named at Big Oaks.

Big Oaks carried such a large enrollment during the school that it has been forced to narrow down candidates in the men's and women's classes and will make its final selections in these divisions Monday night. Leo Strzemieczny and Jeanette Hansen were chosen in the boys' and girls' classes last night.

Roger Kiley, 15 years old, 953 West 78th street, a student at Leo High school, was chosen boys' finalist at Evergreen. The club will name its champions in the girls' and women's divisions Monday night. G. O. Daggy, 6139 South Artesian avenue, a pupil at Evergreen, recently shot a 70, one under par.

Jac Chamberlain, 406 North Taylor avenue, was named the boys' representative at Chicago Meadows by Les MacArthur. Abe Espinosa chose John Kensek, 14 years old, of Argo, at Cog-Hill. Russell Brucker was named by Dave Tosh at Techny Fields. Tosh and Jock Anderson, Techny Fields professional, will play a match with two prominent women players, as yet unnamed, tomorrow afternoon. George Jenkins and Matt Anderson named Steve Zimmer of Evanston the boys' winner at Northbrook.

Pipe o' Peace Names Four.

Pipe o' Peace named the winners in all four classes last night. They were Harry G. Anderson of Steger, Mrs. Esther Johnson, 6752 East End avenue; Carolyn Rehr of Kankakee, and Victor Arvia of Olympia Fields. The classes, taught by Bill Pachot, Paul Hutchins and Elmer Nielsen, have increased from 500 to 700 during the six weeks of the school. Miss Sally Brademus, one of the pupils, cut 15 strokes off her score after the second lesson.

CARNERA HAZY ON PLANS; HAPPY IN CHAMPION'S ROLE

body gave me the run around. Yup. The run around. Sharkey told me to go get a reputation, Schmeling ran out on me three times. I didn't fight Baer.

Not Likely to Fight Soon.

"I t'ink that Sharkey should make a fight wit' Baer. Find out which is the best one so to fight me. Eh? You see?"

Unless his corps of managers experiences a change of heart, Carnera will not box Max Baer in Chicago next September. The Italian will take a fling at vaudeville, perhaps box Ray Impellitiere, another giant, and otherwise capitalize on the heavyweight championship he won by knocking out Sharkey in the sixth round.

The fight last night drew less than any heavyweight title match in history of boxing here with only two exceptions, the Jess Willard-Frank Moran and the Jack Dempsey-Bill Brennan bouts, both held indoors in the old Madison Square Garden.

Returns today showed 35,000 customers paid at total of $198,189.60, with net receipts, less taxes, amounting to $163,798.61. The Willard-Moran fight drew $151,000 and the Brennan-Dempsey match $134,904.

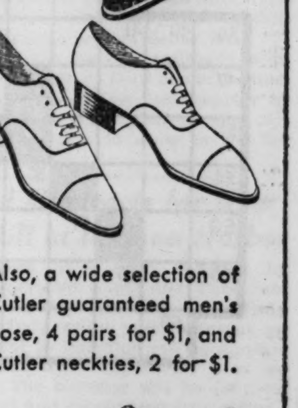

Sharkey's share, 42½ per cent of the net receipts, was $69,605 with Carnera receiving $16,379, or 10 per cent. Profit to Madison Square Garden was estimated at $25,000, less expenses, with the milk fund receiving 25 per cent of the final net profits.

KID IRISH AND JACKIE SHARKEY BATTLE TO DRAW

Kid Irish, Benld, Ill., featherweight, drew with Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis, in the 10 round feature bout at Sparta stadium, 21st and Kostner avenue, last night. In the semi-windup Paul Dazzo beat Bert Visiconi in six rounds.

Other results:

Sammy Adams beat Walter Statkus [4].
Walter Jerz beat Harry Williams [4].
Carlos Herrera beat Fred Miller [4].

CANADIAN COURT RULES AGAINST MARTIN INSULL

Refuses Plea to Gather Evidence in Chicago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., June 30.—Martin J. Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, today lost the first round in his fight to escape extradition. Justice A. C. Kingstone refused an application on Insull's behalf for a commission to go to Chicago and gather evidence for the defense.

The former utilities magnate is sought by Cook county authorities to stand trial on charges of larceny and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of Mid-West Utilities, Inc.

Year Spent in Canada.

Martin Insull is a brother of Samuel Insull, who also is under indictment and is now a refugee in Athens, Greece. Martin Insull has been living at Orillia, Ont., since last summer.

The court's ruling means that Cook county's application for extradition will be tried on the material filed in the Canadian court.

"It is conceded that I can hear any evidence offered by either the prosecution or the defense under the powers given me under the extradition act. I am willing to hear any evidence given by either party. Deportation to another country for trial is in itself a severe penalty and the magistrate should allow everything to appear on the depositions which the prisoner's lawyers might believe would be useful to him in an appeal to a higher court, but extradition is purely a matter provided by the treaty and under the statutes there is no inherent power in any court to deal with extradition matters in so far as they are authorized by the statutes validating a treaty with another country.

Judge Lacks Authority.

"I do not think that there is any power conferred on me sitting as an extradition judge to issue a foreign commission to take evidence outside of Canada.

"It has been vigorously argued that it would be a great hardship and injustice to the accused not to be permitted to give evidence to explain matters that are susceptible of explanation and thereby avoid the necessity of having the prisoner extradited and tried.

"That may be so, but I feel that I am bound by the language of the statute and I am not at liberty to read into it any words that are not therein contained. I can only repeat what has been said on many occasions by eminent judges in the past, namely, that hard cases make bad law.

"I am in no sense trying this fugitive. I am merely deciding whether there is a prima facie case against him on the material filed. This statute is the result of a treaty between two friendly powers and I should not in any sense attribute to the prosecution bad faith on this application as has been suggested on the hearing in these proceedings. For these reasons I am dismissing this application."

DELAY HEARINGS HERE.

POPE PERFORMS ACT OF PIETY AS PILGRIMS CHEER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 30.—Pope Pius XI. today performed the same act of piety as the humblest Holy Year pilgrim by emerging from the Vatican and attending a brilliant high mass at the basilica of St. Paul-Outside-the-Walls. It was the fifth time the pontiff has gone beyond the walls of Vatican City since the Lateran treaty was signed.

Thousands of pilgrims, observing the feast day of the conversion of St. Paul, renewed their homage to the pope. The pilgrims burst into enthusiastic cheers as the black caravan of papal automobiles bearing Pius and his suite crossed the city of Rome to an entrance in the adjoining monastery of the basilica.

Shout "Viva il Papa."

"Viva il papa," the multitude roared as he approached St. Paul's. The crowd was held in check by carabiniere and Italian troops, who formed in a square outside the church to render the pontiff military honors.

As the holy father entered the basilica at the main entrance, six silver trumpets pealed a hymn of triumph. The pope, wearing his triple crown, was borne aloft on a portable throne by attendants clad in brilliant crimson.

The mass was celebrated by Msgr. Anastasius, patriarch of Istanbul.

Another storm of cheers burst forth as the pontiff was borne from the cathedral on his throne, escorted by papal gendarmes. The pope waved the crowd a final blessing from his automobile on his way back to the Vatican.

Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany, Archbishop MacNichols of Cincinnati and Bishops Vehr of Denver and Walsh of Maryknoll, N. Y., were among the hundreds of especially invited persons at the mass.

To Leave Vatican City Aug. 15.

Pope Pius will again leave Vatican City on Aug. 15, when he will visit the basilica of Santa Maria Maggiore. The occasion will be the feast of the Assumption. The pontiff will bless the crowds as he did at St. Paul's today and on his visits to St. John Lateran in May and to St. Peter's on Easter Sunday.

His visits to St. Paul's and Santa Maria Maggiore are regarded as acts of personal piety. These two churches, together with St. John Lateran and St. Peter's, are the four major basilicas of Rome and each pilgrim must pay three visits to two of them to be granted the Holy Year indulgence.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

GIANT MACHINE TRADE GROUP IS ORGANIZED

Members' Investment 3½ Billions.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Formation of a "supertrade association" for the machine manufacturing industry, headed by John W. O'Leary of Chicago, was announced last night.

JOHN W. O'LEARY.

The new organization will be known as the Machine and Allied Products institute and will take up the task of coördinating the activities of the various trade groups now existing in the industry. The institute will rank among the first five of the country's trade associations in size, and will immediately tackle the problems arising in the industry under the industrial recovery program.

The membership in the institute will include practically all the prominent manufacturers of machinery in the country. The capital investment of the member firms is about 3½ billion dollars, with annual sales approaching the same figure.

Member of Committee.

George H. Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, headed the organization committee. Other members were George Doubleday of Ingersoll-Rand company; Max Babb, Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, P. C. Brooks, Fairbanks-Morse company; Paul DeWold, Brown & Sharpe company; W. S. Elliott, Elliott company; N. W. Pickering, Farrel-Birmingham company; P. E. Bliss, Warner-Swasey company; Jacob Cox, Cleveland Twist company; Fred Geier, Cincinnati Milling Machine company, and Philip Morgan, Morgan Construction company.

Headquarters of the institute will be established in Chicago.

Mr. O'Leary said that the new organization will not replace any of the existing trade association. It will be a coördinating agency to which the specialized association may look for guidance in policies affecting the machinery industry as a whole.

O'Leary Analyzes Situation.

"Under the new laws so directly affecting industry, business must organize on a larger scale than ever before," he said. "It rests with the industry as a whole to make for its employés and all others whose interests are bound up with it, the most of the possibilities which the national recovery act affords."

Mr. O'Leary is a former banker. He is director of several industrial companies and a former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and the Chicago Association of Commerce. His directorships include the Chicago Railways company, the Chicago and Great Western railway, the Advance-Rumely company, and the Belden Manufacturing company.

PACIFIC LUMBER MILLS EXPAND; ADD 3,000 MEN

Seattle, Wash., June 30.—(AP)—Reflecting an added employment of at least 3,000 men during the week ended June 24, mills reporting to the West Coast Lumberman's association increased production almost 12 per cent, or 11,000,000 feet over the previous week, the organization said today.

"Since June 1," the association said, "it is estimated that at least 65 per cent of the companies operating in the area have increased wages."

Lumber Men Deny Wallace Hint of Waste

Indignant protests were voiced yesterday at the meeting of 1,000 lumbermen at the Congress hotel when a telegram was read from Secretary of Agriculture Wallace warning that the industry's code must contain some definite provision to prevent the "destructive exploitation" of the nation's timber resources.

DR. WILSON COMPTON.

"The President asks me to tell you," Secretary Wallace said in part, "that he trusts any code relating to the cutting of timber will contain some definite provision for the control of destructive exploitation."

Wallace's statement brought to the floor D. W. Blodgett, president of the American Forest Products institute, affiliate of the manufacturers' association.

Blame Excessive Taxation.

"If there has been any 'destructive exploitation' it has been due to the unwise taxing system," he declared.

Other protests were added. It was asserted that the taxing system on timber properties has forced the speedy production of timber as the only means of escaping ruinous taxation.

In discussing the drafting of a code, Dr. Compton told the lumbermen that difficulties would arise in attempting to coördinate the industry.

"The law," he said, "is defective and in part is vexatious and objectionable. But its possibilities of good, in my opinion, far outweigh its probabilities of evil. If wisely used it may be made to establish a Magna Charta for the forest products industries of America."

Sees Economic Struggle.

Dr. Compton declared that a gigantic struggle is going on in America between socialism and regulated individualism. If regulated individualism fails, he warned, the obvious alternative is some form of socialism.

The tentative code under consideration yesterday contemplates the division of the industry into 14 regional groups to be under the general control of the forest products industries recovery board of 24 representative members.

The work of putting the final code into workable form will be left to a special code drafting committee, which will continue in session here after the adjournment of the general meeting. The committee will report to the board of directors of the manufacturers' association, which shall in turn present the code to Washington.

Coal Men Meet Today.

Representatives of the nation's coal operators are scheduled to meet here this morning with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, to discuss wage provisions of the coal industry's code. Mr. Lewis registered at the Blackstone hotel yesterday.

Formation of a new trade association for the mayonnaise industry was decided on yesterday at a meeting at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club which was attended by representatives of companies accounting for 85 per cent of the industry's output.

Preliminary discussions on codes were held yesterday by the dredge owners and marine contractors of the great lakes region and by the Chicago Jewelers' association. No action was taken by either group.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—The American dollar executed a turnabout in the foreign exchange market today and gained moderately against the principal European currencies.

The trading was the quietest witnessed in the last week. Spot news on the negotiations of the "gold bloc" nations who are urging the stabilization of the dollar was lacking. The pound rose a fraction of a cent above its previous closing price closing at 4.27¾, against 4.28½ yesterday.

The movements throughout the day were irregular and the range narrower. In the early trading the dollar was lower but recovered its lost ground.

GRAINS RECOVER ON HOT SPELL, DEARTH OF RAIN

Wheat Tops $1; Corn and Oats Rise.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Reports of hot weather and insufficient rains in the spring wheat area and a belief that the estimates on the grain crops to be issued by Chicago statisticians on Monday will indicate low yields caused a sharp upturn in grain prices yesterday.

Corn and oats led the advance, although the northwestern wheat markets showed pronounced strength. An accumulation of overnight selling orders, scattered rains in the American and Canadian northwest and soaking rains in parts of the corn belt started the markets lower, but at no time thereafter was there material pressure on coarse grains.

Houses with eastern connections sold wheat freely a good part of the day, but there was an excellent class of buying and the finish was ⅞ to ¾ cent higher here, while Minneapolis was up 1 to 1⅞ cents and Duluth 1⅝ to 2⅜ cents.

May Wheat Tops Dollar.

December wheat in Chicago advanced 4 cents from the early low and touched 97 cents on the bulge, while May rose to $1.01¼. July finished at 90½ to 90¾ cents, September, 93½ to 93⅝ cents; December, 96 to 96⅛ cents, and May at $1.00½ to $1.00⅝.

Corn dropped as much as 2 cents at the opening but rallied 2¼ to 3⅝ cents and closed 1⅝ to 1¾ cents higher. Houses with eastern connections were aggressive buyers. July was 52 to 52¼ cents at the last, with September, 57 to 57⅛ cents and December, 61 to 61⅛ cents.

Oats gained 1⅞ to 2¼ cents for the day with the trade expecting the forthcoming reports to show the smallest yield in 30 years and materially below normal domestic requirements. July was 43⅝ cents at the close, while September was 45 to 45¼ cents, and December, 47 to 47⅛ cents.

Profit taking checked upturns in rye with prices unchanged to ¼ cent higher at the last. Barley was ¾ to 1½ cents higher.

Canadian Wheat Damaged.

Heavy damage has been sustained by the Canadian wheat crop as the result of recent heat and drought. A report by the Searle Grain company, Winnipeg, made condition in Alberta 80 against 102 last year, while in Saskatchewan it is 71 against 88 a year ago. Manitoba condition is 83, or the same as in 1932. Last year the three provinces harvested 428,000,000 bushels of wheat, and the acreage reduction has been officially estimated around 5 per cent.

Spring wheat and small grains have deteriorated rapidly in the American northwest, according to the weekly summary of the Cargill Commission company, Minneapolis. Recent rains and cooler weather in some areas, however, have improved the situation materially.

Heavy potential crop losses from chinch bugs and grasshoppers in the United States and from the latter pest in Canada is regarded likely. Around 25,000,000 acres in Saskatchewan alone is infested with hoppers, according to S. H. Vigor, provincial field crop commissioner.

FILE BIG CLAIM ON "L" LINES IN REORGANIZATION

Halsey, Stuart & Co., La Salle street brokerage house, filed a claim of $18,000,000 yesterday with the receivers of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, operators of the elevated lines. The claim was filed by the Brokerage house as the reorganization manager and depositary for the bonds of the company.

This was said to be an important step toward the ultimate reorganization and unification of the entire city traction system. The surface lines have been in the present receivership since 1926, and the elevated lines have been in receivership for nearly two years.

Indiana Limestone to Ship Stone for Capitol Building

The Indiana Limestone company announced yesterday that the first shipment of the 900 carloads of stone to be used in the new Archives building in Washington, D. C., will be made early this month.

U. S. Three Years' Deficits More Than Double Total 7 Preceding Years' Surpluses

Trade Advance Best in Decade, Says Review

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., in their weekly trade review today find nothing but improvement in all branches of industry. From beer bottle to steel companies, which three months ago could not move merchandise at any price, business now is finding an actual shortage. In some lines orders are in excess of current production capacities.

"The momentum with which general business has rebounded from its all time low levels of three months ago doubtless is without parallel in the history of the country," the review said. "At no time in the past decade has an upward swing been so sharp or a forward movement so wide in the scope it has attained in such a brief space of time. Definite evidences of gain now are the rule instead of the exception."

Employment on Increase.

Employment is gaining at a greater pace than at any time in the last three years, the review declared, with earnings going immediately into circulation. Moreover, wage increases are being reported for additional companies every week and in a long list of various industries.

The lone sour note found by Dun & Bradstreet was that rising employment and swelling pay rolls have somewhat obscured the slow recovery of general consumer buying power, "on which any permanent recovery must depend for its strongest support."

Indices of industrial activity, the review continued, reveal that expansion of trade in some instances has been carried beyond the records of 1932 and 1931 and now is approaching the 1930 levels. Continuing its steady rise of the last thirteen weeks, the Dun & Bradstreet business activity barometer now has reached 65.6 of the 1928-1930 average. The index has gained almost 50 per cent since the low point of March 22.

Seasonal slack in retail demand has not appeared and general reports expect none during July. Buying, exceeding all earlier expectations, is running far ahead of that for the like 1932 period.

U. S. WINS CLAIM ON TAXES FROM DODGE ESTATES

Cincinnati, O., June 30.—(AP)—Deficiency income tax assessments of more than $7,700,000 against the trustees of the estates of the late Horace E. and John F. Dodge, Detroit automobile manufacturers, were affirmed by the United States Court of Appeals today.

The assessments were made for 1925 by the commissioner of internal revenue against the Security Trust company, now Detroit Trust company, of Detroit, and Anna Dodge Dillman, trustees of the Horace E. Dodge estate, and the Detroit Trust company and Matilda R. Wilson, trustees of the John F. Dodge estate.

Assessments were based on profits alleged to have resulted from the sale of the Dodge holdings in the Dodge Brothers Motor Car company of Detroit for $146,000,000. Stockholders received a $125,000,000 dividend from the sale. The assessments against the two Dodge estates were based on the increase in value of the automobile property between the time the brothers died in 1920 and the time of the sale in 1925.

First of Federal Public Works Projects May Be Chosen Today

Washington, D. C., June 30.—The first federal projects to be undertaken under the administration's 3 billion 300 million dollar public works program may be named tomorrow.

The cabinet advisory board of the public works administration, it was learned today, is to take up a list of construction projects submitted by about 60 governmental agencies. Those selected by the board will be submitted to President Roosevelt and his approval will start them moving, probably within two weeks.

May Finance Calumet Harbor.

The list to be considered by the board was withheld today, but it is understood to include river and harbors projects, army housing construction, reclamation and irrigation projects and various other activities of the federal government. Among the harbor development plans, it was reported, is a recommendation for financing work on Calumet harbor, Illinois.

Meanwhile, Administrator Donald Sawyer and his aids were seeking to settle several matters of policy before submitting nonfederal projects to the President for final approval.

Debate Hours and Wages.

Among the questions which are holding up the program are several involving the hours and wages of labor on the government financed construction jobs, and the necessity of preventing serious migrations of labor from one job to another. A subcommittee to investigate these labor problems was appointed yesterday.

Likewise in the hands of a subcommittee is the matter of interest rates on the money loaned to states and municipalities for construction activity. Although no decision has yet been reached, the rate being considered ranges from 3½ to 5 per cent, with indications that the states and their subdivisions will be charged the same amount for federal assistance as are private companies obtaining loans under the act.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation announced today that the Pennsylvania railroad had repaid $5,000,000 of the $27,000,000 it had borrowed from the corporation and would repay an additional $4,500,000 next Wednesday. A few railroads have repaid substantial amounts on the huge sums borrowed from the relief agency and the action was regarded by corporation officials as indicative of improving business for the carriers.

"The momentum with which general business has rebounded from its all time low levels of three months ago doubtless is without parallel in the history of the country," the review said. "At no time in the past decade has an upward swing been so sharp or a forward movement so wide in the scope it has attained in such a brief space of time. Definite evidences of gain now are the rule instead of the exception."

Employment on Increase.

Employment is gaining at a greater pace than at any time in the last three years, the review declared, with earnings going immediately into circulation. Moreover, wage increases are being reported for additional companies every week and in a long list of various industries.

The lone sour note found by Dun & Bradstreet was that rising employment and swelling pay rolls have somewhat obscured the slow recovery of general consumer buying power, "on which any permanent recovery must depend for its strongest support."

Indices of industrial activity, the review continued, reveal that expansion of trade in some instances has been carried beyond the records of 1932 and 1931 and now is approaching the 1930 levels. Continuing its steady rise of the last thirteen weeks, the Dun & Bradstreet business activity barometer now has reached 65.6 of the 1928-1930 average. The index has gained almost 50 per cent since the low point of March 22.

Seasonal slack in retail demand has not appeared and general reports expect none during July. Buying, exceeding all earlier expectations, is running far ahead of that for the like 1932 period.

DRY GOODS HEAD WARNS AGAINST KITING OF PRICES

New York, June 30.—A rapid and unwarranted increase in prices may endanger the entire recovery program in the United States, Lew Hahn, president of the National Retail Dry Goods association and a member of the economic planning committee appointed by Secretary of Commerce Roper, warned in a statement today.

He urged retailers to resist "unwarranted" price advances by manufacturers, and added, "It will be better to face, if necessary, a few more months of unsatisfactory profit results in order to build more firmly the new prosperity."

Mr. Hahn's statement was issued as "a caution to the retailers concerning the present chaotic price situation in wholesale markets," and he advised them that in many instances increased prices demanded by manufacturers, and forcing corresponding price increases to the ultimate consumer, "are anticipatory."

"Inordinate price rises before the spending capacity and the confidence of the buying public have been restored will imperil the entire recovery program," he declared.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York June 30.—Four justices of the Appellate division, with Presiding Justice Finch dissenting, voted today to reverse a decision of Supreme Court Justice McCook removing the members of the independent bondholders' committee for seventy-eight defaulted S. W. Straus & Co. properties throughout the country on which $65,000,000 of bonds were sold.

The decision reinstates the committee, the members of which are Lewis H. Pounds, George Gordon Battle, Frank J. Murphy, Simon Newman, George W. Retz, John D. Reilly, George U. Tompers, and A. L. Werner. It ousts James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany; Robert McC. Marsh, former Supreme Court justice, and George Frankenthaler, who were appointed receivers for the properties. Because of the dissenting vote the case will be taken to the Court of Appeals.

Roosevelt's Son-in-Law Joins N. Y. Brokerage Firm

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Curtis B. Dall, son-in-law of President Roosevelt, will become a partner in the stock exchange firm of Fenner, Beane & Ungerleider, the firm announced. Dissolution of Curtis B. Dall & Co., which firm consisted of Mr. Dall and John J. Edgerton, was also announced. Curtis B. Dall & Co. was formed two months ago. Mr. Dall became a member of the exchange on Feb. 27, 1930, and was a partner in Goodbody & Co. until the beginning of this year.

The total amount for which subscriptions were received was $242,687,000. The lowest bid was equivalent to an interest rate of 0.24 per cent and the highest accepted was equal to 0.31 per cent.

STOCKS MOVE UP WITH CHEERFUL NEWS OF TRADE

Rally Checks Selling; Volume Moderate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Higher prices on wheat, the outlook at London for some kind of a stabilization agreement and the generally cheerful tone of the week-end trade reviews combined to turn stock prices toward higher levels in the late trading today. Many shares of pivotal rating were boosted for gains of 1 to 2 points or more. Volume was moderate at 3,700,000 shares.

Up to around midafternoon operations on the exchange had been dull and meaningless with a growing disposition on the part of traders to take profits against whatever fortunes the two approaching recesses in trading might bring. There was not so very much pickup in activity when the tide turned definitely to the buying side, but the upward surge was enough to put a stop to speculative selling and give the pool favorites and other agile issues something of a break.

Several Issues Rise Sharply.

Such features as the session developed include Corn Products, which moved up a couple of points on predictions of an increase in its dividend this year. Growing business is said to be coming the company's way from the sale of byproducts to Commercial Solvents, which extracts ethyl alcohol from them, and from the sale of corn grits to the beer makers. Canada Dry Ginger Ale jumped nearly 4 points on increasing hot weather demand for its products.

Among the gold mining stocks, Homestake Mining, leader of the group, put on a bit of a fireworks display with a perpendicular rise of 19 points in the late trading. Alaska Juneau was up nearly 2 and McIntyre 1½.

Railroad issues were favored with 1 to 5 point advances in the leaders. Delaware and Hudson, Atchison, New York Central, Pennsylvania and New Haven were prominent.

Car Loadings Discounted.

Advance information was that the car loadings report for the week, due for publication after the close of business, would show continued improvement in revenue income for the leading roads of the country lately in such sore straits. Some of the stocks of the group went to new highs on the day's dealings, one of them being Delaware and Hudson, which set the pace with a runup of 4¾ points. Lehigh Valley rose 3⅜.

Interest in the so-called repeal stocks lately so rampant appeared to be on the wane for the time being. National Distillers, the group leader, suffered a fractional loss on the day.

Packing stocks were again active under the leadership of the Armour group, and the coal group looked ahead a bit. American Rolling Mill was a feature of some account, rising 5⅝ points.

MINNESOTA MAY SELL BONDS TO AVOID TAX RAISE

Eight million dollars in bonds of the rural credits bureau of Minnesota were executed here yesterday and turned over to W. H. Lamson of St. Paul, secretary of the Minnesota state board of investments. Harry H. Peterson, secretary of state, said he believed the bonds would be sold shortly to a Des Moines investment house.

"Mr. Lamson will retain the bonds until the transaction with the purchasers is completed," said Peterson. "The funds from the bond issue will be used to pay bonds of the rural credits bureau and other state bonds maturing soon. We believe issuance of the bonds was the wise course. It was necessary either to issue them or increase taxes to care for the maturing issues. The new bond issues mature from 1948 to 1953. In effect, they extend the time which Minnesota has to clear up the indebtedness."

Court action has been taken in St. Paul requiring the state officials to show cause why they should not be restrained from issuing the bonds.

Old Ruehle Brewery to Be Rebuilt at $150,000 Cost

The old Ruehle Brewing company's plant at the northeast corner of Arthington street and Washtenaw avenue, has been leased by the newly incorporated Roosevelt Brewing company for ten years at $9,000 annually, with an option to buy after four years for $150,000. It is being rejuvenated at a cost of $100,000, according to Edward R. Litsinger, attorney, and will have an annual capacity of approximately 100,000 barrels. It will employ 100. Frank Bartholomew is lessor.

Directors of Swift International yesterday declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $1, payable Aug. 15 to stock of record July 15.

JUNE SALES OF AUTOS IN COOK COUNTY SHOW GAIN OVER YEAR AGO

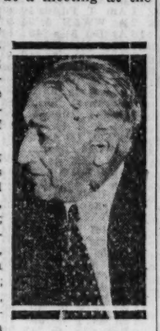

New car sales in Cook county during June were reported yesterday at 4,444, compared with 3,783 in June, 1932. On the other hand, sales in May, 1933, were 5,143, against 4,301 in the same month last year.

Leaders in volume were Chevrolet, 999 new cars, compared with 638 in June, 1932; Plymouth, 818 against 624; Ford, 517 against 970; Pontiac, 456 against 124; Dodge, 350 against 83; Buick, 287 against 135; Oldsmobile, 247 against 71; Essex, 114 against 64, and Chrysler, 92 against 121.

Representatives of the 51 western class 1 railroads at a meeting at the Union League club yesterday elected the western coördinating committee as provided for in the emergency transportation act of 1933.

H. A. SCANDRETT.

The following five executives were chosen: Carl Gray, president, Union Pacific; Samuel T. Bledsoe, president, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé; Ralph Budd, president, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; H. A. Scandrett, president, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, and Hale Holden, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific.

Election of the members of the committee was on the basis of mileage instead of on a geographical basis as had been reported would be the procedure. Election on a mileage basis prevented the selection of officials of the St. Louis roads to the committee, who were reported particularly desirous of representation on the committee.

Committee to Meet Wednesday.

The first meeting of the committee will be held in the offices of the Santa Fé road at 11 o'clock next Wednesday morning. No program has been set.

The new committee will coöperate with Joseph B. Eastman, national railroad coördinator, who will endeavor to help put the roads back on a profitable basis. Some of the measures to be undertaken will be elimination of duplication of services where possible and the ending of uneconomic practices.

It has been pointed out, however, that the transportation act provides that any changes ordered shall not be at the expense of labor. The number of employés shall not be reduced except through the ordinary course of resignation, retirement, or death. In any event, it was stated, the number of employés shall not be reduced beyond 5 per cent in a year even should the number of workers leaving the service from the above causes exceed this amount.

Claims Economy Handicapped.

"The labor provisions in the transportation bill will effectively stop us from putting possible economies into effect," one railroad executive stated recently. "It's much like a mother who in letting her son go to the old swimming hole says: 'You can hang your clothes on a hickory limb, but don't go near the water.'"

The election of the committee has no bearing on the position of Harry Guy Taylor, western railroad commissioner, it was stated by one executive yesterday. Mr. Taylor's post was established through voluntary action on the part of the western roads and his work would not interfere with that of the coördinating committee.

WESTERN UNION RESTORES 10% WAGE REDUCTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—The Western Union Telegraph company agreed today to restore, effective tomorrow, the 10 per cent deduction in wages which went into effect Aug. 1, 1932, at a meeting of employés' representatives and officers.

As a result of this action, the salaries and wages of 66,000 individuals has been restored to the status of a year ago. An agreement also was reached on the approximate refund of wages deducted from the pay roll prior to July 1, 1933, subject to completion of the June accounts.

"In taking this action," it was announced today, "the company desired to reward the fine spirit of loyalty and coöperation on the part of the employés when they agreed, on Aug. 1, 1932, to this special wage reduction."

The Aug. 1, 1932, reduction affected only those employés whose earnings exceeded $80 a month. The saving during the eleven months is estimated at between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

NEW YORK STOCK SALES SET HIGH MARK FOR JUNE

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Stock transactions on the New York Stock exchange in June established a high record for that month at 125,619,530 shares. It was also a new high level for any month during a bull market.

Transactions averaged 4,831,520 shares daily with a peak of 6,877,860 shares. The smallest daily turnover during the month was 3,314,100 shares.

RAIL LOADINGS UP 105,675 CARS OVER LAST YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—Revenue freight loadings of the country's railroads for the week ended June 24 amounted to 604,668 cars, the heaviest volume since the middle of December, 1931, save for the accelerated movement last October, it was reported today by the American Railway association. The volume showed an increase of 105,675 cars over loadings for the same week of 1932 and an increase of 16,737 cars over those for the week ended June 17.

The gain in the yearly comparison was reported to be the greatest since the close of 1928. Only the loadings in June, 1929, December, 1928, and October, 1926, approximated or surpassed the figure of 100,000. The increase for last week is the seventh consecutive one.

Gain Against Normal Trend.

Freight loadings for the like week last year, in comparison with those for the preceding week, showed not a gain, but a decline of 19,610.

Gains were reflected in the loading of all commodities as compared with the preceding week, while loadings of all commodities except merchandise in less than carload lots was higher than in the same week of 1932. The increases over last year, according to the association, were reflected in all districts.

The association's report showed that miscellaneous freight loaded during the week of June 24 was 231,966 cars, representing an increase of 2,450 over loadings of the preceding week and 41,963 over those of the like week of 1932.

Under Car Lots Improves.

Less than car lot merchandise amounted to 169,902 cars, gaining 1,372 over loadings for the week of June 17, but falling 4,465 cars below those of last year.

Grain and grain products loading for the week totaled 38,341 cars, an increase of 194 cars above the preceding week, and 10,731 cars above the corresponding week last year. In the western districts alone, grain and grain products loading totaled 26,994 cars, an increase of 8,561 cars above the same week last year. Forest products loading totaled 27,733 cars, 2,213 cars above the preceding week, and 11,124 cars above the same week in 1932.

Coal and Ore Gain.

Live stock loading amounted to 15,533 cars, an increase of 83 cars above the preceding week, and an increase of 905 cars above the same week last year. In the western districts alone, loading of live stock for the week ended on June 24 totaled 11,409 cars, an increase of 398 cars, compared with the same week last year.

Passenger Traffic Rises.

The new momentum in freight loadings has been accompanied recently by large improvements in passenger traffic, partly as a consequence of travel to A Century of Progress.

Taking courage from the upturn, some railroads have committed themselves to equipment repair plans. The Pennsylvania railroad recalled 2,000 shopmen this week, the Burlington 375, and the Rock Island 750.

Others have found that increased earnings make it unnecessary to appeal to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for funds. For example, the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad requested the interstate commerce commission this week to set aside temporarily its application for a nine million dollar loan.

Most of the leading railroads were making a profit in May or early June, but the losses of the first quarter or more must be offset before the carriers will be able to show profits for the entire year.

Award Contracts for New Tin Mill at Indiana Harbor

Contracts have been awarded by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company for a new tin mill at Indiana Harbor, Ind., which will represent an investment in building and equipment of approximately $1,000,000, it is reported. The building will be 100x300, with steel and corrugated iron siding.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Irregular price movements characterized virtually all divisions of the bond market today. Alternate buying and selling in various directions kept the trend highly uncertain.

One of the strongest groups were secondary rails, with numerous firm spots and fresh highs for the year. Good examples were Baltimore and Ohio company, Pittsburgh, Lake Erie and West Virginia 4s due in 1941, Milwaukee sinking fund 5s of 1975, series A, and adjustment 5s due in the year 2000, and Lake Erie and Western second 5s due in 1941.

First Grade Rails Rise.

Some better grade carrier issues also found new tops, including Central Pacific 5s, Chesapeake and Ohio first 4s, Great Northern general 5½s, and Pennsylvania railroad consolidated 4½s, due in 1960.

Sharp advances were noted in such customarily inactive issues as Louisville and Nashville second 5s, which spurted more than 12 points, and Mississippi Central first 5s, up 8.

Other Groups Advance.

Narrow movements were the rule in utility and industrial liens. Chile Copper 5s accumulated more than 2 points in market value. Consolidated Gas debenture 5½s and 5s improved fractionally, Shell Union 5s advanced about a point and U. S. Rubber 5s were firm.

Inconsistency marked the government list, some gaining while others declined. Treasury 3s, due 1951, were strong.

Standard Oil of Indiana.

Investors' Guide: Would you kindly give me information regarding purchase of Standard Oil of Indiana stock?—E. M. J.

Answer: Standard Oil Company of Indiana is the leading manufacturer and refiner of petroleum products in the middle west. It is completely integrated.

In anticipation of increased import taxes on petroleum, which made importation of petroleum into the United States impracticable, the company sold its foreign holdings to Standard of New Jersey in May, 1932. The consideration was $47,910,000 cash and 1,778,973 shares of stock. Standard of New Jersey's foreign distributing system is more highly developed than was the Indiana company's.

Price of crude oil stood up better in 1932 than in 1931. Standard of Indiana, however, primarily a refiner, was forced to contend with numerous factors which prevented much improvement in operations. Action of some producers in running crude oil illegally, evading gasoline taxes, and selling products below cost made competition difficult.

In addition, according to President Seubert, effects of the increasing load of taxation borne by the industry made itself felt in reduced consumption of gasoline.

Gross for 1932 amounted to $261,518,000, against $301,338,000 in 1931 and $457,107,000 in 1930. Net income was $16,558,000, or $1.04 per share, in 1932. This was after $7,562,000 inventory adjustment. Net in 1931 was $17,596,000, or $1.04 per share on a larger number of shares. Net for 1930 equaled $2.73 per share, against $4.86 per share in 1929.

Current position at the close of 1932 was strong. Current assets were $243,687,000 and current liabilities were $28,789,000. Cash alone was almost $90,000,000. Funded debt was $47,611,000.

The oil industry has been suffering from overproduction for the last few years. Although consumption increased prior to 1932, price cutting was not abated and peak production continued. Proration measures have helped, but have not provided a cure. What the federal government can do under the national industrial recovery act remains to be seen.

Denver Gas and Electric Light.

Investors' Guide: What do you think of Denver Gas and Electric Light first 5s?—M. A. C.

Answer: The 5s, due 1951, are considered sound.

PRESS WIRELESS GETS PERMIT TO EXPAND SERVICE

Denied Privilege of Carrying Stock Quotations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—Absolving Press Wireless, Inc., public utility radio subsidiary of the newspaper world, of willful violation of radio regulations by maintaining communications with Holland last winter, the federal radio commission today granted to that company regular licenses to expand its transoceanic radio service to communicate with Amsterdam, Berlin, Brussels, The Hague, Rio de Janeiro and Santiago, Chile.

In a lengthy decision, based on hearings held several weeks ago, the commission held that while the operation with Amsterdam was not authorized, it occurred because of a misunderstanding and because the commission's regulations regarding such operations had never before been interpreted.

Charge Outside Messages Sent.

The hearing followed protests filed with the commission regarding the nature of the traffic handled by Press Wireless and granting of the applications was resisted by R. C. A. Communications, Inc.; International Telephone and Telegraph corporation and Western Union, which charged that the traffic handled did not fall within the scope of "press" traffic.

In the same direction, however, the commission interpreted the term "press traffic" and held that Press Wireless, under its license, could not transmit to foreign points messages intended for other than newspapers or press associations.

Particular complaint had been made that the company, created four years ago, was sending stock quotations to Amsterdam for stock brokers, prior to their publication, and that this procedure violated the principle of "press" communications.

Code Messages Not Barred.

Moreover, it was maintained by the protesting companies that messages had been transmitted in code in alleged violation of international regulations, but the commission did not uphold this contention. The commission ruled that code is not prohibited by the commission's rules, but the rule does, however, place the duty upon the license to know the contents of the communications in order for it to determine whether the matter transmitted comes within the class of service authorized.

Press Wireless is a coöperative organization, the stock of which is owned by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago Daily News, New York Times, New York Herald-Tribune, Christian Science Monitor, Los Angeles Times, and San Francisco Chronicle. Its facilities, however, are open to use of all accredited newspapers and press associations.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP)—Cotton goods markets were firm today, and the price trend continued upward on the belief that costs of production will be greatly increased under the recovery act. Rayon advances of 5 cents per pound will be followed by others later in the summer, according to statements current among producers. Silk was firm and heavy silk goods were in steady demand for fall. Linen suitings were scarce for quick delivery. Burlaps held firm. Most lines of wool goods were withdrawn from sale pending the presentation and acceptance of a wool code at Washington.

RAIL CREDIT GROUP STARTS REPAYMENT OF FREIGHT SURCHARGES

New York, June 30.—The Railroad Credit corporation authorized today its first refunding of sums contributed to its treasury from the proceeds of the freight surcharges that took effect on Jan. 2, 1932. This was the initial step toward returning to the railroads the moneys they earned from the surcharges and pooled with the corporation for loans to needy members of their industry.

The disbursement took the form of a distribution, payable July 15, equal to 4 per cent of the amounts earned from the surcharges by each railroad participating in the pool. The sum of the distribution was $3,000,000, of which, however, only $1,200,000 will be made in cash.

E. G. Buckland, president of the corporation and chairman of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, explained that 60 per cent of the railroads which contributed to the pool also were borrowers from it. In accordance with the rules under which the pool was administered, these railroads will not receive their 4 per cent distribution in cash but in the form of a credit on the amounts they owe the pool. The amount of credit apportioned the borrowers was about $1,800,000.

Mr. Buckland said that it was not expected that the corporation would meet again for a continuation of its distributing activities until September.

Surcharge proceeds were collected in the loan pool in the period from Jan. 2, 1932, to last March 31 on the latter date, the surcharges were extended until this fall, but with the railroads that earned them being permitted to retain them. Consequently, the Railroad Credit corporation then changed from a lending to a collecting agency.

THREE REFINERS BOOST GASOLINE IN MIDDLE WEST

Advance Is ½ to 1 Cent, Effective Today.

Strengthening of wholesale markets has resulted in leading companies in the Chicago district raising the prices of their two top grades of gasoline, effective this morning.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana is putting half cent increases into effect, while the Shell Petroleum corporation and the Pure Oil company are raising their prices one cent. Prices of third grade gasoline will not be changed by any of the companies.

Standard Oil Explains Boost.

"On account of the pronounced strengthening of the refinery or wholesale market for premium and regular brands of gasoline, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana is advancing the service station and tank wagon prices of Standard Red Crown and Red Crown ethyl one-half cent a gallon, effective at 7 a. m. July 1. The price of third grade gasoline will remain unchanged."

The new prices charged by Standard will be 15.1 cents a gallon for regular gasoline and 17.6 for ethyl. The Pure Oil and Shell prices will be 15.6 cents a gallon for the regular and 18.1 cents for the ethyl.

Total Rise 2½ to 3 Cents.

Yesterday's price increase by Standard Oil makes the total for recent advances 2½ cents, including the ½ cent addditional federal tax. The Pure Oil and Shell advances total 3 cents, including the additional federal tax. The federal tax now totals 1½ cents a gallon.

The increases in prices are effective in the eleven states comprising the Standard Oil Company of Indiana territory. The Socony-Vacuum corporation advanced tank car gasoline ¼ cent and other methods of delivery 0.2 cent in the New York territory yesterday.

TESTIFIES MILLS CALLED DETROIT BANK SOLVENT

Director Tells of New York Banker's Bid.

Detroit, Mich., June 30.—(AP)—The statement of one witness that former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills believed the closed First National Bank-Detroit to be solvent, and of another that the former treasury head sent a New York banker here to discuss plans for reorganization, tonight went into the records of the one-man Detroit bank jury.

Similarly, a plan was revealed in motion for reopening the First National—a plan which, according to James O. Murfin, director and attorney for the bank, would enable payment "at once" of 100 cents on the dollar to all depositors. To date the depositors have received 40 per cent.

Tells of Mills Statement.

It was Murfin who told the grand jury, holding public hearings into the closing of two local national banks, that Mills informed him in a Washington conference the First National was solvent and should not have been closed. The conference, he said, came five days after the Michigan bank holiday began.

Ernest C. Kanzler, chairman of the executive committee of the closed Guardian National Bank of Commerce, and a brother-in-law of Edsel Ford, testified it was at Secretary Mills' request that George W. Davison, chairman of the board of Central Hanover Bank and Trust company of New York came here a few days after the bank holiday was declared. Davison, he said, offered to take over the two national banks if their assets were written down to 22 cents on the dollar. The plan, they said, was refused.

Mills Criticizes Leyburn.

Murfin, a former Circuit judge, said he conferred with Mills at the request of Detroit bankers who wished to find out the treasury department plans in regard to the closed banks.

"I told him that his agent, A. P. Leyburn, then chief examiner for the seventh federal reserve district, had declared the First National insolvent," said Murfin. "Mills said, 'He had no right to do that. Your bank was solvent. Had it been insolvent, it would have been my duty to have put in a receiver. I alone had the right to say whether or not it was insolvent.'"

Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien this afternoon received an acknowledgment of his telegram to President Roosevelt asking him to compel federal officials to testify in the grand jury investigation.

The telegram signed by Stephen Early, assistant secretary to the President, stated: "Telegram received. Will be laid before the President immediately upon his return. Will advise later regarding your request for an appointment. Am sending copies of your message to the secretary of the treasury."

NEW BANK TAKES OVER CLOSED ONE IN INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., June 30.—[Special.]—Organization of the new American National bank as a successor to the Fletcher American bank was completed tonight. Within ten days it is expected $10,000,000 will be released to the more than 300 correspondent banks and hundreds of depositors in the Fletcher American National bank.

It is believed that the new bank will be the first to be organized under the recently enacted Glass-Steagall bill which limits stockholder liability to 100 per cent assessment.

LANDIS AWARD GROUP TO WAR ON BUILDING EVILS

Plan to Start Campaign of Education.

BY AL CHASE.

Declaring that many of the evils which marked the old days of racketeering in the construction industry are again becoming apparent, the Landis Award Employers' association yesterday announced plans for a campaign of education to remedy the situation.

"Those of us who are constantly in touch with developments in the building industry realize the possibilities of a recurrence of the formerly intolerable conditions unless a united front is maintained by all interested in preserving the results of our original efforts," said Charles P. Peirce, executive vice president.

Danger of Unfair Practices.

"While it's not generally known that there's been a certain amount of backsliding in the building industry which may bring back certain decidedly unfair practices, we of the Landis Award association realize the danger and therefore feel that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

"It's our purpose to start immediately upon a campaign which will have as its basic purpose the reawakening, among contractors and manufacturers of materials which go into construction, of the spirit of coöperation which was responsible for the foundation of this organization.

"It's planned to start out immediately a large force of men who will endeavor to obtain the support of all responsible contractors and manufacturers who are interested in avoiding a repetition of the outlawed customs which before 1921 were the cause of a virtual employment monopoly that cost the builders of Chicago many, many millions of dollars in excessive and unwarranted expenditures.

Place 275,000 in Jobs.

"Since its formation in 1921 the Landis Award Employers' association has been responsible for the placement of 275,000 building tradesmen in thousands of jobs in the Chicago territory. More than 135 contractors representing every trade in the industry are now members of the association. In 1932 approximately 20 per cent of the construction work completed in this district was undertaken by members of the organization."

Fred Bulley is president of the association. Other officers are: H. H. Hadsall, first vice president; R. F. Wilson, second vice president; Phil W. Olmen, secretary; Gerhardt F. Meyne, treasurer. Directors include H. B. Barnard, Charles F. Freutel, Frank W. Lawton, Otto Randolph, Ernest A. Schmidt, S. B. Smithson, Frank H. Stowell, and A. C. Warren.

Receipts for June Highest Since February.

The break in the hog market was checked for a short time at the opening yesterday, with spots as much as 5 to 10 cents above the average of Thursday, but trading turned sluggish again in midsession, and closed slightly lower. Underweights and packing sows fell back mostly 10 cents toward the finish. Both the top and average prices were unchanged at $4.65 and $4.35 respectively, showing 10 and 15 cents advance compared with the close of last week.

Receipts dropped off a little more yesterday. The run at Chicago of 21,000 was the smallest in three weeks for a Friday. Arrivals for the last three days at 74,000 compare with 90,000 for the same three days last week, but they are considerably larger than a year ago.

June Receipts Heavy.

Figures compiled yesterday at the eleven leading markets indicated that receipts for June were above any month last winter and heaviest since February, 1932. The total for the 11 points at 2,264,000 was largest for June since 1928 and 15 per cent above the four year average. It is the first time since 1911 that June receipts of hogs have exceeded the January movement. The January total was 2,207,000. March receipts totaled only 1,578,000.

Yesterday's cattle receipts at only 2,000 consisted mostly of plain quality stock. Prices were mostly steady with Thursday considering the kinds available, although the price range was about the lowest for a Friday in recent weeks. The best steers on the market averaged 1332 pounds and sold at $6.00, making the lowest Friday top since April 28.

Demand for Heavy Cattle.

Long-fed medium and heavy steers obtained the premiums all this week, with packing houses showing a marked preference for the cattle exceeding 1200 pounds in weight and often discriminating against stock that weighed less than 1,000 ponds. Unfinished cattle forced in by drought and dried up pastures took a hard jolt near the close of the week and often showed as much as 50 cents loss compared with the close of last week. Inferior grades of steers sold yesterday as low as $2.50 to $3.50.

Aged sheep were hit yesterday. Prices sank mostly 25 cents, with heavy grades off 50 cents. The latter closed at $1.00 to $1.25, with only top grades of light ewes reaching $2.50 at the finish. Closely sorted native lambs sold to packers up to $7.25, while one load of Idaho range lambs reached $7.50, indicating a fully steady market for best grades. Sheep and lambs show 50 to 75 cents loss for the week.

STOP LOSS SELLING DEPRESSES LARD PRICE

Stop loss selling of lard early in the day carried prices down, but improved commission house buying later and a rally in grains brought a partial recovery with net losses of 2½ to 5 cents on the most active trading futures. Liverpool lard was mostly steady and export clearances were light.

Cash prices were 2½ cents higher at $6.45, with loose up 5 cents at $5.55, while leaf dropped 12½ cents to $5.50. Cash bellies were unchanged at $7.25 and futures were 2½ cents higher on July and 5 cents lower on September. Prices follow:

ALLIED CHEMICAL, STOCK EXCHANGE SETTLE DISPUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—The New York Stock exchange and Allied Chemical and Dye corporation have agreed on a basis of settlement of matters of controversy that had resulted in a threat to remove the Allied shares from listing Aug. 23, the stock exchange announced today.

The original cause of the controversy was the refusal of the Allied Chemical and Dye company to make detailed earnings reports to stockholders. Recently a committee representing some minority stockholders of Allied Chemical announced its intention of seeking the election of several new directors in a campaign for fuller publicity for stockholders.

Orlando F. Weber, president of Allied Chemical charged that the committee was acting for Solvay & Cie, Belgium chemical combine, and was seeking to bring the company under foreign domination. The Belgian interests were represented as controlling a 20 per cent interest in Allied through the holdings of an American investment subsidiary.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP)—Crude rubber futures closed steady, July, 6.26c, nominal; September, 6.58c bid; December, 6.86@6.87c; January, 6.96c. Smoked ribbed spot closed 6.32c nominal.
